TORONTO, April 11.—The Homer liquor drama is drawing to an end. At the royal commission investigating the Dewart-Ayearst charges today all evidence was taken. After this has been heard, the commission will commence the investigation of the Slavin case.

Before hearing evidence, Sir William Meredith read the following letter from Mr. P. F. Cronin, reporter of the World:

"Toronto, April 9, 1919.

"Osgoode Hall.

"Mr. White read out the headlines on the report. "Government Employees Ordered Cases of Whiskey Sent to Homer." read Mr. White. "Is that a fair headline for the World to publish?"

"What's the use of asking my opinion? I didn't write the headline. In my opinion it was a public scandal to send whiskey to Homer under the circumstances."

"It has your approval?"

"It has."

"Mr. Commissioner,—When the witness, Smith, today undertook to state what he had heard, or thought, concerning removal of liquor from the Provincial Government warehouse, you ordered what he had said struck from e record. 'When the witness, White, who had admitted lying, undertook to utter a libellous suggestion of his, concerning me, you refused to permit my objec-"On account of long journalistic connection with your own political career, I did not pursue my protest. I hereby make a memorandum of the obviously unfair and partial ruling by you in your conduct of the commission. I am respectfully, P. F. CRONIN." Sir William Displeased. When he had read the letter, Sir William said: "That is a most improper letter for Mr. Cronin to write. I could mpose a severe penalty, a fine or other renalty upon him, but I consider the pest punishment is to make the letter public, and have it entered in the records of the commission.

Flavelle were the only two in the department who knew of the contemplated coup which the Employers' Detective Agency planned to pull off at Homer. He had no knowledge of the details of the scheme. He merely knew that a cargo of liquor was going from Toronto to Homer and he planned to have some officers on hand at the time to take liquor and men when they arrived.

No Political Significance. No Political Significance.

Mr. Ayearst denied that he had every said anything that could be construed as meaning that the money to pay for the liquor had come from the department. The coup had no political significance, and it had not occurred to him till he got to St. Catharines and saw the bills in the windows that there was an election on.

Question as to a World report which suggested that the arrest of Smith and Lavell was a "frame up" to cover up an attempt to corrupt the riding, Mr. Ayearst declared that he had regarded this as the vaporings of an idiotic mind, or of one who was bound to tell falsehoods to make trouble.

Mr. Ayearst's counsel, T. L. Monahan, took him through the various points in the speech of H. H. Dewart in the Legislature, which resulted in the inquiry and the witness denied them sall. He admitted that he had used the expression, "the blackest lie out of hell," but that was in reference to the statement that the liquor was been been properly more two or three hours."

Booze Left Unattended.

Mr. McKay asked Mr. Ayearst: "With all the knowledge of the department the liquor was delivered without any of the officers being on the ground and it was left unattended." "Yes, for two or three hours."

"And the conclusion was drawn by some people that it was done for a purpose?" I' never heard of any such conclusion."

"I think from Smith's evidence and manner he was capable of keeping out two cases."

"You will concede that two cases might have disappeared?"

"I scarcely concede it."

"Now, Mr. Ayearst, it was possible?"

"I will give you my reasons."

"I will give you my reasons."

"I was possible?"

"I will give you my reasons. If anybody came to take two cases they would take more. There were no trucks and nobody knew about the whiskey being there, except the of-ficials."

Might Have Been Taken.
Mr. McKay then turned to the question of the liquor being left unattended during election time. He surgested jocularly that elections and whiskey were associated traditionally; that it would not be safe to leave them lying around. "I was taught to believe that it were among Liberals it would

Mr. McKay retorted that the opposite Mr. McKay retorted that the opposite party were taught precisely the same thing about their opponents. So that having gone thus far it was clear that both parties did view the question of whiskey and elections as being allied.

Mr. Ayearst—"I did a lot of political work when I was young. I was always open and above board. I never saw any liquor used. I never used any."

Mr. McKay—"I see it's a case of 'these hands are always clean." Every political gentleman says that."

Mr. Ayearst—"I am saying it under oath."

Duffin Tells Story.

Harold Duffin, the man who drove the truck from Toronto St. Catharines and Homer, professed to know nothing as to the nature of the mission. The commissioner declared that he was telling only half a story, and questioned whether it was too late to prosecute him for his share in the affair. The commissioner said Duffin might be prosecuted for conspiracy.

the collapse of the Dewart charges against the license board as based upon articles appearing in the World. P. F. Cronin, who wrote the articles for the World during the St. Catharines election, admitted this afternoon that his sympathies were in favor of the Labor candidate, as also, he thought, were those of W. F. MacLean, M.P. He denied, however, that he was out to advocate the election of either candidate. That there was a political significance in sending the liquor to Homer was a suggestion which would occur, he thought, to any mind. It was pitiful that the board should have allowed it and a public scendal that it was done. Information Not Different.

He admitted having written articles He admitted having written articles accusing the department of being involved in a scheme which had a political purpose upon insufficient information. He had accepted the statement of what Peter White, K.C., counsel for the Government, described as a "self-confessed drunken whiskey peddler" again the sworn statement of the men employed to run him down. He had written articles condemning the department in an effort to secure further information from the department.

"Blackmail?" suggested Mr. White.

"I won't answer that question," said Mr. Cronin.

BLENHEIM, April 11.—A heavy rainstorm passed over this district about 11 o'clock Wednesday night, accompanied by considerable wind. About four miles north of this town, in Harwich Township, it developed into a tornado, doing considerable damage. Today the report comes in that the following farmers suffered damages: Peter Huffman, half roof off barn; E. T. Cundle, part of roof off barn and kitchen down; Walter Brackett, entire roof off barn; J. D. McCoig, V. Riseborough and Enos Smith, windmills blown over or damaged. Some railway cars are said to have been blown off the track at Fargo. WANT DRY WEATHER.

This Car Warrants Its

There are many reasons for the price of a motor car. The car may be built down to a selling price. The price may be forced up to a profit mark. There may be weight, size, speed, that you do not need. But the Gray Dort price is the lowest price at which a big, efficient organization can build a fine light car. The Gray Dort is built right first. It is built with real big car quality and comfort and appearance. It is built to give you all the service you need, free from trouble. Then by factory efficiency the price is kept low.

So when you buy a Gray Dort you are putting every dollar into real motor car value. Ride in a Gray Dort—then you will see how greatly cheaper cars fall short of it—and how light cars higher-priced give you no more or not as much.

The touring car is $1245; the Gray Dort Special—the car with added refinements and extra equipment, is $135 extra; there are also a coupe, and a sedan. All prices f. o. b. Chatham and are subject to change

A Hot Spot Chalmers Knows Neither Altitude Nor Weather

NYONE who has motored much knows how a change of altitude—even of 600 feet-affects the average car. And when the weather changes, even if you never leave your home town, what a terrible affair it is to get your motor "running right."
