FATTENING POULTRY.—Mr. C. Jackson of Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, snys Lkeep my fattening poultry in a warm, quiet room, one with glass windows, with shutters facing the south:—"I vary the food constantly, nevery giving the same twice successively. Small potatoes boiled, boiled onts and Indian meal, a piece of cooked meat suspended from the rafters always accessible, milk to drink, and water fresh every day, a heap of gravel, one of ashes and always accessible, milk to drink, and water fresh every day, a heap of gravel, one of ashes and always accessible. water fresh every day, a heap of gravel, one of ashes, and some charcoal, are my means of making poultry ready for the market in two weeks from the time they are put up to fatten. If longer than this time is required, there must be some mis-take in the management. It should be recollected that the sooner meat is put on a fattening animal, wether a steer or chicken, the more tender it is. I place before my poultry all the materials for futtening themselves, tempt their appelites by giving them variety, and keep them quiet and confortable, as I have alluded to. It is well known that the digestive process is sooner and easier finished during a state of rest. A chicken should have nothing to worry it, no anxiety of mind. Could they auticipate their latter end, and the reasons for our supplying them with the dainties of the land, they would be held very uneasy, and I make it a point to keep all such information from them.'

Gono -" Gold well gotten is bright and fair; but there is gold which rusts and cankers. The stores of the man who walks according to the will of God are under a special blessing; but the stores which have been unjustly gathered are accursed. "Your gold and your silver is cankered, and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat up your flesh as fire." Far better have no gold at all, than gold with that curse upon it. Far better let cold pinch this frame, or hunger gnaw it, than the rust of illgotten gold should eat it up as fire."

HOW TO SPOIL BOILED POTATOES .- II is a little singular that many who are otherwise excellent cooks are ignorant of the mode of serving up boiled potatoes. Instead of the rich, dry, mealy vegetables, theirs are invariably "soggy" and heavy as bread when the yeast is worth-Their method of spoiling potatoes after they are well cooked is wonderfully simple. They place a cover over the dish holding them, and keep it there—any They place a cover over the one can do it, and eat waterlogged potatoes in consequence. Better put their cover out of sight, even if the contents of the dish should cool a few minutes sooner on that account. Boiled potatoes intended for the table should not be covered a moment .- [Norwich Examiner.]

RAISING GARDEN SEEDS .- A good lesson is contained in the following paragraph from an exchange :- Some years since, in pulling my linglish turnips, (raised from imported seed,) though a great yield, they ran too much to tops with rising crowns. Finding one only with a small root, shaped like two saucers put together, I preserved it for seed, and the next year sowed what I got from it among my potatoes, then beginning to be affected with disease. They mostly died; but I got 75 bushels of turnips "true to I saved and set out eight bushels of the most beautiful I ever saw. This ringfield. All who saw admired them, and spoke for some of the seed, which I circulated freely at one dollar per pound. Tops barely enough to pull up the single root, little bigger than a pipestem. They were as good as handsom. All this goes to encourage me in selecting the best roots and employing the best means possible, or obtaining the very best seed, from which to secure the r ward for the best care and culture of the orchard, field, and garden.

READING AND THINKING .- Always have a book within your reach, which you may catch up at your odd minutes. Resolve to edge in a little reading every day, if it is but a single sentence. If you can give fifteen minutes a day, it will be felt at the end of the year. Thoughts take up no room. When they are right they afford a portable pleasure, which one may travel or labour with, without any trouble or incumbrance,

Teach children to love everything that is beautiful, you will teach them to be

DR. HOOFLAND'S CELEBRATED
GERMAN BITTERS,
Prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, No. 120 Arch

Prepared by Dn. C. M. Jackson, No. 120 Arch street, Philadelphia.

Their power over the above diseases is not excelled, if equalled, by any other preparation in the United States, as the cures attest, in many cases after skilled physicians had failed.

These Bitters are worthy the attention of invalids. Possessing great virtues in the rectification of diseases of the Liver and lesser glands, exercising the most searching powers in weakness and affections of the digastive organs, they are, withal, safe, certain and pleasant.

The "Philadelphia Seturday Gezelle," says of Dr. Hoogland's German Billers.

'It is seldom that we recommend what are termed Patent Medicines, to the confidence and patronage of our readers; and therefore when we recommend Dr. Hoogland's German Bilters, we wish it to be distinctly anderstood that we are not speaking of the neutrums of the day, that are noised about for a brief period and then forgotten after they have done their guilty race of mischief, but of a medicine long eatablished, universally prized, and which has met the hearty approval of the faculty itself."

"Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, manufactured by Dr. Jack-on, are new reconsumended by some of the most prominent members of the faculty as an article of much efficacy in cases of female weakness. Persons of debilitated constitutions will find these Bitters advantageous to their health, as we know from experience the alutary effect they have upon a weak system."

J. G. Moore, Esq., of the Daily News said. "Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters.—We "Dn. HOOPLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.—We are trying this renowned medicine for a stubborn dis-ense of the howels, and can with truth testify to its efficacy. Hon. C. D. Hineline, Mayor of the City of Canden, N. J., suys:

"Hoopland's German Bitters.—We have seen many flattering notices of this medicine, and the source from which they came induced us to make inquiry, respecting its merits. From inquiry we were persanded to use it, and must say we found it specific in its action upon diseases of the liver and digestive organ, and the powerful influence it exerts upon nervous prostration, is really surprising. It cames and strengthens the nerves, bringing them into a state of repose, making sleep refreshing.

If this medicine was more generally used, we are satisfied there would be less sickness. as from the stomach, liver and servous system, the great majority of real and imaginary diseases emanute. Have them in a healthy condition and you can bid define to opidumics generally. This extraordinary necticine we would advise our friende who are at all indisposed, to give a trial—it will recommend itself. It should, in Let, he in every family. No other medicine can produce evidences of the same merit.

In this manuson-warshipping Age, it is rare to fird a man place his usefulness to the public, before his interest. During a late visit to the 'City of Spindles,' we were presented by a professional friend, to the celebrated Chemist, Dr. J. C. AYER, whose name is now perluaps, more familiar than any other, at the bedchrated Chemist, Dr. J. C. AYER, whose name is now perlaps, more familier than any other, at the bedsele of sickness, in this country. Knowing the unprecedent popularity of his medicines, and the immense sale of them, we had espected to find him a millioners, and rolling in wealth. But no, we found him in this laboratory, they with his laborers, among his crucibles, elembics, and retorts—giving his the personal care to the compounds on the virtues of which, thousands hang for health. We learned, that motiviths landing his vast besiness, and its prompt returns in cash, the Dottor is not rich. The reason assigned is, that the material is costly, and he persist in making his preparations so expensively, that the nett profit is small.—American Farmer, Phil.

We clicerfully comply with the request of a friend to insent the following letter which we are assured is from a lady of the first respectability, residing in Lowell, Mans, believing that a vast amount of suffering may be prevented, and many valuable lives eaved, by calling the attention of mothers to this valuable prescription of an old and experienced nurse:

Dear Sir:—I am happy to be able to certify to the efficiency of Mr. Winslow's Southing Syrup, and to the truth of what it is represented to accomplish. Itaving a little boy suffering greatly from teething, who could not rest, and at night by his cries would not permit any of the family to do so, I purchased a bottle of Southing Syrup, in order to test the remedy,—and when given to the boy according to the decitions, its effect upon him was like ungic, he soon went to sleep, and all pain and nervousness disappeared. We have had no trouble with him since; and the little fellow will pass through with comfort, the accruciating process of tee hing, by the sole aid of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup.

Among the numerous discoveries Science has made in this generation to facilitate the business of life—increase its enjoyment, and even prolong the term of human existence, none can be named of more real value to mankind, than this contribution of Chemistry to the Healing Art. A vast trial of its virtues throughout this bread country, has proven beyond a doubt, that so medicine or combination of medicines yet known, can so surely control and cure the numerous van icities of pulmonary disease which have hithlette every term our midst thousands and thousands every year. Indeed, there is now abundant reason to believe a Remedy has at length been found which can be relied on, to care the most dangerous affections of the lungs. Our space here will not permit us to publish my proportion of the cures effected by its use, but we would present the following:—nud refer further endigning the proportion of the cures of the cures of the cures of the cure of the cure

J. C. Ayran. Dear Sir,—My little son four years old his just recovered from a severe attack of malignant Scarlet Fever. his throat was retten, and every person that visited him, pronounced him a dead child. Having used your CHERRY PECTORAL in California, in the winter of 1850, for a severe attack of Bronchitis, with entire succes, I was induced to try it is on my little boy. I gave then a tea-spoon-ful every three hours, commencing in the morning, and by ten o'clock at night, I found a decided change for the better, and after three days use he was able to eat or drink without pain.

It use in the above named disease will save many a child from a premature grave, and relieve the anxiety of many a fond parent.—For all affections of the Throat and Lungs, I believe it the best medicine extant. A feeling of the despest gratitude, prompts on in addressing you these lines,—but for your important discovery, my little boy would now have been in another world.
