LOYAL ITALIANS RECEIVE OVATION

HONOR OVERSEA MEN

Benefit Performance for Italian Red Cross Was a Great Success.

Italy, and the sons of Italy who are shortly to leave Toronto to take their place with the allies now fighting the battle for right and liberty on the sanguinary fields of Europe, were given right royal honor at the Alexandra on Saturday evening, when a large audience contributed to the efforts of the management of the Robins players to make the benefit for the Italian Red Cross a great success.

Signor Marino, the Italian consul, wearing his state uniform, with his handsome wife, occupied a box which was beautifully draped with magnificent silk flags of Canada and Italy, and a number of pretty Italian girls wearing the colors of their country made sales between the acts, while a signora in the native Italian dress sold the button of the allies in the vestibule.

The national anthem was followed by the Italian Royal March, the opening notes of which were received with applause of recognition and a second rising of the audience. The members of the Italian contingent, who were the guests of the evening, occupied seats in the centre of the floor of the house and evidently appreciated the many scenes of "The Marriage Game" performance.

Pleasure to Assist. At the close of the second act Mr. Robins made a speech expressing the pleasure of himself and company in being able to assist the patriotic work of the moment by giving their services to a beautiful basket of flame colored carnations and asters, the tall handle of which was adorned with a large ribbon bearing the inscription: "The presentation was accompanied by the request that the consul's wife would accept the position of honorary president of the Italian Red Cross of Toronto.

Signora Marino rose and gracefully bowed their thanks and acceptance. Letters of greeting were then read by Mr. Robins from His Grace Archbishop McNeill and from his worship the mayor, who regretted his inability to be present in person.

Afterwards souvenirs were distributed to the soldiers who are on the eve of departing for the front of the Red Cross. Rev. Dr. Treacy, who had formerly spent several years in English and Italian, spoke both in English and Italian, and with the wish of the archbishop, he said that they should do all possible to help the patriotic cause, and so the more accustomed to speaking in the church, he now appeared on the stage.

Since his stay in Italy he had learned to love the Italians almost as much as he loved the Irish, and he knew them to be doing each his part in the prerogative of citizenship.

Rev. Father Vigilanti, pastor of the Italian Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, addressed his compatriots in their own tongue, his words being impressively received.

The last speaker was the Italian consul, who from his place in the box made a picturesque figure in his rich uniform, and with the enthusiasm of the occasion giving eloquence to his brief but spirited address. Speaking in very fair English, considering his acquaintance with it, he spoke for several weeks. Signor Marino thanked from the bottom of his heart "the brave, dramatic company, all the ladies and gentlemen and Mrs. Ambrose Small" for the benefit of the evening. Italy, he said, was fighting with the allies for the cause of right.

Victory was, however, assured. The concluding sentence, "Long live Canada, long live King George, long live Victor Emmanuel," was received with the enthusiastic applause of the house.

The climax of the evening was reached when the Italians lined up at the door of the theatre after the play end formed a guard of honor for the Consul and Signora Marino, and with enthusiastic cries of "Viva l'Italia!" the party was escorted to their motor, from which the consul was again obliged to address the audience.

Nor did the fervor of the Latin race expend itself at this point, for at the close of his remarks the consul was greeted by still other expressions of good-will from those who had assembled.

The impression made by the new consul and his wife was evidently most favorable, and the Italian Red Cross tonight at the Alexandra will furnish many pleasant thoughts for Canada's Italian soldiers.

Hundreds of Kew Beach residents attended the patriotic rally on Saturday night in Kew Beach Gardens, held by the York Rangers. At the close of the meeting the Q.O.R. recruiting office on Danforth avenue was crowded and a large crowd gathered on the sidewalk. Finally it was announced that thirty-three men had enlisted for overseas service.

Despite the efforts of J. Pluvius to break up the gathering with number of heavy showers, he was unsuccessful, and with the aid of raincoats and umbrellas the people stayed to the very end, cheering vociferously at the witty and patriotic remarks of the speakers.

Previous to the commencement, the Frankland Corps of the Toronto Military Training Association, headed by the band of the Queen's Own Rifles, paraded along Danforth avenue and were responsible for the presence of a large number. During the evening an excellent musical program was rendered by the band.

Dr. E. A. McDonald occupied the chair and speeches were made by The Hon. M.L.A., Lieut. Sampson of the Q.O.R., Dr. R. J. Dwyer, Dr. Norman Allen and E. J. Hearn, K.C. Sergeants Lees and Marks, two of the boys who have returned injured from the front, told of their experiences in Flanders and were cheered to the echo.

The recruiting sergeants at the Danforth branch of the Q.O.R. have every reason to be proud of their record, for within the last three weeks they have rounded up 170 recruits.

HOME GARDENERS NOT GETTING ALL

Comparatively Few Raising Anything Like Amount Possible.

IMPROVEMENT SHOWN

Progress of Those Competing for Second Time is Very Marked.

That only a comparatively small number of the "home gardeners" of Toronto, who are enterprising enough to utilize their back gardens, are raising anything like the crops they should, or getting the full value that might be obtained from their small plots, is being revealed by the judging of this year's 600 gardens entered in the Dovescourt Land Co.'s home garden contest.

This fact is strikingly shown in the improvement made in the gardens of those who competed in last year's contest. Prof. Hutt, the former head of the department of horticulture at the O. A. C., who was secured to not only judge the gardens, but to assist the contestants in every way, has been watching with special interest the progress of those who were competing for the second time.

I have visited over 500 gardens this summer," said Prof. Hutt, "and one of the most encouraging features is the difference shown in these particular gardens. There are some backyards I find it difficult to recognize as the yards of a year ago, so marked has the advance been. The average city gardeners use fair judgment in the crops he plants, but in the great majority of cases he is only getting a part of the yield he could by scientific cropping and rotation. That is what we are trying to encourage.

This principle applies, of course, to flower gardens, where it is necessary to have a steady succession of flowers, but we are emphasizing it chiefly in vegetable growing, for it is in the growing of foodstuffs that the home gardener today can render the best service not only to his own pocket but to the cause of greater production.

It is to encourage intensive cultivation of this kind that the prize list of the contest has this year been augmented by the addition of prizes for records in cost and production.

This is a section of both Tube and Tire. The Inner Tube is pictured to show the layers which compose it. In completed Tubes these layers, of course, are vulcanized together into one solid rubber Tube.

Goodyear Tubes Can't Leak

They Outlast Any Tire

Inner tubes are made to hold air. These that are made of one thick piece of rubber are apt to be porous. Neither can foreign matter be detected. So the air escapes and your tires run into trouble. Tubes that are colored contain much mineral matter. That, heats up under friction and destroys the tube before its time.

Goodyear Inner Tubes are made of thin sheets of pure natural gray rubber. So the slightest flaw is detected and eliminated. Then these perfect sheets are wrapped layer on layer and vulcanized into an inseparable unit. The valve patch, too, is made part of the tube. It is not stuck on. And so our method makes the tube proof against inherent leaks.

14 Per Cent Heavier

Countless tests have proved that Goodyear Laminated Inner Tubes outlast, on the average, any tire.

Yet since these tests we have added extra layers. The smaller sizes are 12 1/2 per cent thicker, the larger sizes 16 per cent—all pure rubber. They average 14 per cent heavier.

20 Per Cent Lower Priced

Besides giving extra quality, we cut our prices 20 per cent on tubes when we announced our great reduction on Goodyear Fortified Tires. That was February 15th—in the face of the war tax on all our raw materials.

And that reduction—our third within two years—was earned by the legions of users that Goodyear Tubes and Tires have won.

Their demand compelled us to double our factory

ATTEMPT TO KILL FELLOW CHINAMAN

Lee Jim Released on Bail, Alleged to Have Assaulted Lee Mon

IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Victim Rushed to Hospital, and Assailant Under Arrest Again

Within one hour from the time he got out on bail on the charge of keeping an opium joint, Lee Jim, a Chinaman, living at 166 1-2 York street, was back in the Court street station cells, charged with attempt to murder Lee Ko Mon, another Chinaman, living at the same address.

Lee Jim obtained his bail at 3:45 on Saturday afternoon and apparently lost no time in getting back to 166 1-2 York street. At 4:30 he armed himself with a sharp meat ax and went into the house where he knew Lee Ko Mon to be.

After going upstairs he encountered his enemy and without any warning struck him across the head with the ax. Lee Ko Mon suffered a terrible cut, but he courageously struggled with his assailant and successfully kept him off until other Chinamen arrived to assist him. The police were then informed and Lee Jim was ar-

AUSTRALIAN FINDS PREHISTORIC SKULL

Fossilized Headpiece Twenty-Five Thousand Years Old Presented to University.

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 7.—The first truly fossil skull discovered in Australia was recently handed over as a gift to the University of Sydney by Joynton Smith of the state legislative council. This is the skull which caused such a sensation at the Congress of the British Association of Science last September. It is believed to be 25,000 years old. Since the British association's convention the petrified encrustation inside and outside the skull has been removed by Prof. David and Smith of the university.

At the formalities attending the receipt of the skull from the donor, Prof. David explained that it belonged to the Pleistocene period, and was found after a flood 31 years ago in the bed of a creek near Talgai ranch, on the Darling Downs, in the State of Queensland, by a stockman.

Prof. Smith said that the sequence of teeth in the skull was such as to show that it was that of a youth about 15, yet one of the teeth was the largest human tooth yet discovered. The extremely primitive characteristics of the skull were so great, he said, as to warrant its being placed with such anthropological specimens as the prehistoric Heidelberg jaw and the Pitcairn skull.
