Another Unsuccessful Attempt to Get the Sewage Disposal Plant Adopted.

Council Decides to Go On With the Construction of Section "A."

Col. Holmes Peremptorily Demands $3,400 From the City.

Legal Action Threatened if Payment Is Not Made by Noon Today-Mr. W. H. Bartram's Grievances-City Engineer Said to Have Been "High-Handed"-Other Matters,

The city council met last night. The chief item of interest was a two-hour debate on a proposal to spend $30,000 in a sewage disposal plant. Ald. McPhillips and the mayor, who fought hard for the McDougall system last year, were again turned down. The council was not yet ready to decide upon a plan for the disposal of the sewage, but concluded that section A of the original scheme should be built first.

Col. Holmes peremptorily demanded $3,400 on account of the pay and maintenance of the militia, threatening legal action if payment were not made by noon today. The wheels of the militia department will be set in motion.

Of the members, Ald. Greenlees and Ald. Graham were absent.

MANAGER CARR HEARD FROM.

Two letters from Manager Carr, of the London Street Railway Company, were read and filed. One dated July 18 stated that the street railway company had refrained from engaging employes during negotiations, but would at once take steps to fill all vacancies, and comply with the council's resolution, provided the company was afforded the necessary police protection. The other letter dated July 20, advised the council that while the company was operating 21 cars, the police commissioners had not been able as yet to furnish the necessary police protection to operate more than 5 of the 21 cars, after 9 p.m. Mr. Carr understood, however, that the police commissioners were making efforts to get the required protection, and stated that as soon as the protection was furnished the 21 cars would be regularly operated during the whole 17 hours.

Ald. O'Meara was opposed to rushing this matter through. The system would not be complete until Christmas, he said. There was no necessity for it at present, and nothing to gain. On the contrary he thought there would be something to lose in future information. Much had been gained by delaying the matter so far. Last year the council was urged to adopt the McDougall system for $60,000. Later they were offered a system for $34,000 and now they had got down to one for $28,000. That showed the wisdom of waiting. The work could be done for less. The speaker was confident that he could build a system for $5,000, which would be just as good as Ald. McPhillips'. Ald. McPhillips was given great credit by Ald. O'Meara and the other speakers, who took part in the discussion for the mass of information he had taken pains to collect. The discussion was lengthy Ald. Parnell, in a half-hour's address, pointed out that the sewer system so far as it had been completed, had demonstrated that the criticisms fired at its promoters some time ago were groundless. He advised the council to delay action. Last year Ald. Mc-Phillips and the mayor had all but succeeded in foisting the McDougall system upon the city. Was it safe to adopt the recommendation of gentlemen who changed their opinions so? he asked. The mayor vigorously opposed Ald. Engineer Horetsky, he said. Parnell. had admitted at the last meeting of the provincial board of health that he had made a mistake and that filtration beds were not the best thing. It was time to adopt some system. Ald. McPhillips in his reply made a determined effort to have the recommendation of the committee and Ald. The speeches of Ald. Parnell and Ald. O'Meara he regarded as "childish" and "nonsense." Turning to Ald. O'Meara, Conductor, he said with considerable feeling:

Ald. McPhillips continued his heated address for over half an hour. The recommendation, he said, came indorsd by the committee.

Boy Shot Dead by a Non-Union

Who Narrowly Escaped Being Lynched by the Crowd - The Conductor Charged With Murder-1,000 Troops Called Out.

Cleveland, July 24. - A 15-year-old boy named Cornzwich was shot and instantly killed by a non-union conductor on Orange street this afternoon. Cornzwich was a passenger on a Broadway car, and made a remark to the conductor, Ralph Q. Hawley, of 103 Bollvar street. Cornzwich then alighted from the car, and the conductor got off and followed him. Near Perry street the lad looked around at Hawley, and the latter pulled a revolver and shot him through the head. The weapon was fired at short range and the boy died almost instantly. The boy's body was carried into a nearby

Patrolman Heliman was riding upon the Broadway car upon which Hawley was the conductor, and at once placed the latter under arrest. The car was run down town and Hawley was taken to the central police station.

An immense mob of people, enraged at the shooting quickly gathered at the scene. The police charged upon the crowd, which was partially dispersed, but soon another congregated. Another Broadway car came down Orange street and was stoned at Perry street. The police again charged the mob and dispersed it.

ANOTHER STORY. In the death of Henry Cornzwich, slain by a bullet fired by Ralph P. Hawley, a conductor on the Broadway line, is recorded the first fatality of the strike. Shortly after noon Hawley's car approached Orange street, and was beset by a crowd of men and boys. Cornzwich, the 19-year-old son of a butcher, was astride a horse and rode to the side of the car, keeping pace with it for some distance. Various stories are told as to what passed between the conductor and the boy, but the mob was suddenly called to its senses by the sight of Hawley, who jumped to the street and started in pursuit of Cornzwich. The latter, closely followed by his pursuer, turned up Perry street. At Woodland avenue the latter pulled his revolver and fired. His victim fell, fatally wounded, with a ghastly wound in the left temple, and died soon after being removed to the hospital.

The crowd, which before the incident had been so violent, was awed by the seriousness of the affair, and permitted the conductor to walk back to his car. He was arrested and taken to the station, where a charge of murder was entered against him. When der was entered against him. When the car returned in charge of another man and laden with police, thousands of people were crowded around the fatal spot. The track was blockaded and the stalled cars bombarded with stones, pieces of brick and sticks of wood. The police managed by dint of using their clubs to clear the way using their clubs to clear the way after a delay of about half an hour.
