

The Huron Signal

EVERY FRIDAY MORNING, AT THE STEAM PRINTING OFFICE.

NORTH STREET, GODERICH. It is a wide-awake local newspaper, devoted to county news and the dissemination of useful knowledge.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION: $1.50 a year; 75c for six months; 40c for three months. If the subscription is not paid in advance, subscription will be charged at the rate of $2.00 a year.

ADVERTISING RATES: Legal and other casual advertisements, 10c per line for first insertion, and 5 cents per line for each subsequent insertion. Measured by a nonpareil scale.

Local notices in nonpareil type 5c per line. Local notices in ordinary reading type 1c per word. Business cards of six lines and under $5 per year.

Advertisements of Lost, Found, Strayed, Situations Vacant, Situation Wanted and Business Changes Wanted, not exceeding 8 lines nonpareil $1 per month.

Jobbing Department. A fully equipped Jobbing Office is carried on in connection with the ordinary newspaper business.

HURON SIGNAL, FRIDAY, MAY 31, 1889.

TO ADVERTISERS. Notice of changes must be left at this office not later than Monday noon.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. Lime-M. & C. Hechler. Boots & Shoes-E. Downing.

TOWN TOPICS. A chief among ye, taking notes. Don't forget that George Stewart has the largest camera in the county for taking groups or views.

BRIEFLETS. Mrs. (Rev.) Lescar is visiting in town. The professor is something of a type-righter.

Mr. Durand, of London, was in town last week inspecting the new government building.

Mr. Fuller, government architect of Ottawa, was in town last Wednesday inspecting the new postoffice and customs building.

The Salvation Army had specially interesting services on the 24th, several members of the Clinton division uniting with the local branch.

People are wondering when the Saturday excursions to Kincardine and Goderich are going to start. They will be popular this year.—Bussell Post.

Messrs. Crossley and Hunter have completed their evangelistic labors in Woodstock and gone to St. Thomas. There they will rest for a few days and then proceed to Exeter.

Last Saturday evening Mr. Eli Simmons captured a monstrous sturgeon while spearing in the river opposite the village of Salford. It measured 6 feet from tail to head and weighed over 100 lbs.

A. J. Manger and son spent a few days in the Queen city. Mr. and Mrs. Tanner, of Toronto, were in town last week.

Mr. R. S. Williams was in Toronto on the Queen's Birthday. Seaforth voted $6,000 for electric lighting by 108 to 57.

Mr. and Mrs. Salton, of Waterloo, have been visiting in town. Mr. and Mrs. Wm Campbell were visiting in Clinton, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Dettlor, of Clinton, were in town on the 24th. The June session of the County Council will be held next week.

The druggists of Huron, Bruce and Grey have formed an association. Mrs. Henderson and children, West street, left last week for Detroit.

Mr. A. H. Manning, barrister, of Clinton, was in town on Saturday. Mrs. T. C. Dettlor and children have returned from a visit to London and vicinity.

Mr. Wm. Cantelon, of Goderich, was visiting friends in Clinton the past week. An Orangeville man was fined $1.50 for spitting tobacco juice in the post-office.

Dr. McDonagh will be in Goderich for consultation on the first Saturday of every month. Mrs. Archibald, of Seaforth, and Mrs. Holmes, of Clinton, were visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Megaw.

Mr. Robert Park, principal of the Public Schools, attended the teachers' convention last Thursday and Friday at Exeter. The pond between the waterworks engine house and the south pier is being filled up with the dredgings from the harbor.

Mrs. Fisher and daughter, of Goderich, were visiting at the Brussels parsonage, last week. Mrs. Legar and son returned with them to the county town.

Dr. M. Nicholson, the West-st dentist, makes the preservation of the natural teeth a specialty. Gas administered from 9 a. m. for the painless extraction of teeth.

Mrs. J. C. Craig left Amherstburg, Wednesday, for Goderich, where she will spend the summer with her husband, who is engaged on the Government tug Trudeau.

Mrs. Agnes Thomson, the Canadian prima donna, was the guest of Dr. McMicking during her visit to Goderich and Miss Langstaff was the recipient of Mr. R. W. McKenzie's hospitality.

James Hamill, who last week pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a pair of shin boots from Mr. Jonathan Miller, was sentenced on Monday by His Honor Judge Doyle to two months' imprisonment in the county jail.

A POPULAR INSTRUMENT.—A new scale Upright Piano forte recently completed by Messrs Newcombe & Co., Toronto, is affording great satisfaction. It fills the requirements for a reliable instrument by the first class maker at a figure within the reach of all. Write them for particulars.

Many who drive do not seem to understand that the law gives the right of way to the pedestrian. A man or woman who is crossing the street at a regular crossing is not obliged to look out for the person who is driving the team, but the person driving is to take care not to jostle or incommodate the person walking.

FOR SALE CHEAP.—Note, letter and account papers, foolscap, etc. ruled and unruled, white, cream laid, linen and French papers, ladies' and gentlemen's cards, wedding stationery, business cards, shipping tags, fine printing papers, envelopes,—all sizes and qualities, at THE SIGNAL steam printing house. Call and see our sample books and get prices.

"Prof." Johnston has acted the rogue in Wingham. Last week he left that town as he did Exeter—without paying his debts. The press would do well to pass him around. This fraud was exposed by THE SIGNAL some years ago, but, as the fools are not all dead, the "professor" still manages to ply his vocation. He doesn't come to Goderich, however.

Blyth is blessed with a few very economical souls. Whenever they meet, they wish to call a meeting some times, they save all possible expense. They borrow a piece of paper and with someone else's pen and ink a notice is written, the loan of a hammer is secured, half a dozen tacks begged, and the hieroglyphics appear on a telegraph pole or in the post office. Nothing like keeping down the expenses.

Acting Mayor McMillan, of Toronto, was in town on Wednesday attending the annual meeting of the Supreme Orange Lodge. In addition to his duties as delegate he found time to call and see his old friend, our townsman, Mr. Samuel Sloane, with whom he spent many a pleasant day in Quebec in the sweet long ago. Mr. McMillan, like Mr. Sloane, has hoed his own row, since then, and both have been successful in their respective spheres.

Y. W. C. T. U. ENTERTAINMENT.—An entertainment under the auspices of the Y. W. C. T. U. will be held on Tuesday, June 4th, in the Temperance Hall. The well-known and popular speaker, Rev. J. H. Simpson, of Brucefield, will deliver an address on "Woman a Work and Influence." A good program will be presented, the musical part of which will be under the supervision of Miss Wynn and promises to be one of the best yet given. Doors open at 7:30 p. m. Chair taken by Mr. D. McGillicuddy at 8 p. m. A silver collection will be taken at the door.

EVENING CONCERT.—An attractive program of sacred and secular music, with a recitation by Miss Marion Sands, will be given by the members of the Knox church choir in the basement of the church on Monday evening June 3rd, 1889, and it is hoped that a large number of the congregation may show their appreciation of the regular attendance of the members of the choir and their valuable and entirely gratuitous services, by being present on this occasion. Doors open at 7:30. To commence at 8 p. m. Tickets, 20 cents, from members of the choir and at the doors.

Miss Beck, of Salford, left on Thursday last week on a visit to Woodstock. Miss Jessie Kay, of Kincardine, is visiting her friend, Miss Belle Matheson. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Gordon, of St. Thomas, were visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gordon, last week.

Knox Church Mission Band will meet on Saturday (tomorrow) afternoon at half past two. All members are requested to be present, as arrangements will be made for holding their annual entertainment, which will come off on June 21st.

AUCTION SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY IN SAULT STE MARIE.—There will be an unreserved auction sale of about 400 lots in the C. H. Chapman subdivision of Park lots 4 and 5, con. 4, South Ste. Marie, as per registered plan, at the Albion Hotel Goderich, on Friday, June 7th, at 8 o'clock p. m. Maps and plans can be seen, and full explanations will be given by Mr. Chapman.

LIEUT.-COL. ALLAN.—Lieut.-Col. Dan'l H. Allan, the commanding officer of the Queen's Own, is a well known and respected member of the Canadian militia. He joined the regiment in 1866, and went to the front at that time with the troops ordered out to resist the Fenian raid. He has served through all the grades of military command, being finally promoted in February, 1887, from major to lieutenant-colonel in his regiment. When captain of "A" company of the Queen's Own he was noted as having the best shooting company in the regiment, if not in the Dominion. Under his command the Queen's Own have maintained their high record for efficiency, and in point of numbers and organization, and speed member of the Canadian militia.

AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHY.—The Stratford Herald was shown today a couple of photographs taken by Mr. Keith McLean. They were very well defined, well arranged and well brought out. The first scene shows the two "Jims," Macfadden and Wade, under their bicycles, having apparently met with an accident. Macfadden's dog is also mixed up in the scramble. "Mac" looks resigned and Wade's face wears a "see that my grave's kept green" expression. George Kay is engaged extracting Wade and George Tiffin is endeavoring to "yank" off Mac's leg. Both pictures are quite interesting to look at, and show that Mr. McLean has given quite a bit of attention to shadow-catching for amusement only.—Stratford Herald.

THE AARINKSEN CONCERT.—A fashion able and appreciative audience filled the Grand Opera House, last Tuesday evening, upon the event of the first appearance here of Miss Agnes Thomson, "Canada's fair songstress." Miss Langstaff, also of Toronto, assisted in carrying out the program, the duties of which, owing to the non appearance of a quartette club, fell heavily upon the ladies' shoulders, though decidedly to the great delight of the audience. Prof. Aarinksen was the means by which our town was brought under Mrs. Thomson's notice, and his desire to give us a musical treat was commendable. Mrs. Thomson's two songs, Handel's "Angels Ever Bright and Fair" and "Una Voce" showed the versatility of her talent, which is of the highest order. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added to a beauty of face and form not often combined with so much genius. Mrs. Thomson being vigorously encouraged sang "Comin' thro' the Rye," and "Old Folks at Home," and it goes without saying that she carried her audience with her; these favorite airs, the former being sung with the charming openness of expression that is particularly pleasing in a song of its stamp. Miss Langstaff, who has a mezzo-soprano voice, rendered "Marguerite," and "Call'er Harris," most pleasingly, and her hearers were charmed in not every prima donna who can equally master the two very distinct types that each of the songs represent, and if one, outside the myopic musical circle might presume to pass judgment, a shade of preference would be given to the operatic style, which seemed to suit Mrs. Thomson in every particular. Her voice is clear, rich and sweet, her high notes perfect, added