SUCH a well-known and popular establishment as the "The Elite," necessarily enjoys an extensive and high class patronage with the public. The sole proprietor, W. H. Lucas, late of "Truefitts," London, has been in business in Vancouver for 5 years, and his wide experience has given him a high reputation over the entire Province. The intricacies surrounding the care and development of the human hair are well worthy of the attention of each individual person, and many can avoid the undesired prominence acquired in becoming prematurely hairless. Private apartments are provided for ladies, under the care of Miss Cora Laurance and able assistants. Theatrical goods of every description are manufactured on the premises and imported. Hot and cold baths at all hours adds to the completeness of this up-to-date establishment.

As packers, horse dealers and general live stock dealers they do a large business and possess every facility to keep their stock of fresh meats in perfect condition. They also have a sausage making department in connection with the business. The Company consists of W. A. McIntosh, C. W. R. Thompson and J. B. Greaves, with W. A.
