RESTIGOUCHE BOYS
KILLED IN ACTION

Homes Mourn for Sons Who Have Made the Supreme Sacrifice.

Mrs. James Black of River Louison received the sad news last week, that her son Gunner Willard Fraser Black has been officially reported killed in action, Sept. 11th. Gunner Black enlisted April 3rd, 1916 with the 58th Howitzer Battery, C. F. A., in Fredericton. He went overseas in September and spent a few months in training in England and crossed to France with a draft to the 15th Field Battery, and had been on active service there for nearly two years.

Gunner Black was twenty-two years of age, and a bright young man. He had never been sick or wounded and his bright cheery letters filled his friends with the hope that they would see him again. But he has given his life for King and Country.

The following letter has been received by Mrs. Black giving particulars of her son's death.

France, Sept. 15th, 1918.

To Mrs. J. Black, Louison, N. B.

Dear Mrs. Black:

It is with deepest regret and sympathy that I inform you of the particulars of the death of your son, No. 326932 Gr. W. F. Black, on the evening of September 11th.

He was standing beside his gun, waiting for orders, when a shell exploded near by, a fragment of which struck him, killing him instantly. It was one of the misfortunes of warfare as the shell dropped far enough away to do no harm in ordinary circumstances, but it so happened that Willard was right in line of this small fragment and it was his fate to pay the supreme sacrifice.

Your son was one of the ablest gunners in my battery, and it was only three days before that I had submitted his name for Bombardier. He was a willing industrious worker. He was never too tired to help any one, and was a general favorite with all the men, and his loss is severely felt by the entire Battery.

His body is buried in a Canadian Cemetery some distance behind the lines, together with others of his comrades who have fallen, and the Battery is to-day erecting a cross to his memory.

I know that nothing I can say or do will in any way compensate for the loss of one so dear. But I must assure you that your boy met the death of a Christian Soldier nobly performing his duty to God and Country.

I am,

Yours respectfully,

R. S. SPARLING,

Lieut.

O. C. for 16th Battery, C. F. A.

By a telegram received from Ottawa, Mr. Amsia Thompson of Dawsonville received the sad news that his son Pte. Neil Thompson had been killed in action on Sept. 2nd.

Pte. Thompson enlisted in August 1915 with the 64th Battalion at Sussex, later being transferred to the 104th and going to Woodstock, N. B. where he was in training until July 1916 when he sailed for overseas. After remaining in England for a year he was sent to France with the 26th Battalion but was again drafted later on into the 78th Battalion.

He was 26 years of age and a member of the Anglican Church, highly respected and a favorite with his neighbors and those who knew him, the news of his death has cast a gloom throughout the settlement and Dawsonville is again called to mourn the death of another of its brave boys who have given their lives for King and Country and in losing Pte. Thompson loses an honorable young man.

Besides his father, he leaves to mourn two sisters and six brothers at home and one at the front, Pte. John with the 26th Battalion who was wounded and gassed last summer but is again on duty. Another brother, Pte. James Thompson formerly of the 132nd Battalion has been missing since June 8th, 1917.

Much sympathy is felt for the family but it is a consolation to them to know that he made the supreme sacrifice in defence of his country and those dear to him at home, and his conduct must serve as a patriotic inspiration to those left behind.

Yours respectfully,

R. S. SPARLING,

Lieut.

O. C. for 16th Battery, C. F. A.

MEMORIAL SERVICE AT DALHOUSIE

Impressive Service Held in St. Mary's Church in Honor of Frederic Pallen.

Dalhousie, Oct. 8.—An impressive Memorial Service was held in St. Mary's Episcopal Church on Sunday evening last in memory of Private Frederic Pallen recently reported killed in action.

Rev. R. J. Coleman in the following address very feelingly spoke to the large congregation of the boys who have given their lives for freedom and justice. The following is a synopsis of his address:—

God is love. The smoke of battle rises in thick clouds and obscures that fact. Lust for conquest, disregard for the right of others, has dominated the policy of Germany for the last forty years and more. But the hour is coming, when such evils shall be banished from the world. Justice, hope and love will yet win the day.

"Truth, crushed to earth, shall rise again.

The eternal years of God are hers; But error, wounded, writhes with pain,

And dies among her worshippers.

Our brother, Frederic Pallen, whose death we mourn to-night, has nobly done his sphere to bring this about. He sleeps his last sleep. His shattered body is somewhere in France, awaiting the coming of the Lord and the resurrection of the dead. His sacrifice brings nearer the day of victory. He, and others like him, died that we may live. These splendid fellows have laid down their lives that you and I might be saved from the pitiless cruelty of the unrepentant Turk, and from the coarse brutality of the Hun. These splendid fellows have laid down their lives that this flag, which stands everywhere for justice and liberty, might be sustained. They gave their lives, these gallant fellows, that the world might not be prussianized.

The ever increasing casualty lists scanned with anxious eyes, as they are published day by day. They bring home to Canadians, that Canada is at war, and they teach the plain lesson that to accomplish anything truly great and noble, costs. Proud we are of our men in this war, but proud to know that the present war is in the line of human progress. In pre-war days, the enemies of Britain were decided in their own opinions that we were a decadent race, that our best days were behind us; and not a few among us had a trembling fear that such statements were largely true. But the war has proved that we were poor judges of the men of our time. "Rarely equalled, and never surpassed," is the only judgment we can pass upon the heroism and self-sacrifice that this colossal struggle has evolved. Our heroic dead were not professional soldiers. To them, war was inde-cribably hateful, but they fought, under a sense of duty and the dangers and privations of a soldier's life. As we think of those brave dead, the great words of Milton rise to our lips:

"Nothing is here for tears, nothing to wail,

Or knock the breast, no weakness, no contempt,

Dispraise or blame, nothing but well and fair,

And what may quiet us, in a death so noble."

We, who stay at home, will reap the benefit of the sacrifice made by our brother, and the men who to-day are fighting, and dying for justice and freedom. Are we going to prove ourselves worthy of the sacrifice they have made, or are making? It is said that a wonderful spirit of brotherhood has been born among the men in the trenches. The wretched racial distinctions and the sectarian and social distinctions, which cause so much unhappiness here, are forgotten there. What about ourselves. Is this terrible struggle in which we are engaged, going to open our hearts and enlarge our souls, so that we shall be able in the future, to fix our minds on the big things that unite us, rather than on the petty things that divide? In the past few years, there has been a good deal of talk about the re-union of Christendom. It has been talk, and little more. We must learn a great deal more about charity and toleration, before we can settle down to the actual work of re-union. "The churches must get together. The churches have been busy insisting on their separate denominations. The world in the meantime, has forgotten God. The Great question just now is whether Jesus Christ is to be the Lord of the world or not. Let us, who believe in Lord Jesus Christ, insist by word and deed, that he is Lord of men, that his teachings are the one foundation on which alone, men can stand and live, and work, that his teachings are the only foundation on which men can hope to live in a spirit of good-will and brotherhood. Let us who believe in Jesus Christ, insist by word and act, that the acceptance of Jesus Christ and His teaching can alone save the world from war and destruction; that nations must base relationships on His teaching as individuals, and that the Kingdom of the world must eventually become the Kingdom of the Lord Christ. There are the big things of life. Let us teach them by word and by deed. So shall we put to good use, the privileges secured to us and to our children by the life-blood shed on the battlefields of France and elsewhere.

WEDDINGS

BROWN—MACKAY.

Married at Campbellton, N. B., Oct. 1st, by Rev. J. F. Rowley, Mr. Edgar Brown and Miss Isabel MacKay both of Escuminac, Que.

LITTLE—BECK.

On Wednesday Oct. 2nd, 1918 at Trinity Church, Brockville, Ont., by the Rev. D. Woodcock, Ethel A., second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Beck, 2679 Hutchison St., Montreal, Que., to Elmer F. Little of Revelstoke, B. C.

MANN—HANSOM.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. Wm. Hansom, Flat Lands, N. B., on September 28th when his daughter Elmira J. was united in marriage to Mr. Ephraim J. Mann of Matapedia. The Rev. C. P. Wilson performed the ceremony in the presence of friends and relatives, the bridal couple standing under an arch of maple leaves, the rooms also being tastefully decorated.

After the ceremony supper was served. Many beautiful gifts were received testifying to the popularity of the bride.

TWO LIQUOR CASES.

A Balmoral resident who got on the train at Bathurst last Friday afternoon was not able to carry home a bottle of "O be Joyful" as Inspector T. Mann happened to be on the same train and took a strong liking to the stuff himself. He appeared before Judge Matheson on Saturday and was fined $60 and costs. Another man appeared before His Honor yesterday and was fined $50, and costs for infraction of the Liquor Law.

DO NOT NEGLECT YOUR EYES

We hear much of people who sacrifice everything to sartorial splendor. They would go without dinner every day for a new pair of shoes.

Sacrificing health for appearance is not good policy—it does not make for health a real happiness.

Not only do you squint and frown when you neglect your eyes, but you seriously injure your health.

Better have a careful examination made.
