

Guards Defeat Feildians.

OVER THREE THOUSAND PEOPLE WITNESSED SPECTACULAR EXHIBITION OF HOCKEY. GAME A THRILLER FROM BEGINNING TO END. SCORE 7 TO 4.

Fully three thousand five hundred fans and spectators wended their way to the Prince's Rink last night to witness the much talked of hockey game between the Guards and Feildians, and saw last years "Champs" go down to defeat by a score of 7 goals to 4, in one of the best played games of hockey seen for some time.

His Excellency the Governor, Sir Wm. Allardice, Lady Allardice, Miss Allardice, and Suite were present. The teams appeared on the ice amidst loud applause and from the very commencement of play until the final goal, excitement was at fever heat. Cheers after cheer went up, while at times the applause was so deafening that the referee's whistle could not be heard. The game was the fastest of the season, and good combination play was produced by both line-ups, which resulted in counters, hence, the large scores recorded over the other games. The meeting of these two teams had a large bearing on the championship, and as a result of the game, the Guards are now perched at the top of the ladder, in the first round.

THE GAME.

Excitement was intense when the puck was dropped into play. The Guards from the face-off forced the rubber into the Feildian territory, and Coultas paid a visit to Hunt. The disc was soon gobbled up by the college forwards who lost to Robertson, who made a good attempt to score. Rendell uncorked one of his famous runs, but he was soon brought to earth by the Guards defence, and did not get an opportunity to try Voisey. Munn made a very pretty dash by clever stick-handling, but could not get inside of the Feildian defence. Clouston availed of an opening a moment later, but was repulsed by Tait who was putting up a stellar game. The play was confined to mid rink for a brief period, when Munn broke away by his lonesome and safely lodged the puck behind Hunt, scoring No. 1 for the Guards, amidst wild excitement. Six minutes of the game had hardly passed when Tait collided with Herder in the Guards territory, and was compelled to leave the ice owing to a slight injury to his knee. Harold Rendell replaced him on the defence. The puck was soon brought into play, when Tommy Payne, by a clever piece of stick work dashed through the Guards defence and lodged the rubber up in the corner of the net behind Voisey, equalizing the score. The cheers that followed lasted for some minutes and the fastest kind of hockey was now being witnessed. Both forwards got in some very clever work, by good combination play, while two individual rushes by Munn and Robertson of the Guards almost resulted in counters. Hunt was playing to form, and found no trouble in casting the hot shots aside. Bert Tait appeared on the ice at this juncture and felt little the worse for the slight injury received. Tait happened to come to the Feildian's rescue just in time, because Winter and Payne found the game set up very strenuous. Alderice made a good attempt to score, but was frustrated by Herder, who was playing a good back checking game. Tait missed the goal by six minutes and a moment later, while Ewing had the same ill luck immediately after. Ralph Herder and Munn made a pretty run by a combined effort, only to fall down before the Feildian defence. Herder was sent to the penalty box to recuperate. The puck was being kept in the Feildian territory and a stinging shot from the left board all but beat "Nix." Rendell then broke away at a very fast clip, easily side-tracked the Guard forward line, and by a well directed shot from outside of the Guards defence, he sent a scorcher to Voisey, scoring No. 2 for the Feildians sixteen minutes after play. Play was of a give and take nature for the balance of the period. The bell sounded; Feildians 2 goals; Guards 1.

2ND PERIOD.

At the face-off a lively pace was set and Errol Munn, who was starring for the Guards made things lively for his opponents, stick-handling through Feildian players only to lose out to Hunt. Play was confined to mid-rink for a brief period, while at intervals the Feildian forwards broke away, only to lose to the Guards defence. The Feildian forwards by one of their brilliant attacks were rewarded five minutes after the puck had been dropped into play, when Bert Tait took control of the rubber in company with Tommy Payne, both players by clever stick-handling and pretty passes, swept the rink, and nearing the Guard danger zone, Payne who had control of the puck, safely lodged the Guard defence, and on a well placed pass to Tait in front of the goal, the latter player safely lodged the rubber behind Voisey, recording No. 3 for the Feildians. The applause that followed was deafening for some minutes. The play was indeed the prettiest piece of work witnessed so far in the series, and both players were cheered by their supporters to the echo. The Guards, quite undaunted by the two goal lead against them stuck to their guns and were rewarded a half minute later when Errol Munn recovered the rubber near the north side of the rink, and making a good run down the left boards, sent Hunt a beauty from the side in the far off corner of the net, which proved too much for "Nix," scoring No. 2 for the Guards. Excitement reigned supreme, and fast hockey was being played. Ewing, Payne, and Winter made a determined attack on their opponents goal, when Winter sent two stinging shots to Voisey which he but barely saved, while Payne by a well directed shot grazed the post by inches. Robertson cleared the rubber out of danger, and passing the rubber to Munn near centre ice, the latter player sailed off by his lonesome down the boards, and taking a well directed shot at the opportune time, landed the puck behind Hunt equalizing the score. Robertson was benched for 2 minutes. Rendell and Payne for the light and dark blue paid Voisey a visit, but the Guards goalie outguessed their shots this time. Clouston lost a splendid chance to score on Munn's rebound off "Nixie's" pads a moment later. Munn and Herder followed the play into the Feildian camp, but Hunt was unbeatable. The Feildian goalie was in excellent form, and saved several very difficult shots. At this juncture the Guards appeared to be getting the best of play. Paterson loomed up very prominently in a clever dash the length of the rink, 14 minutes after play opened, and in company with Clouston, a very fine piece of combination play was displayed. Paterson's head work resulted in the Guard's increasing their score to four goals, when he made a pretty pass to Clouston from inside of the Feildian defence, and the latter player, by a well directed shot, landed the puck in the net, scoring No. 4 for the Guards. The Feildians pressed hard, and Payne, on a pass from Ewing equalized the score three minutes later. The Feildians made several determined attacks on their opponents goal, but the back-checking by Coultas and Herder frustrated all attempts in their opponents doing any further scoring. In the last three minutes of the period the Guards bucked up, when Paterson, Herder, and Coultas each had tries on Hunt, but without success. Ralph Herder again decorated the penalty box before the period closed. Score, Guards, 4 goals; Feildians 4.

3RD PERIOD.

The final half was hardly in progress when Ewing was ruled off for tripping. The Guards put new vigor into their play right from the very outset of play, and the Feildian defence was given a very busy time for a few minutes holding down their opponents' furious attacks. Robertson made a pretty run, but was foiled in his attempt to score. Paterson also made an individual effort, the puck missing the goal by inches. Shortly after Clouston and Herder formed an attack, and a good run was made only to be stopped by Rendell and Tait. Hunt cleared the rubber in fine style. Tait from behind his own goal in company with Payne combined nicely down the length of the rink, when a mix-up occurred in front of the Guards goal, and Paterson cleared the rubber out of danger. Several dashing plays were made by both forward lines. The Guards increased their success after eleven minutes of play, when Herder, in a mix-up forty yards out from the Feildian goal, took the rubber, and with a well directed shot, caught Hunt fast asleep scoring No. 5 for the Guards. Payne tried to mix matters a little too freely a moment later, when he was given a breathing spell for two minutes. Dukes Winter and Ewing made several attempts to score but without success. The Guards who were setting up a very fast pace, gave the Feildians all they could do to hold them from increasing their score. Winter, back-checked well, and was instrumental in stopping Munn and Clouston from getting in to close quarters. Jerrett now replaced Winter. Robertson and Clouston made the prettiest play of the evening by a combined effort, when they both swept the rink side by side. Robie made a very neat pass to Clouston, who best Hunt at very close range, giving the Guards a two goal lead. The Feildians with but a few minutes to go appeared to be a beaten team. The Guards kept the pace up to the very last. Munn was in his element and was playing a great game. Many bumps were exchanged and players were beginning to fall all over the ice. Payne and Herder met together in a head-on collision and were knocked out for a minute. When the game was continued Clouston lost a splendid chance to score, missing a beautiful pass in front of an open goal. Munn now took control, and after a splendid exhibition of hockey, uncorked one of his old time dashes, when he eluded every Feildian player and passed to Clouston who sent a beauty past Hunt recording No. 7 for his team. Game over. Guards 7 goals; Feildians 4.

Geo. Allan England And Newfoundland.

The appended has been clipped from the columns of the Boston Traveler, with a request for reproduction in the Telegram. The first letter is covered by Mr. England himself, who quite possibly has enlarged somewhat on the spelling and general construction. The second is more mild in terms, but none the less censorious, and quite obviously Mr. England has not made any comment upon it. Both communications should be read with rather more than ordinary interest, representing as they do the viewpoint of men absolutely different in makeup, but agreeing on the main points in defence of Newfoundland.

ABOUT ANNEXING NEWFOUNDLAND.

To the Editor of the Boston Traveler.
Dear Sir,—In regard to my modest proposal that Newfoundland should be annexed to the United States, I am in receipt of the following anonymous letter:

BOSTON, Mass.
"Mr. England, or you ought to be called Ireland or Cork. In reading the Traveler this morning I saw what you are saying about Newfoundland. Now the first thing, you are a liar. Newfoundland does not want to be any part of the United States as she is very much English and will stay so for a while longer and Ireland will be under English rule as long as the world reigns, now don't forget it, and you better not show your Irish face down there again. England fought for you and the rest of the trash like you for four years and they don't want America to pay her debts."

"Yes, Newfoundland is rich and has mines and other things. The United States of America would like to have, but they can't get it, not by a darn sight, and about their schools. No, they don't want public schools. They have their own, so one sect can't mix with the other and the Bible is in the schools."

"And about the English language, you don't even talk it in the U.S.A. The half is only along such as youse for you and want for want and rarer for raw. Any fool can talk that slang, and they don't eat founders or dogfish, either."

"Now there are lots of things I can say, but I have an important engagement and can't waste any more time talking to a jackass like you."

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland.
I am sorry the scholarly gentleman who so elegantly expresses his sentiments omits to sign his name. It would be a pleasure to know to whom I owe the honor of so signal a proof that Newfoundland needs, above all things, a good, up-to-date public school system.

Yours sincerely,

GEORGE ALLAN ENGLAND.

Brookline.

NEWFOUNDLAND LOYAL TO EMPIRE.

To the Editor of The Traveler:
I regret that "Harbor Grace" resorted to personalities, but he really expresses the feelings of 99 per cent. of Newfoundlanders. They take great pride in the fact that theirs is the oldest British colony and are so proud of being self-governed that they declined the suggestion of federation with Canada, which, at that time, would have been to Newfoundland's advantage.

I admit the problem of education is a serious one, but the fact that there are no large settlements along the coast makes it hard and it would be hardly feasible to establish schools in settlements containing four or five families. You will, undoubtedly, find similar conditions in the rural districts of this country. St. John's has excellent schools, all sectarian. It is to be regretted that education is not free and compulsory.

I wrote Mr. Torge in regard to his article, which was misleading and gave a decidedly wrong impression of the attitude of Newfoundlanders toward annexation by this country, and I'm afraid that if Mr. England expressed sentiments derogatory to Great Britain in Newfoundland he would have a decidedly warm time. Newfoundland is perfectly contented to remain British; any sentiment in favor of annexation to the United States has to be looked for with a microscope.

Having spent nearly five years on the east and west coasts of Newfoundland, I know whereof I speak. I may also add that I married a Newfoundlanders are more British than the Canadians, which is saying a lot. Let me explain that I am not a Newfoundlanders but an American citizen and totally unbiased, but facts are facts.

Yours truly,

D. McD. MARTIN.

Rev. Canon Cody And The "Cop."

Here is a story they are telling in Canada of the Hon. and Rev. Canon H. J. Cody, D.D., D.C.L., Rector of St. Paul's, Toronto, great preacher, representative Canadian and Imperialist. Canon Cody's name and fame are well known in St. John's, and it was largely upon his recommendation that the Rev. E. C. Earp—who was at one time his Curate—was nominated Rector of St. Thomas's Church in this city.

Some call Canon Cody Low Church; others Evangelical. One called him Father, and the laughter has not died down yet. It all happened during his visit recently to New York. The scene was Fifth Avenue.

"As hard as you can," pleaded Dr. Cody, as he jumped into one of those battered yellow taxis, thinking only of the appointment for which he was late.

There was a roar, wind whistling by as from an aeroplane propeller, eerie tilting at perilous angles, then a confused hubbub, shrill whistle, and a loud Irish voice—"Hi, there, you're pinched for speeding."

Out of the window appeared Canon Cody's clean shaven face, suffused with one of his blindest smiles.

The thunderstorm cleared from the big Irish face of the traffic cop. Graciousness appeared as if by a miracle.

"I beg pardon, Father. Go ahead," he whispered, "but be careful; there's a Protestant cop at the next corner."

There Was no Frame-up.

Paris, January 15.—All those accused in connection with the alleged "frame-up" of the championship match between Battling Siki and Georges Carpentier are declared innocent in a report submitted to the French Boxing Federation yesterday, by a committee which has been investigating the charges.

The committee is absolutely convinced that the match on September 24, 1922, was not preceded by an understanding, but was sincerely fought out.

The report declared that practically all the talk of a "frame-up" between Carpentier and Siki could be traced to statements reported to have been made by a boxer named Gaillard, which Gaillard formerly denied in testifying.

The committee laid stress on Siki's unwillingness to testify before it. It twice saw the films—once when two deaf mutes were present, and once when three deaf mutes who were expert readers of the lip. The few words the lip readers were able to decipher as having been spoken, after many projections of the film at varying speeds, confirmed that Francois Descombes, Carpentier's manager, at the ringside only encouraged Carpentier.

When Nfld. Shopkeepers Sell Sugar in Packages.

They avoid the loss of weight which occurs whilst barrels are in transit from the Refinery.
They get what they pay for and pay only for what they get.
They avoid the loss which occurs when 8 pounds are sold for the price of seven.
They have only to compare the price they buy at, with the price they sell for, to figure their profit.
They have the satisfaction of knowing that the probability of leaks is eliminated.
They are following the example of Canadian and American shopkeepers who prefer to handle sugar in packages.

They are operating with less work instead of guess work. They know what they're doing.

They can utilize their clerks' spare time in safeguarding perishable goods and in moving empties out of the way.

Last, but not least, they make more profit than when retailing sugar out of a barrel.
