

A GOOD MOVEMENT

It is stated that the Rev. Dr. Bagshawe, Bishop of Nottingham, Mr. Wilfrid S. Blunt, and Mr. Edward Lucas are co-operating with others in the establishment of an English and Scotch Home Rule League, which will, it is anticipated, not only attract to itself all the English and Scotch publicists who are in favor of the Home Rule demand, but assist in the diffusion of information on the question of national self-government for Ireland.

MR. STEAD AND THE CARDINAL.
In the course of his prison autobiography now appearing in the London Pall Mall Gazette, Mr. W. Stead, the editor, testifies to the joy with which he received a letter of sympathy from Cardinal Manning. He added that his Eminence had proved himself the kindest and most considerate of friends all through.

A VENERABLE PRELATE.
The Right Rev. William Vaughan, D. D., Bishop of Plymouth, will attain the advanced age of seventy-two next Sunday. The venerable and much respected prelate, who is the second senior bishop in England, was consecrated by the late Cardinal Wiseman at Clifton on the 16th of September, 1855.

The crown jewels of France are to be sold to provide a fund for aged workmen. Although this will cruelly shock the Royalist, no better disposition could be made of them. It is estimated that the crown jewels to be sold will produce $40,000,000. Those of historic interest will go to the Louvre collection. The gems of artistic and educational interest valued at 13,000,000 francs, will be delivered to the museum and school of mines. The imperial crown swords, that belonged to Louis XVIII and the Dauphin, will be melted in order to prevent them falling into the hands of showmen.

RELIABLE RECIPES.

Apple Dessert—Pare and core large, sweet apples, and fill with butter and sugar. Set each apple on a round piece of stale, crustless bread. Put a little water in the pan, sprinkle sugar over it and bake till done. Carefully remove to the serving dish, and cover with an icing made of the white of two eggs and powdered sugar. Dot over with bits of red, acid jelly. Or the apples may be baked without bread, piled up in pyramid form, and frosted. Chocolate Custard Baked.—Scald a quart of milk, stir into it four heaping tablespoonsful of grated chocolate, simmer gently until dissolved. Beat up the yolks of six eggs with one one cup of sugar, adding the hot milk and chocolate. Stir until well thickened, then add vanilla for flavoring. Have your custard cups in a pan of boiling water, fill them and set all in the oven to bake. When the custard seems set remove at once, cool and grate sweet almonds over the top, on top of that the meringue made of white of eggs. Grate more almonds on this; set in the oven to brown or use a salamander to brown them, or a hot shovel or stove lid, anything so long as the desired result is brought about.

Mince Pie.—Boil four pounds of lean beef in only water enough to cover; when cold chop finely, and add the broth. To this add one pound clear, finely chopped beef suet, one large spoonful of salt, a pound (or pint) of sugar, a coffee cup of molasses, one half a pound of chopped raisins, one pound of well washed currants, half a pound of chopped citron, and one spoonful each of ground cloves allspice and cinnamon; also half a grated nutmeg. Add chopped, tart apples in quantity equal to the ingredients already put together, and moisten with cider adding more or less brandy also preferred. Stir well, and taste from time to time adding more sugar or salt as may seem required. Cook slowly over the fire for one hour; it will then keep, well covered, all winter, improve with age, and should be ready for use at any time. Mince pies should never be eaten the day they are fresh; of course they are only suited to cold weather, they should be warmed before serving. When making the pies, after filling with the mince, put on the top of each raisins, thinly shaved citron, and a little grated nutmeg. Half an hour will bake a mince pie in a good oven.

Patrick has a great power of enjoyment after all, and always laughs at the right time. One day he saw a bull attack a man, and he had to hold on to his sides with both hands, the scene was so funny. After a little the animal turned in another direction, and poor Patrick, after exploring the heights, came down with a chimney on the other side of the fence. He rubbed his wounds and as he trudged along the worse for wear he said to himself, "Faith and I'm glad I had the laugh when I did, or I would not have had it at all!"

THE BODY AND ITS HEALTH.

For chilblains the Lyon Medical advises that the parts affected be bathed twice daily, ten minutes at a time, with a mixture of half an ounce of sulphuric acid and one quart of water.

Cases of severe colic from lead poison have been reported among tailors and sewing women. This is probably due to their habits of biting off and sometimes chewing threads of sewing silk which has been weighted with acetate of lead.

A writer in the British Medical Journal advises people to be careful not to slice up a pineapple with the same knife they use in peeling it, as the rind contains an acrid organic substance which is likely to cause a swollen mouth and sore lips. In Cuba salt is used as an antidote for the poison of pine apple peel.

A small piece of resin dipped in water which is placed in a vessel on a stove, will add a peculiar property to the atmosphere of the room, which will give great relief to persons with a cough. The heat of the water is sufficient to throw off the aroma of the resin, and gives the same relief that is afforded by a combustion of resin. It is preferable to combustion, because the evaporation is more durable. The same resin may be used for weeks.

The heavy silk plush, fur-trimmed wrap is the fashionable rage among the women this season. The silk plush coat of this year is trimmed with otter or beaver fur, from three to six inches deep. Even a seal skin coat without trimming is not "au fait" although it is not altogether lost caste. The doctors have, however declared against the fur collar. One of the most eminent specialists in diseases of the throat and lungs says that the improper use of heavy cloaking in this climate has been the cause of more diseases of the throat and lungs than anything he knows of. "But," said he hopelessly, "they will wear them if they all die, and I am only given credit for having a spite against the furriers. Women go into a heated room with these heavy wraps on, and with a heavy fur collar about their neck. They keep on the cloaks until they are in a profuse perspiration; then they throw back the collars, and half unbutton the garments. Perhaps in a few minutes they go out in the cold air again, and do not close up the coats until warned by the chilly blasts that buttons are needed. But this is not all. Such garments are to warm for this section, and are not safe outdoor wraps even, except in the coldest weather.

POPULAR SCIENCE NOTES

A butterfly—a creature supposed to live at utmost only two or three days—was last year kept alive in a glass cage in England for 121 days, its age at confinement being unknown.

A meteorological station is about to be established among the highest mountains of Mexico, at an elevation of nearly 20,000 feet above sea level. As access to such a place is difficult and often impossible, the recording apparatus will have to be made almost independent of human attention, and, so far as possible, all the instruments will be made to run a year without stopping.

A member of a London Microscopic Society has described a case illustrating the value of the microscope as a detective agent. Fraudulent additions were made to a bond, and the ink being darker than the original the forger traced over the whole writing to give it a uniform shade. Under the microscope the difference between the original and the added portion was clearly discernible and the forgery was established.

A young woman of Columbus, Ga., about to visit the generating station of the electric light company, was told to leave her watch at home lest it be magnetized by the strong electric current. She did so, but complained afterward that her watch would not keep good electric time. She sent it to a jeweler, but he reported that it was magnetized and kept good time. Still, whenever she carried it her time was too slow, although when she left it in her room it ran correctly. A gentleman who knew of the circumstance suggested to the young lady that she wear another pair of corsets when next she carried the watch. She did so and had no further trouble with the watch. The steel springs in her corsets had been magnetized.

Yes, I'm in the lecture business," said the long haired passenger, and I'm making money two. By jove, I've got a Scheme I have, and it works like a charm. Big houses wherever I go. "Scheme," yes. I always advertise that my lectures are especially for women under thirty years of age, and for men who are out of debt. You just ought to see the way the people come trooping in."
