A small deposit will hold it for your convenience.

The World's Selections Canadian Sportsmen In the Great War

SPORTING EDITOR WORLD'S. As circumstances will prevent my returning to Ottawa, it is my intention to spend the winter months in completing a record and story of the part played by Canadian sportsmen in the recent war. For this purpose, I would ask the secretary of every organization devoted to any kind of sport, both summer and winter, indoor and outdoor, to send me to the address given below, the names of every member who enlisted, with the rank, casualties incurred, if any, and decorations earned, again if any, and any other particulars of interest, such as the engagements or battles taken part in. In furtherance of this object, which promises to be difficult to complete, I would request every paper in the country to copy this announcement. In view of my fifty years on the Canadian press, and forty years as sporting editor, I trust I can write a true and interesting story of the part played by Canadian sportsmen in the recent war. In asking this, I am asking too much. H. J. P. Good, 643 Bathurst St., Toronto, Ont.
