They Wait For You.

Look not, O friend, with unavailing tears into the Past—look to the brave young years! Look to the Future; all there is to wait. All that you thought for by the broken gate—The faith that faltered and the fire that fell—The song that in your lonely heart—

It is all there—the love that went astray, With bitter vision that remembered days, The joys that were so needed by the heart, And all the tender dreamers you have spent, Nothing is lost forever that the soul Cried out for! All is waiting at the goal.

—Helen Merriam.

A Blunder and What Came of It.

The postman who had passed Miss Betty's house, and who had just come up the walk the front door opened, to all eyes was automatically. As a matter of fact, Miss Betty had been watching at the window. She had passed beyond the stage of welcoming her birthday joyfully, but it would have hurt her if Adelaide had forgotten it.

But Adelaide had not forgotten. The dainty white package was proof enough of that, though the superscription was in an unfamiliar hand. Probably Adelaide had been due at some board meeting and had called on one of the pretty young girls who were always visiting her to act as her secretary. Betty untied the cord—not for worlds would she have cut it—with a fluttering of the pulses that was curiously suggestive of youth.

In a general way, Betty felt quite sure of the parcel which Adelaide had called her gift with careful consideration of their appropriateness. As a rule they were books, such books as are recommended for Sabbath reading. Betty thought this parcel too light for a book; then it was sure to be something practical, like handkerchiefs.

She stopped for a moment to gaze fondly at the card on which Adelaide had written, "For Dear Betty." Then she removed the tissue paper wrappings and blinked as it the room had been suddenly flooded with strong sunlight. Shining gossamer tulle, of a delicate rose color, slipped through her fingers. She gave a little incredulous gasp.

"Oh, how lovely! But she ought to have given it to me. I—I'm too old for such things. She must have forgotten."

She knew that the question was settled when she wore it to the minister's pond party. And, stranger still, here is Caroline, who never had a thought for anything but dress and vanity in all her days, talking about trying to do something for other people. "It's really mysterious."

Her husband looked thoughtful. "We're very likely to think, aren't we, that people need what they are accustomed to have, when the changes are that they don't. Your friend Betty, who has been sacrificing all her life, didn't need the appeal to self-denial, while Caroline did. And possibly the pink scarf, which would have only fostered Caroline's weaknesses, acted as a sort of tonic on poor, exhausted Betty. On the whole, I think your husband's right in anything to regret."

Saved Her Hair.

ZAM-BUK CURED SCALP ITCZEMA.

If you have eczema, ringworm or any scalp sore, do not permit your hair to be cut off without first trying Zam-Buk. Mrs. David Mosteith, of 93 Bertrand street, Norwood, Winnipeg, says: "My daughter contracted eczema of the scalp, and this broke out regularly for three years in succession. It would probably have been recurring yet each season had it not been for Zam-Buk. The eczema first started with an outbreak of little red, watery pimples, which turned into large sores. We consulted a medical man, and tried lotions, powders, salves and all kinds of things but in vain.

Each time the disease appeared her hair had to be cut off. When this had been done three times a friend suggested that, as other things had failed, I should try Zam-Buk, instead of again consulting a doctor and going through the old and ineffective programme. I acted on this advice, and obtained some Zam-Buk. Almost as soon as this was applied the child experienced relief. The itching and irritation seemed to be soothed, and in several places, after some day's treatment, there appeared marked signs of improvement so we thought we would not this time cut off the hair.

We kept on applying Zam-Buk, until in a few weeks it was very evident a complete cure was being effected. In the end all the sores were healed, the hair grew out at the present time her scalp is healthy and quite free from every trace of sore eczema. The same healing virtue is responsible for cure of skin eruptions, running sores, cuts, cracks, scalds, burns, piles, abrasions, etc. For children's rashes there is nothing to equal Zam-Buk, as it is so pure. All druggists and stores at 50 cents box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

Longest Telegraph Circuit.

Persia and its capital, Teheran, have been very much before the public lately, but probably few people are aware that the same which has come through to London has passed over the longest telegraph circuit in the world.

The distance between London and Teheran by wire is 4,000 miles, and the operator in Teheran communicated direct with the operator at the London end, automatic repeaters taking the place of operators at 10 places along the circuit.

The first repeating station from London is at Lowestoft where the wires enter the North Sea, beneath which they run for 200 miles to Rumania, Hanover, where the second automatic repeater continues the message.

Thence it is dashed to Berlin, Warsaw, Rangoon, Odessa, Kertch, Baku, Kishinev, Tiflis and Tauris, from each of which stations it is instantaneously forwarded without human intervention, the telegraphist at Teheran, who receives the message from Tauris, being the first operator to handle it since it left London. From Teheran the line then extends to India, but nowhere else is there a circuit so long as that between Teheran and London.

Twitching of the Nerves.

Wonderful cure brought about by DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

It is only by watching the symptoms of nervous exhaustion and applying restorative treatment that you can ever hope to ward off locomotor ataxia and paralysis.

Mrs. E. J. Vanderburgh, of Eastern Illinois, writes: "The terrible pain I was badly afflicted with, heart trouble, nervousness and twinges in the limbs, also twitching of the fingers and nervous headaches. I became weak, debilitated and emaciated. My condition was distressing and I was unable to get through with my work."

After having used half a dozen boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, my old trouble has entirely vanished and I was enjoying better health than I had since childhood.

Such cases as this prove the wonderful efficacy of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. It cures in Nature's way by enriching the blood and for this reason, by enriching the blood, its benefits are lasting. 50 cts. a box, all dealers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Toronto.

EVERY statement, every claim, every guarantee concerning Red Rose Tea from the time it was first put on the market until to-day has been lived up to to the fullest degree. Its remarkable success and enormous sale are the result of this method of doing business, coupled with the all-important fact that Red Rose Tea has always been good tea.

Estabrooks' Red Rose Coffee will have the benefit of the same business methods. Equal skill will be employed in its selection and preparation, and equal determination to maintain its superior quality.

Estabrooks' Red Rose Coffee and Red Rose Tea will form a very strong partnership, each resting on its own quality, which, in Red Rose Tea, has been so aptly described as "good."

A good combination is Estabrooks' Coffee for breakfast and Red Rose Tea for other meals.

A Great Doctor Speaks of a Great Remedy.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Strongly Endorsed by One of the World's Greatest Doctors.—Hope for the Sick.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People is the only advertised medicine in the world that has had the public endorsement of a doctor of world-wide reputation. Such an endorsement stamps the medicine as worthy of the confidence of every person who is sick or ailing. A great doctor would not risk his reputation unless he was absolutely confident, through a personal knowledge, that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do what is claimed for them. Dr. Giuseppe Cappone, one of the greatest physicians of modern times, for years the trusted medical adviser of the Pope, writes the following strong letter in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills:

"I certify that I have tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in four cases of the simple anaemia of development. After a few weeks of treatment, the result came fully up to my expectations. For that reason I shall not fail in the future to extend the use of this valuable preparation, not only in the treatment of other morbid forms of the category of anaemia or chlorosis, but also in cases of anaesthesia and the like."

(signed) DR. GIUSEPPE LAPPONI.
Via dei Gracchi 33A, Rome.

The simple anaemia of development referred to by Dr. Lapponi is of course that tired, languid condition of young girls whose development to womanhood is tardy, and whose health, at the period of that development, is so often imperilled. His opinion of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at that time is of the highest scientific authority, and it confirms the many published cases in which anaemia and other diseases of the blood, as well as nervous diseases, have been cured by these pills, which, it need hardly be mentioned, owe their efficacy to their power of making new blood, and thus acting directly upon the digestive and nervous system. In all cases of anaemia, decline, indigestion, and all troubles due to bad blood, and all affections of the nerves, as St. Vitus' dance, paralysis and locomotor ataxia, they are commended to the public with all the greater confidence because they have the strong endorsement of this great physician.
