

SHE FAINTED WITH THE AGONY

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured Her Kidneys

MISS MAGGIE JANNACK

Mountain, Ont. Dec. 14th, 1910
"I desire to let the world know the great debt I owe 'Fruit-a-tives' which saved my life when I had given up hope of ever being well again.
For six years, I suffered from dreadful Kidney Disease. My legs and lower part of my body were fearfully swollen. The pain in my side and legs would be so bad that I would faint with the agony.
Five different doctors attended me and all said it was Kidney Disease and gave me no hope of getting well.
A kind neighbor visited me and mentioned the case of Mrs. Fenwick who had been cured of a sickness like mine. I took 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a short time I began to feel better—the swelling went down—the pains were easier—and soon I was well.
I have gained over 30 pounds since taking 'Fruit-a-tives' and my friends look upon my recovery as a miracle."
(Miss) MAGGIE JANNACK.
'Fruit-a-tives' are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c.—or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

FLEECED OF MILLION BY LOADED ROULETTE WHEELS

Paris, Aug. 9.—A plot by which European gaming tables have been cheated out of more than $1,000,000 in the last two years by means of crooked roulette wheels has been revealed through an order issued a few days ago expelling two Americans from France.
More than $600,000 was got from the bank at Monte Carlo.
John W. Gates was the victim of the same gang of rogues on his last visit to Paris, according to the police, and he was only one of many victims from the United States, some of whom, the Paris police assert, have been forced to private clubs where crooked roulette wheels were smuggled into more than one of the Riviera resorts.

ANY WOMAN CAN HAVE BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Dandruff Disappears, Falling Hair Ceases, When You Use Parisian Sage

No preparation has done so much to stop falling hair, eradicate dandruff and make women's hair beautiful as PARISIAN Sage.
It is the only certain destroyer of the dandruff microbe, the cause of most hair troubles.
PARISIAN Sage is most daintily perfumed. It is an ideal preparation not sticky or greasy. It does not contain poisonous sugar of lead or sulphur or any dye.
It is a magnificent dressing for women who desire luxuriant lustrous hair that complements admiration and sets the crowd of young rogues a-titter. It is also the best hair dressing for men and children. It does away with terrible scalp itch over night and causes the hair to grow in abundance.
And a large bottle of PARISIAN Sage costs only 20 cents at all drug and toilet goods counters.
All druggists guarantee it.

STRONG MEASURES NEEDED.
More than one citizen has complained to The Times about the manner in which a crowd of young roughs gather along Waterloo street each fine evening standing either in doorways or along the edge of the sidewalk and comment favorably or unfavorably upon passersby, paying particular attention to young women.
One gentleman said this morning that last night the custom was particularly noticeable. He thought there were about thirty young men standing about Union and Peter street, all bent on the same purpose, making a "pick-up." It was not so hard, he said, on girls who were on the street with the same object in view, but to those having respect for themselves, he said the situation was trying and repulsive. The language used by the young men was most objectionable, and he thought it was about time that the police put an end to the custom.

LACK OF CARE WILL RUIN THE MOST BEAUTIFUL HAIR

Save it With Herpicide

Aside from combing it when they think necessary many people give no attention whatever to their hair. Then when the hair begins to fall out it never occurs to them that their trouble is the result of personal carelessness.
An occasional application of Newbro's Herpicide will not only prevent loss of hair but permits it to grow in luxuriant growth. Herpicide kills the germ that causes dandruff and to this germ most hair losses are attributable. It keeps the scalp clean

"BANDIT SIX" HOLD UP PRUSSIA'S LEGISLATURE

Little Group of Socialists Obstruct Business—Criminal Prosecution Does Not Frighten Them—The Wrongs They Seek to Right (Times' Special Correspondence).

Berlin, July 27.—Six bold socialist bandits have successfully cried "Hands Up!" to Prussia's parliament. It is a stirring sight. Against 437 of the nation's mandatories, all fierce enemies of socialism, stand six insignificant, poorly clad, unimposing little men, vowed only to obstruct and worry, and the victory is with these six.
Not since Joseph Biggar and Charles Stewart Parnell ran their obstruction campaign in England's parliament have such events been seen. The short-handled reports team with "interruptions," "exclamations," "hear, hear!" hisses and boos, and the fled by their mobile horse-like tormentors that they have been obliged to put into motion the ordinary criminal law, and all Germany awaits the result of this unprecedented action.

That happened as the result of a debate on the Polish land settlement law when Obstructor No. 1, Herr Borchardt, was dragged out of the session hall by police men. Herr Borchardt stood close to the president's table and bawled out rude remarks. His colleague, Obstructor No. 2, Herr Leinert, who sits beside him, refused to get out of the way when the police appeared and had to be "led out."
In any other parliament an incident like this would have been forgotten next day. But the 437 anti-socialist members of Prussia's parliament are so convinced of the helplessness of parliamentary discipline that they decided to involve the criminal law. Speaker Baron von Erff, lodged a criminal information against Borchardt for "breach of the peace in the house," and the government is solemnly prosecuting Borchardt on this charge, and further charging him and Herr Leinert with "violating the power of the state."
The two deputies are delighted, and so are others. After a report appeared in the press that Borchardt's and Leinert's wait-coats had been torn in the struggle, there were gurgles and giggles, and the bandits' hands, to be done by the bandits six who declare they are fighting for Prussian liberty against the unholy.

A Campaign of Pin-pricks
That is how the socialists see it. They are obliged, they say, to offend, flout and irritate Prussia's parliament, because that is their only resource. Like Italy in her dealings with Turkey, they conclude that they can effect nothing big and dramatic and resort to pin-pricks because it is necessary to do something, and because the meantime something may turn up. Hence the "get out," "begone," hiss, and the like. In order to justify their action in asking aid from the police, the 437 have published a list of interruptions as they have been made by the bandits six. It showed that during a period when 917 interruptions came from the 437, the bold bandits six made only 437 interruptions. Which shows that the 437 could manage only two interruptions per head, while the bold six each managed to get in 400.

Deputies Liebknecht, Hirsch, Strobel, Hoffmann, Leinert and Borchardt are the six. Their main strength lies in their smallness of numbers. Did they number 60 no man would heed them. But the colossal fertility of their obstructive and rudeness strikes the Prussian imagination. The best known among them is Dr. Karl Liebknecht. He is a forty-one year old lawyer, son of the still more famous Wilhelm Liebknecht, socialist, revolutionary and exile who was sent to jail with August Bebel for the crime of high treason. Wilhelm Liebknecht was the man who gave German socialism its internationalist and anti-Prussian color. His son is a competent speaker, a member of the Prussian parliament, of the Reichstag, of the Berlin municipality, and of the new "Greater Berlin" council, so that he sits in four assemblies, and therefore holds a record among German public men.

Captured Kaiser's Constabulary
Liebknecht, the younger, has a stormy past. He has repeatedly been prosecuted and punished. Like his father he has sat in jail for high treason. This was in 1907. The charge was based on his book "Military and Anti-Military Movement." It was the government's attempt to suppress the "Youthful Movement." In this the government saw a plot to change the constitution by force, the first step to the abolition of the standing army. Liebknecht spent his term of imprisonment in Gladitz fortress, where now the Prussian army is quartered. He was released in English style. Last January he averaged himself by capturing for socialism the Kaiser's pet constituency—Potsdam-Spanishow. The court interest fiercely opposed this red disruption; and a conservative newspaper, the "Berliner Tageblatt," also the big local landowners; and officials and agricultural workers are practically forced to vote conservative. Only in a few towns have the democratic parties a chance. Hence Prussia's parliament is essentially noble and agrarian. Although Prussia is predominately an industrial and commercial state, the parliament contains only ten merchants, whereas it contains 120 large landowners, and about 120 other members who are in some way connected with the land. The big owners of land in Prussia number about 20,000; and with their families and retainers they own about 100,000,000 acres of these 100,000 are represented to the Kaiser by Liebknecht. He is not inclined to make a coup d'état which would benefit the hated socialists most of all.
So the socialists—six of them—will continue to obstruct. Criminal prosecutions will not daunt them. The 437, they reason, soon will get tired, and ultimately, they hope, they will be able to reform the franchise, and let a few score of Social Democrats in. But before that day dawns, many million boos, hisses, exclamations, and shouts of "get out" will adorn the official reports of Prussia's legislature.

DR. CHURCHILL'S DEATH
Woodstock, Ont. Dec. 14th, 1910
Dr. Churchill died suddenly Wednesday night at the home of Freeman DeMerchant, Bath. He left home on Monday for a short visit and was taken ill in the evening, passing away during the night. Paralysis was the cause of death. The doctor was 71 years of age and leaves a wife, two daughters, Mrs. Ivory Hall, of Mahe, and Mrs. W. H. Kendall, residing in New Hampshire, and one son, Bruce, of this town.

Heber Polking has taken a lease of the house on Pitt street, belonging to Mrs. John Sproule. Mrs. Sproule will dispose of her household effects and will go to the North Shore to reside with members of her family.

A clock that has been ticking away for more than 100 years has been placed on exhibition at Showbegan, Me. The clock is said to be the only one of its particular kind made by a Scotch clockmaker for his own particular use and entirely by hand. The clock has a patent lever movement and will go to the power of the North Shore to reside with members of the train of wheels.
In Provincetown there is said to be a shop which has a reversible signboard that in summer reads: "Old-fashioned Furniture and Dine-a-Brac. Genuine Antiques." When the season is over and all the summer tourists have departed, the sign is turned over, and reads: "Junk Shop."

Cook and Soup-Cook

Long fusing over soups, hashes and stews this hot weather, can be done away with. It is easy enough. Just add a 5c package of to any of these dishes. Let it all boil or simmer together for half an hour. Then you have a delicious thickener—a nourishing, inexpensive addition—made from luscious tomatoes, wholesome vegetables, or prime beef and vegetables mixed—for Edwards' Soups are produced from the best of these products.

Paris, Aug. 10.—Mlle. Marguerite Dillau, a young advocate of the Toulouse Bar, succeeded in saving an assassin's head from the guillotine. Two Spanish gypsies were charged at Toulouse Assizes with the murder of an elderly farmer. One of the gypsies broke into the old man's house and stabbed him with a knife. He pleaded that he acted under the orders of the other.

The prosecution demanded capital punishment for both, but thanks to the eloquent appeal of their lady advocate, one was sentenced to penal servitude for life and the other received a sentence of ten years' imprisonment.

Do Minutes Count With You? The GILLETTE Will Save Them!

Are you one of those keen, discerning men who recognize in TIME their most valuable asset, and plan to make every minute count?

Then what about the time you lose every day over shaving?

Men who use the GILLETTE Safety Razor shave easily in five minutes—in three if they wish. How many minutes more than that do you consume in stropping and shaving so carefully with your open-blade razor? Or how many times five minutes do you lose in the barber shop?

Two, five or ten minutes lost to-day—to-morrow—365 times a year—counts up into a serious draft on a man's productive time. This in itself is reason enough, to the man whose time is valuable, for using the GILLETTE.

But when you consider that the time-saving GILLETTE shave is also the cleanest, most comfortable shave you have ever enjoyed, what reason can there be for sticking to old-fashioned, time-wasting methods?

Buy a GILLETTE—you'll enjoy it!
