MONDAY MORNING, MAY 19

TORONTO HOUSING PLANS.

The Globe does not appear to have made itself familiar with the proposals of the Toronto housing committee, or even with the act "to encourage housing accommodation in cities and towns," passed in the recent session of the legislature. Otherwise it would not have to make all the objections it raises in its article on Saturday on the request of the housing committee to guarantee $850,000 of the company's bonds, being 85 per cent. of the $1,000,000 being raised for the project.

The Globe is afraid the money may be spent outside the city on a tract of land "east of Leaside and far north of Danforth avenue." A housing settlement there is not objectionable to The Globe, but there must be no municipal money put into it. The Globe may relieve its anxiety on this and other heads by perusing the act. The Globe is solicitous for the development of available sites within the city boundaries, and has no mind for garden city suburbs except for private enterprise.

Section four of the act provides that the city council or a committee thereof shall approve the location of the lands and the general plan of the houses. The raising of the money and its disposition, pending the expenditure, must be satisfactory to the council, and the council has the right to appoint a director on the company's board. The books of the company are to be open at all times to the agent of the council. The profits, after the payment of six per cent. are to be spent in acquiring lands, improving the housing accommodation by way of new buildings, additions, extensions or other improvements.

The plans of the housing company, so far as the city is immediately concerned, are not such as should disturb The Globe with visions of a garden city developing on the borders of Scarborough Township. The plot on which the first houses are to be erected is at the back of the General Hospital on Spruce street. The company has other property to be used as sites on Bain avenue. These will probably absorb all the activities of the company until the property far north of Danforth avenue and east of Leaside has been annexed to the city.

MOTOR BUSES IN TORONTO.

Somebody has been raising the motor bus as a bogey to scare the city out of the purchase of the street railway. If buses could compete with the street cars they would have been competing five years ago. What they could they did, and that was to take up the summer tourist traffic in the city, carrying the sight-seeing visitors round the lions at a dollar a head.

Bus traffic would be at its best here in summer. In winter passengers could not ride on the top as they do in England. The inside of a bus is a somewhat confined space, and, as winter quarters, would not be attractive even compared with the strap-holding cars. It is not to be forgotten that in London, where motor buses are a success, they are not always in competition with street cars, as no street car lines are laid in the City of London proper, or in the west end district. Any motor bus traffic that has been proposed for Toronto has been on the basis of a ten-cent fare. No doubt several routes could be made to pay at this rate, but the business would be of a special class and would not cut into the street railway business at all.

BRITAIN, THE UNITED STATES AND JAPAN.

Japan's strong protest against the California land legislation as an affront to her national honor was followed by a temporary war scare due to certain precautionary measures taken by the United States Government. It is a defect of democratic government that steps which in European countries would be taken without general knowledge or remark at once become public property and the subject of irresponsible discussion. War at the present time between the United States and Japan while not absolutely unthinkable is certainly highly improbable. President Wilson's attitude has been strictly correct, and Japanese statesmen are of course fully cognizant of the provisions of the United States constitution, rendering it impossible for the federal authority to restrict the jurisdiction of one of the sovereign states of the republic in a matter admittedly within its reserved power. The federal courts alone can say whether or not the legislation of a state within its jurisdiction is or is not compatible with the terms of an existing treaty, which ranks as a federal law.

The controversy has called attention to the position occupied by the United Kingdom under its revised agreement with Japan and raised the question of whether and how far would the United Kingdom be involved in the event of war. The answer is simple—in the given case Britain would be in no way involved according to the terms of the agreement, which is strictly of a defensive character. It was originally entered into by the late Conservative Government, having been signed by Lord Lansdowne and Viscount Hayashi in London on August 12, 1905, four months before Mr. Balfour's resignation. Its main objects were the consolidation and maintenance of the general peace in the regions of eastern Asia and India; the preservation of the common interests of all powers in China by insuring the independence and integrity of the Chinese Empire and the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of all nations and the maintenance of the territorial rights of the contracting parties in eastern Asia and India. For that purpose it bound the two governments to act together in case of unprovoked attack or aggressive action by any other power or powers.

Even on this basis a war between the United States and Japan, which did not affect the specific area covered by the agreement, was not an unprovoked attack by the former on the latter and did not involve aggressive action on Japan's territorial rights, would not necessarily require the United Kingdom to come to the support of Japan. But the bare possibility of Britain becoming so involved was responsible for strong opposition to the agreement at its inception and after its ratification. Nor was it acceptable to the Liberal Government which came into office in January, 1906. Nevertheless the principle of continuity in foreign affairs led to a revision of the agreement in 1911 by which three articles which had become superfluous were omitted and a new article added providing that should either of the contracting parties conclude a treaty of general arbitration with a third power nothing in the agreement should entail upon such contracting power an obligation to go to war with the power with whom such arbitration treaty is in force. This alteration was understood to have had the United States specially in view, although applicable to any power entering into a general arbitration undertaking.

CANADIAN FINANCIAL STANDING

Canada's financial conditions have recently been attracting attention in the United States, and the fact of the large, so-called, adverse balance between the values of goods exported and imported into the Dominion has prompted adverse criticism. These attacks are probably due to Wall Street speculation, as it has for several years been obvious to the high credit enjoyed by the Dominion in the bond market to the detriment of United States flotations. These latter have indeed been practically tabooed by British investors, and the main purpose of recent comment on the Canadian situation is apparently to damage the Dominion's credit in London. United States critics find it astonishing that such an expansion as at present exists in Canada could have grown up at all, and consider the position as becoming more and more precarious. Reasons are presented for believing that Canada is just at the turn; that the country has indeed, perhaps already, passed the crest of the wave and is headed towards the trough. While it may happen that the pace at which the Dominion has been traveling cannot be continuously maintained, this affords no basis for so extremely pessimistic a judgment. Comparisons with the United States forty years ago are not entirely apposite when the very different industrial and commercial conditions are taken into account. A rate of progress then impossible without danger may well be sustained at this time, when accompanied by a corresponding expansion in production.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE ON NORTH YONGE STREET

Dovercourt Land Company's Office Partially Destroyed—Police Are Investigating.

A frame building at No. 2537 Yonge street, which has been used by the Dovercourt Land Co. as a real estate office, was partially destroyed by fire at 12:33 yesterday morning. The fire brigades from Bedford Park, Eglinton and Davisville were quickly on the scene and checked the fire from spreading to adjoining property. The building was originally erected by Jesse Kelchum Harris on his farm, but had been considerably improved for business purposes. When the fire occurred it was jacked up for removal to another site. The damage is estimated at $1400.

The origin of the fire is a mystery as no person was around at the time and the lighting service had been disconnected. The police are investigating.

THE ROOSTER.

As a busy booster let your voice be heard; emulate the rooster, that most cheerful bird, who when dawn is peeping o'er night's murky rim rouses from his sleeping fold of slumber and vim. Tho his home's a barrel filled with musty hay, gallantly he carols to the coming day, loudly sounds his carol, praises, high and clear, as his voice he raises for the world to hear. Hearken to his chanting as he leaves his couch—his is not the ranting of a sorcerer's groan. The hen's kept imprisoned by a ruthless fate till he, tough and wizened, nothing can abate his delight at waking every morn'ning, therefore he is glad and clear, as his voice he raises for the world to hear. FROWN ON LIQUOR IN GERMAN ARMY Authorities Impress on Recruits Advisability of Avoiding John Barleycorn.

BERLIN, May 17.—(Can. Press.)—German military authorities who for several years have carried on a campaign against the use of strong spirits in the army have decided to send an annual circular to all recruits in future, describing crimes that have been committed within the military service which have been attributed to the excessive use of alcohol, and also showing the punishment meted out to the convicted men.

The campaign waged by the army officials already has proved decidedly successful, and the consumption of distilled spirits among the soldiery has been greatly diminished.

GALT-HAMILTON LINE PROMISED

Charter Has Been Issued and Construction Will Be Hurried.

GALT, May 18.—(Special.)—The oft-promised but sadly deferred railway project from Hamilton to Galt was given fresh assurance by the announcement on Saturday of ex-Mayor Patterson, to whom the official intimation was made by W. J. Coleman, the manager of the Dominion Power & Transmission Co., that the charter for the road from Hamilton to Galt had just been received, and the company intend starting construction as soon as the preliminary arrangements have been made. It is understood that the route will be from Hamilton to Galt, via Lynden and Troy to a point west of Sheffield, where it will run parallel to the Stone road to a point west of the village. The entrance to the town will be down East Main street, as this will make possible the use of the same terminal as the L. E. N. R. on Main street. An hourly service will be arranged from here to the Ambitious City. This is the first definite announcement yet made regarding an electric railway from Hamilton to Galt, and there is reason to believe that outward and visible signs of its construction will be seen within a few months.

With the completion of this much-desired road, Galt will be in a unique position, being served by four electric lines besides the two great steam railways. Connection with the Canadian Northern is also a possibility in view of its enhanced railway status, which will take on city next year.

Subscriptions are again being collected by friends of the English girl to fight the case.

Trusses Like These Are A Crime

Such Makeshifts Have Forced Thousands Into Risking Dangerous Operations.

Wearing elastic and spring trusses year after year is almost sure to shorten your life.

You can't make them hold, even when drawn so tight you can scarcely stand to keep them on.

They usually let you get worse all the time—that's why every year they are forcing thousands of people into undergoing operation.

They are simply a crime—squeeze the ruptured organs, strangulation—dig into the pelvic bone in front—press against the spinal column at the back—who wears them.

The Plain Truth Is This: You can't possibly get well—can't even keep from getting worse—unless your rupture is constantly held in place, just as a broken bone can't knit unless held securely together.

And just as a bandage or splint is the only way a broken bone can be held, so the right kind of truss is the only thing in the world that can keep a rupture from coming out and growing worse.

You'll feel like a new person from the day you put on that kind of truss.

But you know as well as we that you'll never find such a sure-to-hold truss at any drug store.

Yet it's easy enough to get. And you can test it first—by sixty days' trial—without having to risk a single cent.

It's the famous "Cluthe" Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager—absolutely guaranteed to hold, and won't cost you a cent if it doesn't.

It's so utterly different from everything else for rupture that it has received fourteen separate patents.

Made on an entirely new principle. Instantly and automatically protects you against every strain so your rupture can't possibly be forced out. Self-regulating, self-adjusting. Far more than just a truss.

In addition to constant holding it provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the cause of rupture.

Just how it does that—entirely automatically—now it's thus completely cured hundreds and hundreds of people whose cases seemed almost hopeless—also explained in the free book which the coupon below will bring you.

No Belt—No Leg-Straps—No Springs. The Cluthe Truss does away with the curse of belts, leg-straps, and springs. Thousands say it is as comfortable as their clothing. It is waterproof—will hold in the bath. Also perspiration-proof and easily kept clean.
