Bill Currie, Cooksville's "Young Atlas" was scheduled to make his heavyweight boxing debut in Toronto during the week. An employee of Goodyear for two and a half years, Currie was a six-foot-two, 200 pounder. The debut was to come at Massey Hall. Currie's manager, John Finlay Allen, known as the "Deke" to fight aficionados was "scouring Port Colbourne, Hamilton, Buffalo and the bush country of northern Quebec" for a suitable opponent.

A former Port Credit woman, living in Long Branch, was praised for her contribution to the Victory Loan campaign. Mrs. G.P. Stephens called her eight boarders together at dinner one night and gave them a professional sales pitch on why they should buy bonds. They purchased $1,200 between them at her urging. Mrs. Stephens had lost her son, a leading stoker, when a Canadian destroyer was sunk.

At police court, the Borden Milk Company was fined $25 for delivering its products in Port Credit without the necessary license.

Controversy over area charges as part of municipal taxes was building. The charges had caused a furor at tax time the previous year when ratepayers had complained at a series of public meetings. Reeve Mary Fox was trying to explain the charges to residents.

The first car rolled off the assembly line at Ford's new production plant in Oakville. Brenda Moore, a Grade 8 student at Riverside Public School was elected Reeve of Port Credit in mock elections at two local schools. The elections were part of civic week.

Workers at Fabricated Concrete Specialties Limited in Lakeview reported that they were providing a mobile animal sanctuary. A robin family had built its nest in the company's delivery truck over the weekend and refused to leave. The nest was built in the steel framework of the big truck. Despite the noise and bustle the robin roamed around the company yard and went along when the truck made its deliveries — throughout the greater Toronto area.

For the second time in three weeks, Toronto Township police investigated a bomb scare at a local school. Police received a call from a man Monday morning saying a bomb had been planted at Queen Elizabeth Junior High School. While students were away for lunch, officers searched the building but nothing was found. In a similar incident two weeks earlier, Port Credit High School was searched but nothing was found. The local paper speculated that publicity of recent violence in Quebec might have touched off the crack calls.

Roy Ivor reported that his pet Canada Goose, Wanda, had wandered away from his sanctuary in Erindale. The bird, which had been suffering from spring fever for two weeks, had been missing 14 days and Ivor was concerned. The goose would come to Ivor whenever he called her.

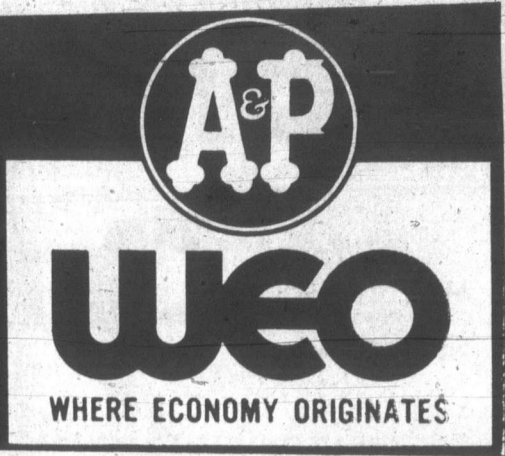

Town councillor John Caldwell told a meeting of South Peel insurance agents that municipal amalgamation "must come" sometime in the not too distant future. Caldwell also said that Canada was the most successful socialist state in the world.
