For indisputable proof of our work look at the result in the St. Lawrence division of this city where a strong tory candidate was defeated, although a popular brewer, and in fact one who was recently elected by the same people to represent them in the city council, and then again look at Manitoba, where Hugh John has been also defeated owing to his probibitory law. Letters and telegrams received during the last three weeks from every section of the country informed me of the silent brotherly understanding on this question—silent because we feared awakening the fanatical prohibitionists; brotherly, because we all felt we owed a debt of gratitude to a government that was fearless enough to treat the plebescite vote as enhered. because we all felt we owed a debt of gratt tude to a government that was fearless enough to treat the plebescite vote as ephe-

The trade now looks forward to a readjustment and a more equitable legislation of the excise and customs law pertaining to wines and spirits. The law, as it stands on the statutes, is inconsistent and unjust, and and I have no doubt that we will receive fair play at the hands of the present government, if not we will be compelled to hand our case over to the opposition for relief. Our politics are bread and butter first, last and all the time.

Election Echoes.

In last week's MONITOR we gave the best election news obtainable up to time of going to press, but in three close constituencies in the province our report needs revision.

In Halifax the party ticket was split, and Roohe headed Kenny by 10 votes, the counstanding: Borden 5690; Roche 5551; Kenny 5541; Wallace 5361.

In Pictou, Bell was elected with his col.

standing: Borden 5690; Roche 5551; Kenny 5541; Wallace 5361.

In Picton, Bell was elected with his colleague: Tupper 3580; Bell 3490; McDonald 3435; McGregor 3386.

In Harts, Russell was elected by a majority of 6.

In Nova Scotia the Liberals gained Annapolis, Cape Breton (2), Richmond. The Conservatives gained Colohester.

In New Brunswick the Liberals gained Alonand, York. The Conservatives gained Gloucester, Kent, Restigouche, Westmoreland, York. The Conservatives gained Kings.

On the Island the Liberals gained Kings.

In the Territories and British Columbia the seats probably remain as in 1896. One gain for each party is reported from the Territories.

Creisis in British Trade.

Predictions are now freely made that England is on the eve of a great trade depression as a natural concequence of the increased content of the sugmented price of necessities. Twenty three shillings now buys only what twenty shillings did two years ago.

"Moreover, the working classes, especially the railway servants, are seething with discontent, and the agitation for increased wages is proceeding rapidly and strikes are threatened because the advance in the cost of living is tantamount to a reduction in wages. I am afraid we have a big fight before us, as the number of the unemployed will be largely augmented."

ANOTHER MARINE HORROR The City of Monticello Foundered off Yarmouth.

THIRTY-SIX LIVES LOST. One of the saddest marine disasters on the Nova Scotia coast, in which a local vessel was the victim, occurred off Yarmouth on Satur-day about noon, when the Yarmouth Steamday about noon, when the Yarmouth Steamship Company's steamer City of Montfeello, on her way from St. John to Yarmouth, foundered. Thirty-three souls on board perished, and only four were saved.

Capt. Smith, master of the steamer Pharmouth, salia, who was a passenger, makes the fol-salia, who was a passenger, makes the following statement:

We left St. John at 11 o'clock on Friday morning. The weather was not at all bad. The sea, in fact, was very smooth to Petite Passage. I saw Capt. Harding, who said he was thinking of putting into Digby before reaching Petite, but about half an hour before reaching there, the weather looked finer, with indications of the wind hauling to the northwest, and he concluded to try to reach Yarmouth. By the time we reached Cape St. Mary's it was blowing strong, but the ship made fairly good weather all through the night. The morning at 7 o'clock we were about five miles from Cape Forchi light. After finding his position, Capt. Harding decided to run for the harbor, but found it impossible to get the ship before the wind, although he used every endeavor to do so. The ship was making water, and we began to jettison cargo, after supplying several casks of kerosene oil to smooth the water, as water continued to gain, we decided to

This was about 11 o'clock in the morning This was about 11 o'clock in the morning. After getting two boats out on the port side, we placed all the women, three in number, in the first boat, and in five minutes after the boats had cleared the steamer she gradually settled down on the port side and disappeared. I saw steam escaping, but if there was an explosion of boilers I was so engrossed with my boat that I did not notice it. The fires in one boiler had been out for two hours, having been put out by rising water in the hold. There were no scenes of confusion. Everything was orderly, and there was no excitement whatever. Capt. Harding and all the officers did their duty to the last, and the last I saw of him he was standing by the the last I saw of him he was standing by the rail attending to putting a boat into the water. Capt. Harding's conduct

WAS SEAMANLIKE THROUGHOUT. After the ship foundered we were driven to the land by the terrific gale, and landed at Pembroke, about four miles away, in a very heavy surf, our boat being broken to atoms in landing. Murphy, the second mate, and the two lady passengers were drowned. We never saw nor heard of them after the sea recoiled. Those who were saved were thrown upon the beach, and it was only by a miracle It was after a severe struggle that we gained a place of safety. The cook and the steward a place of safety. The cook and the stewardess received slight in juries in landing. The last we saw of the other boat she had apparently filled with water, and we fear there was no hope of ware occupants being saved.
They could not have lived long enough in that raging sea to get to land. After reaching a house we were furnished with dry clothing, and all except the stewardess were brought to Yarmouth. The Monticello had a full cargo of general goods, about 20 carloads in all.
The steamer City of Monticello (originally the City of Norfolk) was built by Messrs. Harland & Hollingsworth of Wilmington, Delaware, in 1866. She was an iron steamer, with side paddles, and was schooner rigged cemented and the vessel painted inside and out. Repairs and alterations made by the Bay of Fundy Co. cost something over $20, 000. The Monticello ran about nine years on the bay route, when the business was s cut up by competition that it became unre
