Carter Aylesworth was the goat. Every picture has one. If the piece called for a poor devil jailed for twenty years by mistake, he was the man. If the pretty heroine had to hurry home at night from the factory to her dependent old grandfather, it was Carter Aylesworth who submitted to shawls, crutches and hotwater bags. If Indians aught and tortured a lone white man o be rescued later by a husky hero, Carter was the victim. If a family starved, he was right there in the limelight. He was confidence man, book agent, shyster, thief, Anything that was altogether and entirely wanting in glory.

"Poor ting!" Miss Harriet soliloquized at first. "Of all the mean things that man has to do! Why, he must hate himself!"

But as time went on with no improvement in the situations, she became indignant. "Why can't they give him a decent part sometimes? Couldn't he save a baby from a burning house, or vent his righteous wrath on the vilain about to murder somebody by hitting him with a club? It isn't fair for them to let that conceited young Farnsby have all the Monte Cristo parts. If they did play that, poor Mr. Aylesworth would be De Morcert or one of those dreadful men!"

You know what they say that pity s akin to. Yes—love came next.

The work which the Belgian Relief Commission is doing for humanity has never been equalled. For nearly two years now, from two to three million destitute Belgians have been fed, and horrible wholesale starvation averted. While the Relief Fund has only been sufficient to provide the barest necessities, these people, who have absolutely nothing else, have been saved by the three slices of bread and the pint of soup dealt out to each one daily.

Can it be kept up, on a steadily growing scale, till Belgium is free again?

That depends largely on Canada, and partly

The demands on the Fund are steadily growing, as more and more Belgian families reach the end of their resources. More money must be given to keep up even the slender rations now possible. But the end of the war does not seem so far off now, and if we can keep up and even increase our givings for a little while longer, we shall be able to save the heroic Belgian people for a new and regenerated Belgium.
