A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur Makes Gray Hair Vanish--A Remedy for all Hair Troubles

Who does not know the value of Sage and Sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, and in good condition? As a matter of fact, Sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than Sage and Sulphur, if properly prepared.

The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put out an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, in which Sage and Sulphur are combined with other valuable remedies for keeping the hair and scalp in clean, healthy condition.

If your hair is losing its color or constantly coming out, or if you are troubled with dandruff or dry, itchy scalp, get a fifty cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, use it according to the simple directions, and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in the appearance of your hair.

All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. Agents—Wasson's 3 Rexall stores, King street, Main street and Haymarket Sq.

WHAT ANNE RITTENHOUSE SAYS

(Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate).

Blouses are every woman's extravagances. She can be persuaded to spend her last last penny on that one garment more quickly than on any other. A display of blouses in a shop window hypnotizes her. She will go in to get prices and go out with her charge account unduly padded. Neckwear and blouses—no woman can resist them. She will put off paying the grocer for two months just to possess a few of those filmy affairs that represent something new in waists.

If this is true in winter it is almost tragic in the spring. The woman on a small allowance yearns for a set of new waists so longingly that she is pathetic. The shops cater to the weakness and to the real demand and they display alluring shapes and models that are the invention of many clever brains.

Crepe de chine, Oriental crepe, which includes the produce of the Philippines as well as China and Japan, are the two fabrics one sees advanced as novelty. The taffeta waist has not returned to favor, but the satin one has a goodly number of followers. The white satin blouse is especially smart, because white satin suits and separate skirts will again be introduced this season and will probably prove more succesful than they did last year. Every month one hears that satin has had its day and that black satin especially will be retired; but this is not the verdict of the people or even of the smart dressmakers, as charming models are shown in it, although they are slightly reduced in price from the high water mark of last season.

The first white satin separate skirt I saw was at Trouville a year ago last summer. It was worn in that quaint mediaeval Rue de Paris after mass in the morning. It was a novelty and every one paid due tribute to it by turning to look; this is entirely good manners in the Rue de Paris, where the smartly gowned women walk in the middle of the street between standing lines of observers on the Banquette.

The blouse above the skirt was of cobweb texture, with a rolling collar of fine lace showing a string of pearls.

THE COLORED BLOUSES

Each year the fashion makers try to bring in colored blouses. In winter they are of satin, in summer they are of muslin. This spring is no exception to the seasons that have gone before. Fine muslin waists in the pastel shades are advocated as bits of color for white suits. They are not as attractive as white ones with colored trimming, but some women like them and use them for the sake of variety in the mountains and at the seashore. If they are not of thin material and well and simply made they are unattractive. They lend nothing to a white suit. When a white blouse is lavishly trimmed with colored muslin or even satin the effect is artistic.

One should not indulge in masses of lace and hand embroidery to take the eye away from the pieces of colored muslin used; one should cling to the plain blouse which the French women originated and from which they have never turned. The American woman is far too apt to make friends with ornamentation and she will buy a cheap blouse with yards of embroidery and lace on it in preference to a plain one that has nothing but a turnover collar or pale blue lawn, hemstitched.

If one needs a colored blouse for a colored suit of linen or Shantung it is a wise trick to have it trimmed with white or cream muslin, and it also adds to its appearance to have eyelet work outlined with white mercerized floss.

We are going to wear many black suits this spring in linen and cotton weaves, and there is no doubt that we are going to wear quantities of tan, yellow and gold; now the two colors go together, therefore it is more than probable that the smart women will adopt soft mull waists in any shade of tan with a black suit. Such combinations have been made for the south. One coat suit of black shantung has a full blouse of gold-colored mull made on an old fashioned model that has come back into prominence; it is gathered back and front to a shallow shoulder yoke and attached by seam beading. The rolling Robespierre collar is of white chiffon cloth, hemstitched, and the cravat is of white cluny lace edged with black. The sleeves are long, put into lowered armholes with seam beading and finished with a deep, tight cuff, which has a small roll over of hemstitched white chiffon cloth. All the buttons are of Irish crochet.

The back of this black coat, by the way, has an odd touch in a three-inch patent leather belt ending at the side seams with small patent leather buckles. On the back of the high waisted skirt there is a similar belt that runs only as far as the side seams and its buckle is in the middle.

WHITE LACE BLOUSES.

The revival of white lace gowns has brought back the fashion for lace blouses and one sees many attractive designs worn by fashionable women with suits that heretofore carried their own blouses. At a charity bazaar recently held in Paris, the smart women contributed the blouses, and it is interesting that nearly all of them were of lace or wash tulle inset with lace. This is a whole bundle of straws to show the wind.

Simplicity is not the keynote of these blouses. They are over a lining of soft white mull or China silk, and now and then there is a band of colored ribbon or embroidered silk run around the figure below the bust. This was once a dominant fashion in blouses and had many points of merit, and the woman who uses it is now at entire liberty to resume it.

Frills are omitted, but there is a broad arrangement of pleated lace which drops to the bust in the middle and to the waist at each side. There are high collars, straight and boned; there are Medicis, Robespierres, and particularly Beau Brummells with turnovers of vivid satin. The cuff also shows tiny flaps and revers and rolling cuffs of satin.

Shadow lace is the weave most chosen for these blouses, but cluny has its followers, and one infrequently sees the use of Renaissance which was once so fashionable. The shops sell blouses of it at a lower price than they ask for the other laces because they are more simply made and look as though they might have been left over from the stock of other days.

Benham—"I remember that you suspended sentence."

Are You a Victim to Cold Sores?

CAN cold sores be cured? Certainly, they can. It all depends upon yourself. If you use unwise methods, they will spread until your entire lip becomes fearfully swollen, whereas if you employ some commonsense treatment, you may confidently expect good results.

Are you curious to know what I consider a commonsense treatment? Yes? Then be curious no longer, as I shall take pleasure in telling you what to do to banish cold sores into oblivion.

Be it known that cold sores always indicate some disorder of the stomach, so while treating them locally, it is a wise idea to look after the general health. Be careful to chew your food well and see that it is prepared plainly. A quart and a half to two quarts of fresh cool water should be taken during the day as this flushes out the stomach, which is what it needs.

An iron tonic, taken as your family physician may direct, will also aid in improving your general physical condition.

Now let us discuss external remedies for cold sores, as, if left unmolested, they will eat into the flesh, causing very noticeable scars.

A cold sore treatment, which is simplicity itself, is as follows: Wet the unsightly blister with liquid camphor, then fluff on subnitrate of bismuth. In this way the sore is protected by a paste. After applying the healing paste, the sore must be left to shed its scab. Disregard this precaution and you will bid fair to be a cold sore girl for ever and aye.

LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR, NO DANDRUFF--25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Hair Coming Out?—If Dry, Brittle, Thin or Your Scalp Itches and is Full of Dandruff—Use "Danderine"

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of Dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp. A little Danderine will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

Daily Hints For the Cook

HARD SAUCE.

One tablespoon butter, 1 cup fine white sugar, 1 tablespoon cream. Put in bowl, cream, sugar and butter together, add cream. Flavor with lemon or brandy. When creamed, stir in lightly whipped white of one egg, then add two more tablespoons cream. Heap on glass dish. Very light and porous.

CHOCOLATE CREAM PIE.

Into your double boiler put 1 pint of hot water. Blend together 1 1-2 cups of sugar, 4 tablespoons of flour, 2 of cocoa, butter size of a small egg, pinch of salt and stir into hot water. Cook until thick. Cover a deep pie plate with rich pastry, set another dish inside and bake a nice brown. Fill with cocoa mixture, cover with whipped cream and sprinkle with chopped nuts.
