

MARITIME MEDICAL NEWS.

A MONTHLY JOURNAL OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY.

VOL. XII

HALIFAX, NOVA SCOTIA, MARCH, 1900.

No. 3.

PANOPEPTON

PANOPEPTON possesses all the requisites of an ideal food for the sick; contains the entire nutritive and stimulant elements of beef and wheat in a freely assimilable form—in an agreeable and highly diffusible solution.

For feeding the acutely sick, as a daily ration for the invalid and the convalescent, PANOPEPTON is of the utmost value, because of its comprehensive food qualities;—it is highly nourishing, and has peculiar stimulant properties.

Manufactured by FAIRCHILD, BROS. & POSTER, New York.

PRINTED BY JAMES BOWEN & SONS, 142 HOLLIS ST., HALIFAX.