> In order to make a final decision as o which plan will be adopted in the suilding of a memorial hall for the city. a special meeting of the building com-mittee of the G. W. V. Three tentative plans have been drawn up and it will be decided which of these will be the most suitable to permanently commemorate the sacrifices made by the heroes of this district who never came back from

At this meeting a committee will also be appointed to interview civic officials in regard to the securing of a site from the city to be used as a building lot. It is pointed out that the Federal square will be an excellent location for such an erection and, while the veterans would have the use of the land for a number of years, the property would still remain in the hands of the city.

Two advantages are contained in this proposal. In the first place the G. W. V. A. would have their expenses considerably reduced, as the purchase of land is always a big item, and then the erection of an artistic building on the square would tend to correct a public eyesore and encourage the construction. At this meeting a committee will also

The gravel road, Mr. Brazier states, is the ideal one for sections of the city where the traffic is light. Keeping the road in repair and waterproofing gives an efficient highway until such time as a more permanent class of highway is needed.

Mayor Little, early in the year, strongly favored the gravel or crushed stone roads. It was on his worship's recommendation that a rock crusher was purchased. He pointed out at the time that ordinary grave! was unfit for good street making, owing to the dirt content.
