He sent peremptory orders to the publishers of a County paper, when he was Provincial Secretary of New Brunswick, to "stop that paper," because a correspondent of the paper had hinted that A. H. Gillmor's financial abilities did not show so luminously at Fredericton as on the Magaguadavic. This is the man who has been chosen by Charlotte. Surely she must be growing foolish in her old age.

got many votes that would have been given to McAdam if Gillmor had been forced to speak out. The organ of the Hypoerisy in this city aided the swindle by asserting that Mr. Gillmor would explain his anti-education deliverances to the satisfaction of free school people. Arthur Hill Gillmor, Jr., the member for Charlotte, is the most narrow-minded fossil in the present Parliament. He knows how to turn logs into money, by the application of the "cram" system, and that is all. He reads nothing, to let, six rooms; it rented for £20 five was robbed. to let, six rooms; it rented for £20 five years ago; I think it worth £50 now, but I won't rent it for less than £65, as I think I can getthat." People pretend that the increase of rents is due to the school tax, but the pretence is false. The rental of properties on which the school tax imposes a burden of $10 his been increased $100, as a rule. Tenants would willingly pay all the taxes and give a liberal advance on former rates. Householders want all they can get, of course, and will keep putting up the rent year by year just so long as houses are scarce. The only remedy for the evil is the building of cottagos andtenement houses. At present rentals there is no better investment for capital, and it is surprising that something is not done.

the platform under guard, and it was ascertained that all the residents of the place, including boys and girls, had been captured. They were gathered about a fire in the open air to keep them warm. It turned out that the place, was in poscession of five desperadoes, three of whom were armed with double barrel guns, and all had navy revolvers. As soon as I got there, on seeing the red flag, I jumped off the train, thinking that the track was torn up. A man advanced and caught me by the collar and stuck a pistol in my face. He was at least six feet in height and wore a mask on his face composed of white cloth, like a handkerchief, and the lower portion was tucked in his bosom. There were holes for his eyes and nose. SURPRISING THE CONDUCTOR. I was a little surprised, but understood his object when he shouted, on thrusting his pistol in my face: "Stand still or I'll blow the top of your head off." He at the same time yelled out, "If a shot is fired out of the car I will kill the conductor." By this time two of the rufflans. ductor By this time two of the rullians, masked alike, went to the engineer and fireman of the train and made hem come down. Another of the robbers, also maked and armed. took a position on the opposite side of the train, and as any of the passengers stuck their heads out of the windows, he drew a bead on them with a double barrelled shot-gun, and shouted, "Take your heads in, and not move out of the car!' a summons which they thought prudent to obey, or to take the contents of his gun. The captured engineer and fireman were brought to the platform where I was held a prisoner, and were told to stand there or they would be shot. The robbers then ordered packages. They then runmaged over the packages, tore them open, threw them on the floor, and then placed the mail agent in company with the crowd under guard. At this time the gang was disposed as follows: There were two of them in the Charlotte by 200 majority. The returns show that sectional jealousies favored him. St. Stephen has sent representatives to the two previous Parliaments, and the other end of the County got jealous. Mr. Gillmor's absence from the hustings in that "open boat" had much to do with his majority. His cannuck to do with his majority. His cannuck to do with his majority. His cannuck to make the france were two of them in the baggage carrumnaging among the money packages and valuables, one standing guard on each side of the train, and one guarding us near the flatform. They statched and took therefrom my pistol. They then started through the train robbing the passengers. In this operation they were boisterous, and punched some of them in the ribs and face with their pistols, ordering them to give up the r was was a fraudulent one from the start, it being steadily asserted in free school quarters that Gillmor had retracted his anti-school doctrines. His absence from the hustings enabled his friends to keep up the fraud, and he thus got many votes that would have been got many votes that would have been got $100 from the steeping car of $400. Thieves at the Rink.

The Ladies Dressing Room of the Skating Rink, which was supposed to be in charge of a committee, was entered last evening, while the Carnival was in progress, and a valuable fur cap stolen. Ladies left their property in the room on Directors that a Committee would have charge of it. At the next Carnival the Directors will do well to have somebody to take charge of the room and remain in it until the close. It is outrageous that the property entrusted to the care of the commttee should have been abandoned to thieves.

Wild Life in the Far West.

This volume pretends only to give the ersonal adventures of a Border Hunter, personal adventures of a Border Hunter, in his own language, and comprises hunting and trapping adventures with Kit Carson and other border, heroes. It opens with the story of the author's cap tivity and life among the Comanches, including his marriage with "Spotted Fawn," the daughter of the Comanche chief. It details services under Colonel Doniphan in the war with Mexico, and gives a pretty full history of the Church revolution in Mexico, and the subsequent overthrow of the Maximilian usurpation with many thrilling affairs on land and water. The writer makes no pretensions to literary merit, and claims only truthful narrative for this work. former years. The promenade was crowded with spectators, and the masueraders on the ice were numerous, and their costumes varied and interesting. There were not as many ladies in costume as on one other occasion, but their dresses were varied and picturesque The male masqueraders were much more numerous, and there was an absence of the grotesque characters that offended at previous occasions of the kind. In all there were about three hundred in costume. Some of the skaters passed the examining committee and preserved their incognito during the whole evening. There were many guesses as to who they were, but very few were able to say for certain. The Rink was adorned with Chinese lanterns, flags, etc. The Band of the 62d Battalion furnished music, and the entire entertainment was satisfactory to all. It is proposed to have another entertainment of a similar kind before the skating season closes.
