YOUNG & COMPA

The days are short, the winds are The turf has lost its verdant hue, And those who played the good ol game, Have slowly disappeared from view.

No longer may we watch the flight Of golf balls as they gaily soar Or hear the chaff of merry wit, Or echo of some lusty "Fore."

And play in balmy atmosphere. Tis better so-for we can rest, and reminesce, while fancy free,

Recall the games of yesterday, Defeats, and proud won victory. And we can sit around the fire,, And dream of things we might have done

Of matches that we thought a cinch, And cups that well might we have won; And then those scores of "seventy-Only missed by some short putt, t all will tend to stimulate Our fond desire for future luck.

And as to "Birdies"-well might I Write of these in doleful tone, For they have caused me deep dis tress

More than I would like to own. Ah oft I've held them in my grasp With joy to think how well they's pay When someone "holes a ten foot And swift my "Birdie" flies away.

But such is life, and so is golf, The things we think so really sure, The holes we count before theyre

Are apt to give us, one guess mor. But after all, it is for this, We seek the prizes that may be, And find the charm both in the game And ia its great uncertainty.

My boy if skies were ever fair, If winds should always favor you And all your "lies" were perfect And all you putts were straight and true;

If all your drives were far and sure, Approaches on the green were "dead," The joy of combat would be lost, And vict'ry's charm forever shed.

GEN. HUGHES' VISIT KINGSTON, Nov. 14-Major-Gen-KINGSTON, Nov. 14—Major-General Hughes, minister of militia, was here to-day and held a review of 1.500 soldiers who have mobilized here for overseas duty. After the review, the minister addressed the men and officers. He strongly denounced the use of strong drink, and made the remark that he had never yet been able to find a place in military work. able to find a place in military work for drunkards. Miss L. Shannon gave a most in-structive paper on "Women in Art."

In a most comprehensive and interesting manner she dealt with famous women painters from the time of Pliny to our own age. Probably many have taken for granted that all the famous painters have been men, with, perhaps the exception of Rosa Bonna-heur, and to these Miss Shannon's ost excellent paper was a revelation Miss Struthers followed with a discussion of current events, making special mention of the women of France, who are tilling the soil, etc., and voting on municipal councils, in place of their husbands who have gone o the front; even in England, in some - aces, the women are voting on cer-tain matters, while the men serve their ountry. The gaining of full franchise by the women of the States of Nevada and Montana, was noted, also many suppose if women had the vote they would usurp men's work, and that at the present time many occupations supposed to belong to both were elected captains of teams, Red sexes are occupied by the other, viz:

The Baraca Class of the Calvary Baptist Church has reorganized for excellent work for the winter. The election of officers for the coming partial suffrage in some other States.

Miss Garven contributed a very racy paper on "Suffrage from the Business Girl's Viewpoint," which was enjoyed by all. She referred to the inequality of wages for girls and retary, G Stenebaugh; treasurer, H. women for equal work, showing what a powerful weapon in adjusting these conditions, the ballot would be, as every man knows to his own gain. She called attention to the fact that Simpson; missionary, G. Sage; social
