George Williseroft, the Northern Business Man, Commits Snicide.

Family Troubles Supposed to Have Caused Him to Take His Life.

Recently Received a Letter From a Daughter He Had Left in the East.

George Williscroft, owner of the Georgetown sawmills, of Georgetown, near Port Simpson, one of the best known and most respected business men in the north, committed suicide a few days ago by taking a dose of carbolic The news was brought to the city by Mr. S. A. Spencer, of Alert bay, who came down as far as Nanaimo on the steamer Danube and to Victoria oy the noon train. The sad news soon circulated among the business men, and the shock which it caused, gave way to wonder and speculation as to why one so well provided with this world's goods, and apparently without trouble, should have committed the rash act. Mr. C. Kent, the city treasurer, who for years managed Mr. Williscroft's business in Victoria, said he could not have been troubled by any financial matters as far as he knew. If he needed money to tide over any temporary embarrassment he would have had no difficulty in obtaining it. Mr. Kent was waiting anxiously for the arrival of the Danube with the mail, expected that there would arrive at a conclusion and the other be a letter for him, written before Mr. Williscroft took his life.

Despite his usual bright disposition, the deceased had his troubles, of which however, he seldom spoke. When he however, he seldom spoke. When he came to British Columbia in the early sixties he left at his old home near Paisley, Bruce county, Ont., a wife and a grown up family. A short time ago a letter from one of the daughters who were left in the east was received by a gentleman in this city, with the request that her father be apprised of the contents. In it she said that she was a widow with five children, and asked her father to assist her to start in business at Chippewa Hill, Ont. The letter was forwarded to Mr. Williscroft and he probably received it a few days before killing himself. As he also had a family at Georgetown, it may have been this letter that caused him to take his

In the reading room of the Oriental hotel, where George Williscroft used to be a familiar figure, the suicide was discussed in all its details, and the many virtues of the victim were brought out by men who had been his companion for thirty odd years. Before going into the saw mill and trading business Mr. Williscroft had tried his fortune in mining in Cariboo, Cassiar and Omineca. He was considered one of the best miners in the province and was always the foreman of a claim.

Tignish, P. E. I., May 30, 1895. To the Editor of L'Impartial :

Dear Sir: I see by your paper the names of many who have been benefited by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I feel that I ought to let my case be known, as I am sure that many women a number of years I have been almost an invalid. I did not know the nature being exhausted at the least exertion. I had no appetite and was very pale. I sometimes felt like lying down never to rise. A dizziness would sometimes take me, causing me to drop where I would be. During these spells of diz ziness I had a roaring sound in head. I took medical treatment, but found no relief. My husband and my father both drew my attention to the I may say the reduction in size of many articles which appeared from

At first I had no faith in them, in fact, I had lost faith in all medicines and was resigned to my lot. thinking that my days were numbered in this world. Finally, however, I consented to try the Pink Pills. I had not taken them long before I felt an imdered more, and continued taking the pills for three months, and I must say that I am to-day as well and strong as ever, and the many ailments which I had are completely cured. I attribute my complete recovery to the Dr. Wil liams' Pink Pills, and hope by telling you this that others may be benefited by them.

For some time past fears have been entertained of his safety, but the following message received from him today at Djoulfa, in Persia, removes any doubt as to his personal safety:

BROTHER HUGH FAILED.

Nineteenth Century Monasticism Was Not Wholly a Success.

New York, Nov. 29.—The nineteenth century monasticism in the Episcopal church appears to have been a failure in this country, for news comes from Jericho Mountain, Pa., that the order of monks. known as the Community of St. Benedict, has abandoned its mo tery and given up its work. The Community of St. Benedict was the outgrowth of the Community of the Brothers of the Church, which was instituted by Bishop Potter in St. Chrysostom's chapel of Trinity church in September, 1894, when Brother Hugh took the vows and became the prior of the new religious community. Brother Hugh was formerly a successful business man in Boston, and Whitcomb. Russell Whitcomb. Boston, and was known to the world as

"provide a place in the church where the newspaper press. devout laymen may live the religious life in community and do practical mission work among children, boys and young men on church lines." The brothers were to live among those they were striving to benefit, visit them in their homes and care for the sick and needy, and to keep boys and young men from being overcome by the world, the flesh and the devil.

Devoted people in the church provided home for the community on West Thirty-fifth street, near Ninth avenue, in one of the crowded tenement districts in the city, and "The Priory," as it was cailed, soon became known in that section. Brother Hugh was joined by other associates, and within a comparatively brief period of time young men dress-ed in semi-ecclesiastical garb were familiar figures in that neighborhood. But the brothers felt that their best work could not be done in a cosmopolitan city, and they decided to remove to some rural locality where they might carry on some enterprise that would the better benefit the community. An offer of a large and commodious farm house in Falsingham, Pa., was made to them. rent free, and thither they removed last April and opened a home for orphaned
