A WORD FROM THE REGISTRAR'S OFFICE

Over the Summer and Fall months, the University Fees Committee completed a survey of the 1992/93 compulsory fees charged at York University. A publication, entitled Compulsory Supplementary Fees, is now available from your: Office of Student Affairs, Office of the Registrar, the York Federation of Students, and your Faculty Office of Student Programmes.

Please pick up a copy and review it carefully. The publication details allowable types of compulsory supplementary fees down to the course level, as well as some optional charges.

In accordance with Ministry of Colleges and Universities guidelines, only those compulsory supplementary fees which are listed in this publication can be charged to students for the Fall/Winter 1992/93 academic Session. You have every right not to pay any compulsory supplementary fee not contained in this publication.

If you have any questions about whether a particular supplementary fee can be charged in addition to tuition, please contact the unit charging the fee first. If, after having done so, you wish to pursue the matter further, please address your concern to the:

York University Fees Committee
