CREY'S LIBRARY

Choice Literture.

O say that this is a reading age, implies a desire for instruction, and the means to gratify that desire. On the first point, all are agreed; on the second, there is diversity both of opinion and practice. We have news. papers, magazines, reviews, in fine pamphlets of all sizes, on nearly all subjects, which have severally their classes of readers and supporters. And yet, copicus as are those means of intellectual supply, more are still needed. In addition to the reviews of the Broad Cloths, Cassimeros and Kerseys, day, and passing notices of books, the Petershams, Pilot Cloths and Flushings people, in large numbers, in all parts Woolen, Buck Skins and Velveteens. The charm of variety, as far as it is compatible with morality and good taste, will be held constantly in view in conducting the Library, to fill the pages of which the current literature of Great Britain, in all its various departments of Biography, History, Travels, Novels and Poetry, shall be free ly put under contribution; with, perchance, occasional exceptions, it is intended to give entire the work which shall be selected for publication; when circumstances authorize the measure, recourse will be had to the literary stores of Continental Europe, and translations made from French, Italian or German, as the case may be.

Whilst the body of the Work will be a reprint, or at times a translation of entire volumes, the cover will exhibit the miscellaneous character of a Magazine, and consist of sketches of men and things, and notices of novel ties in literature and the arts, throughout the civilized world. A full and regular supply of the literary monthly hebdomadal journals of Great Britain and Ireland, in addition to home periodiculs of similar character cannot fail to provide amplematerials for this part

The resources and extensive correspondence of the publishers, are the best guarantee for the continuance of the enterprise in which they are now about to embark, as well as for the abundance of the materials to give it value in the eyes of the public. As far as judicious selection and arrangement are concerned, readers will, it is hoped, have reason to be fully satisfied, as the editor of the Library, is not a stranger to them, but has more than once obtained their favora.
