THE CHINESE SILK TRADE.

The American demand for silks in the past few years until at the present time about 25 per cent of the Chinese silk is sent to the United States. This is the result of American enterprise more than that of the Chinese. The Japanese silks had been in favor for a long time with the manufacturers of this country, but it was well understood that the quality of the Chinese was superior, but it was not adapted for use in this country because of the manner in which it was woven. An American manufacturer secured a moving picture reel showing the Japanese methods of manufacture and as a result the Chinamen were induced to change the rs to a system to conform with the demands of the Occidental.

AT THE GRAND

"MALE AND FEMALE," A STUNNING PICTURE OF SIR JAMES M. BARRIE'S FAMOUS PLAY, "THE ADMIRAL CRICHTON," COMES TO THE GRAND ENTIRE WEEK OF JUNE 28—UNDOUBTEDLY THE OUTSTANDING EVENT OF THE YEAR.

It would seem that Cecil B. De Mille has been working up toward the production of "Male and Female," his new Paramount-Artcraft picture, through his entire career. For this picture, which will be shown at the Grand entire week of June 28, represents the consummation of his many-sided genius, the finest fruits of years of artistic.

The several excellent qualities which have distinguished his former productions have reached their fullest development here. That he has hitherto done nothing to compare with this is unquestionable. In his society dramas, and others, he exhibited delicacy of handling the luxurious and opulent in drama such as had never before been displayed on the screen. The costumes, the setting, the presentation of the plot will not be forgotten. In "Carmen," "The Woman God Forgot," and his other costume plays, he showed that he could handle the spectacular and the dramatic with the same masterly hand in the matter of straight dramatic intensity, who can forget "The Whispering Chorus?"

"Male and Female" combines the luxurious, spectacular beauty and the dramatic strength of his previous productions. The opening scenes in the London home of Lady Mary, are the last word in luxury. De Mille has spent money on his pictures before, but it is doubtful if he ever spent as much, and so effectively, as in these scenes. Gloria Swanson has more wonderful gowns than that so gayly described down to the tiniest detail, are in keeping with the story characters. Then there is the Babylonian episode—short, but brilliantly beautiful. Here is the spectacular, if you like, combined with the exquisite. Thomas Meighan, who plays Crichton, is the king of this episode. Gloria Swanson, who plays Lady Mary, is the baroness of the Babylonian episode, and she is the most beautiful woman they're real lions, too.

As everyone knows, J. M. Barrie wrote the play, "The Admirable Crichton," from which "Male and Female" has been adapted. Let us say that last authors to allow his works to be filmed. He held off for a long while, but finally allowed De Mille to take his hand. When the author sees this he will not be disappointed. The dramatic strength of his play, and its deep and keen characterizations are enriched by the presentation De Mille has given. The story has not been changed in the least.

The cast, headed by Thomas Meighan, who duplicates his excellent work in "The Miracle Man," and Gloria Swanson, is uniformly excellent. Theodore Roberts, Lila Lee, Raymond Hatton, Mayme Kelso, Robert Caine and Edward Burns are some of the big names in it.

We spoke of "The Miracle Man" in the last paragraph. Let us say that "The Miracle Man" is the only picture in memory with which "Male and Female" can be compared. "Male and Female" is an unusual production, one of the greatest pictures ever made, the crowning achievement of De Mille's career.

An American Meteorological Society. A national meteorological society will be organized at the next annual meeting of the American Society for the Advancement of Science. There is a demand for such an organization, but for some reason none has ever been effected, the nearest approach being the New England Meteorological Society.

Petroleum An Old Fuel.

Petroleum has been known from ancient times. It was put to practical uses as a fuel around the Caspian Sea much earlier than elsewhere. Under the name of Sicilian oil, it was burned in lamps in Rome in the days of Pliny. It entered into use in the arts in China centuries ago, and was discovered by the early settlers in America.

Electricity in the Next War.

A French manufacturer of explosives ventures the opinion that the limit of developments in this direction has been reached, and the great factor in the next war will be electricity. The use of electricity in the last war was relatively small.

Ferris Hartman has commenced work with Pathe, directing Beatrice La Plante in one-reel comedies. Hartman is well known for his work in musical comedies. The comedy in which he is directing Miss La Plante is called "The Model," and Beatrice, who is a co-la-la comedienne from that so gayly described down to the tiniest detail, are in keeping with the story characters. Then there is the Babylonian episode—short, but brilliantly beautiful. Here is the spectacular, if you like, combined with the exquisite. Thomas Meighan, who plays Crichton, is the king of this episode. Gloria Swanson, who plays Lady Mary, is the baroness of the Babylonian episode, and she is the most beautiful woman they're real lions, too.

Exhibitions throughout the country are clamoring for the new Frohman service. The new Frohman service, the Clifford and Jack Sherrill, having heard that extreme novelty marks this new fifteen-episode picture. Whatever it is that composes the novelty, its promised freedom from the absurd blood-and-thunder stuff heretofore believed inseparable from serials will give it favor with many fans.

Ruby de Remer, called "the most beautiful blonde since Venus," made thirty personal appearances in one week in Loew's Greater New York houses last week. Miss de Remer appeared with Loew's picture "A Fool and His Money," in which she played with Eugene O'Brien. She sang a ballad entitled "Blue Diamonds," written for her and dedicated to her. It was one of the most successful appearances in the history of the Loew theatres. Miss de Remer's marvellous beauty and ability as an entertainer delighted her audiences.

A NEW LEMON IS A GIANT.

A recently developed lemon tree grows fruit about the size of the grapefruit, and is so heavy that the slender branches of the tree must be carefully supported by a trellis. In favor, the Ponderosa lemon is rather mild, but it may be used in all ways like the ordinary commercial lemon. The tree may be cultivated indoors.

DOOM OF THE OPIUM TRADE.

The crowning achievement of the anti-opium crusade in China has been the recent destruction of about $50,000,000 worth of opium. At Hong Kong about $20,000,000 worth was destroyed at one time in a big bonfire and smaller fires have been made at other points. The anti-drug crusade has been waged in China for twelve years and those who have been engaged in the fight say that their work is about 90 per cent completed. The crusade is to be carried into Borneo at once.
