ANOTHER NOVA SCOTIA FISHERMAN DROWNED

Digby, N. S., May 28-Schrs. Lila G. Boutilier, Capt. Arthur Casey, and Dorothy G. Snow, Capt. Ansel Snow, arrived early this morning, both with record fares. The former had 160,000 and the latter almost 150,000 pounds of mixed fish.

At the regular meeting of the New Brunswick executive of the N. B. and P. E. Sunday School Association yesterday, in the board room of the Bible house here, it was decided to give up the plan of holding a summer school for Sunday school workers in July of this year on account of the unsettled conditions throughout the country, but the general secretary, Rev. W. A. Ross, is to visit the denominational bodies in their annual gatherings and ascertain if a co-operative effort could be made for such a school during 1916.

Reports were given by the various standing committees, and by the treasurer. The general secretary has just concluded a successful tour of the parish along the St. John river in Kings, Queens and Sunbury counties, and reports good interest in Sunday school work. Halleluiah services were held at Westfield Centre, Oak Point, McDonald's Point, Upper Jenesse, Gagetown, Upper Gagetown, Upper Mansuerville, Gagetown, Lincoln and Russiaguistons. During June he will tour Northumberland county and make a first visit to P. E. Island.

FOUR DIGBY FISHERMEN PERISHED IN STORM; THREE OF THEM BROTHERS

Digby, N. S., May 27-One of the worst marine disasters which has occurred in this locality for some time took place at 4.30 o'clock this morning, when the auxiliary fishing schooner Elmer dragged her anchors and went ashore at Parker's Cove. A northwest gale had kicked up an immense sea on the Bay of Fundy shore and G. Co. wester's crew of five only one is left to tell the story of the terrible night experienced in the bay.

The Elmer was commanded by Captain Harry White, who had with him his two brothers, Fred and Elwood White, Alex. Nelson and Frank Corvett. All were drowned with the exception of Corvett, who got ashore on an up-turned dory. Capt. Harry White leaves his wife and a large family; Fred White, wife and two children, Elwood White was single. Alex. Nelson leaves a wife and step-daughter. All reside at Port Wade with the exception of Fred White, who lived at Victoria Beach. All four bodies were recovered later.

The Elmer hailed from Digby, was built in Bear River in 1879, and was owned by Capt. David Hayden of Port Wade, who recently purchased her from Capt. John W. Snow of that village. Both Capt. Harry and Fred White were Oddfellows and the flag has been half-masted on the Oddfellows' hall, Digby, on account of their death. VERY HEAVY GALE. Reports from along the shore say that this morning's northwest gale is the worst record for the time of year. Fishing boats filled at their moorings along the Bay of Fundy shore. Lobster traps were destroyed and considerable other damage has taken place owing to the heavy sea. The Tiverton schooner Acadias, Captain John Clifford, was the only vessel anchored off Digby by Mr. Innes, pasted out the gale safely. Quite a heavy snow storm occurred here during the morning. The S. S. Yarmouth arrived in time after experiencing heavy weather in the bay.
