

TO THE ADVENTURERS, FAVOV

rers, and well-willers of the enterprife for the inhabiting,
and planting in Cape Briton,
now New Galloway in America.

Entle Reader,

It hath beene the policie universall, from the creation of the World unto this time, of all civile States, the replenishing of the World with Colonies of their owne subjects. Adam and Eva did first beginne this pleasant worke to plant the Earth to succeeding posteritie. Noah, and his familie began againe the second plantation. And the confusion of tongues at Babel, made division of States, scattering as manie Colonies over the face of the Earth after the Flood, as there was diversitie of Languages: and their seede as it still increased, hath still planted new Countries, one after another; and so the Worlde to that estate whereinto it is.
