

THE Canada Law Journal.

Vol. XXXI.

SEPTEMBER 16, 1895.

No. 14

THE Law School opens on the 23rd instant. An Easter vacation is now added to the curriculum.

SOME members of the profession seem to be still unaware that the Supreme Court Reports are being furnished to them free. We assume that they do not know this fact, inasmuch as many numbers have been returned "refused" to the post office. We would have supposed that in these hard times the profession would be glad to take everything useful which comes without charge.

THE condition of the laws in New Brunswick has been engaging the attention of the press there, and complaints are made that in all matters pertaining to the administration of the law, and, in fact, as to the laws themselves, things are in a wretched state. One writer speaks as follows: "No one who compares the present state of the statute laws of New Brunswick with the present state of the statute laws of England, the statute laws of the Province of Ontario, and the statute laws of most of the States of the United States of America, can help but think, as well as come to the conclusion, that we are a long distance, indeed, behind England, the Province of Ontario, and most of the States of the United States of America in modern law reform; and let it be added that in these days modern law reform stands for about nine-tenths of the progress and prosperity of a people. The fact of the matter is our statute laws are in such an obsolete and antiquated condition that modern jurisprudence—the work