Major C. A. Moss, one of the most prominent members of the local bar, has died of wounds in the Red Cross Hospital at Rouen, France. He was the son of former Chief Justice Sir Charles Moss, and son-in-law of Mr. Justice Brannon. In 1914 he was a candidate in the Ontario Liberal interest in the provincial campaign.

Word that he was wounded came two weeks ago, and until recently he was reported to be making favorable progress.

Soon after the war started he joined the Royal Grenadiers, and gained his majority. He went overseas with the 81st Battalion. On arrival in England he was so anxious to get to the firing line that he took the rank of captain. At the front he was connected with the 3rd (Toronto) Battalion. At the opening of the weekly court yesterday Mr. Justice Riddell paid a tribute to Major Moss, saying that "he was a man of high character, an accurate lawyer, efficient counsel, an honest man and a gentleman."

Quickly arriving on the battle front, he displayed in the field the coolness all we know him expected of him, and the devotion and valor which are the glory of the British soldier.

Lieut. Gus Stupart of the 75th Battalion, eldest son of Sir Frederick Stupart, director of the Dominion meteorological service, died of wounds in France on Oct. 22. Lieut. Capt. Frank R. Newman, who has just died of wounds, was for three years local manager of Canadian Fairbanks Morse Co. Limited. He joined the Q. O. R. in October, 1914, and one month later was attached to the Toronto Overseas Battalion.

Treasurer to Raise Loan, Says Market Looks Good

Finance Treasurer Bradshaw yesterday announced his intention of raising a new loan of $2,500,000. He declared last night that the market looked good at the present, and the bonds should be readily absorbed because they are for an average of only 6-2-5 years and payable in gold to both Toronto and New York. The rate of interest is five per cent. Patriotic grants of $1,494,000 are to be financed out of the loan.

WRITS MAY RAIN UPON THE CITY

Many Actions Threatened in Connection With Morley Avenue Disposal Plant.

ASKS FOR INJUNCTION

Avalanche Likely if Attorney-General is Not Added as Party to Suit Entered.

Unless the attorney-general is added as a party to the case entered by Samuel E. Fieldhouse, a confectioner, of Queen street east, who is suing the city for an injunction and $10,000 damages, 300 suits may be launched against the city in connection with the Morley avenue sewage disposal plant. Application was made on behalf of Mr. Fieldhouse before the master-in-chancery for an order adding the attorney-general.

It is pointed out that unless the attorney-general is added it may be held that the plaintiff is not entitled to an injunction, and that damages alone will satisfy his claim. Other residents in the neighborhood would be affected by an injunction, but would not be to be satisfied by an award of damages to Mr. Fieldhouse.

RECIPE TO DARKEN
GRAY HAIR

This 'Home-Made Mixture Darkens Gray Hair and Relieves Dandruff.

To a half pint of water add: 1 oz. Bay Rum; 1 oz. small box Glycerine; 1-4 oz.

These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used.

A half pint should be enough to darken the gray hair and relieve dandruff. It does not stain the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

"DON'T WANT EITHER TO FIGHT OR PAY TAXES"

Comment of Commissioner Ardagh to Applicant for Assessment Reduction.

"A lot of you fellows don't want either to fight for your country or pay your taxes," declared William Ardagh at the court of revision yesterday, when Henry Busbaum, 216 West Queen street, appealed against the assessment on his Centre avenue property.

"They have to stay home and watch their property," added W. A. Smith. Busbaum was refused any reduction when it was shown that land he tried to sell for $30,000 was assessed for only $11,000.

Once more Judge Morson's income tax was confirmed. The assessment is $3820, which means he has to pay $3820. A decision on the same matter is pending from Judge McGillivray of Whistler, which may upset the court's ruling. In that event Judge Morson will probably carry his case to the privy council.

The Iroquois Hotel had its business assessment of $35,000 cut, as also did the Prince George on its assessment of $10,491.

Old Jail Over the Don Must Close Up, Says Mayor Church

According to Mayor Church, the old jail over the Don is to be closed up and Cottage No. 2 at the Industrial Farm is to be declared a common jail. The government, he says, now shows a disposition to meet the city in its request.

At present there are only 80 prisoners at the Don.

The big issue is, what will be done with the jail officials. They are appointed by the government and paid by the city.

Recruiting Officers Discuss Methods for the Province

The three recruiting officers for Ontario, recently appointed under the military service commission at Ottawa, W. K. McKay, No. 1 Division; Lieut. Col. Brock, Toronto, and Capt. W. N. Bowen of Kingston, were in conference yesterday with Dr. A. H. Abbott, of the provincial committee for the organization of resources to discuss recruiting methods for Ontario.

No definite conclusions were reached, and it is not probable that anything definite will be done until the return of R. B. Bennett, M.P., of Calgary.

Prohibition in the Province
Is Working Satisfactorily

The Ontario License Board has been collecting statistics with regard to the effect of the Ontario Temperance Act throughout the province. The results are now almost complete, and J. D. Flavell, chairman, said yesterday that they were remarkable.

In Toronto the average number of arrests under the Act has been nine a day, as compared to 31 before the act was in force. The results in other parts of the province are equally satisfactory, he said, but there has been a slight increase recently. Means will be taken by the board to combat this reaction.

BATTLE PICTURES PAINTED IN ACTION

Records of the War Made While
Shot and Shell Fall All
Around the Artist.

COMING TO TORONTO

Official Government Paintings to Be Seen at Simpson's for Red Cross.

Accompanying the official French Government war relic exhibit which is to be shown on the top floor of the store of the Robert Simpson Company, Limited, for two weeks beginning October 28th, is a most unusual collection of water color paintings. Together with the 75-centimetre guns, torn mortars and wrecked aeroplanes, will be shown these thrilling battlefield paintings, brilliant in their colorings, some of them pitifully gruesome.

Charles Duvent, the famous French war artist, has furnished a spectacular setting of several dozen pictures painted under shell fire. These depict many thrilling moments in the French advance and various scenes at the front.

Duvent's work in itself makes an exhibition worthy of the world's greatest museums. Experts have declared that Duvent has struck a new military note and have called his paintings "psychopictures." Critics say that his work is more thrilling and human than that of Defaille or De Neuville. Duvent was wounded at the front more than one year ago and while convalescing in a field hospital managed to secure some paints and brushes. So impressed were several army officers that some of these paintings were sent to General Joffre, who at once secured a commission for Duvent to paint official government pictures, and a little later Duvent was back in the trenches at work on his paintings, some of which were ruined by shrapnel before completion.

After a year on the western fighting front in both France and Belgium, where he sketched numerous battlefields and actual engagements, Monsieur Duvent, who is a member of the French Academy and the Legion of Honor, came to America last spring for an allied bazaar in New York, at which his paintings were first shown. He had been continually under fire and perhaps exposed to danger more frequently than the regular soldier.

Had to Take Refuge.
"I was commissioned by the French Government to go to the firing line and paint the battle front and give to the world true pictures in colors wrought by savage warfare," said Mr. Duvent in discussing his paintings. "On many occasions I was under fire in various parts of France and Belgium. My commission instructed me to finish all my pictures on the field, for on several occasions I was compelled to take refuge behind haystacks and stone walls for protection from machine gun fire. While I was painting the ruins of the cathedral at Arras shells were bursting about it and the cathedral was hit several times."

Before leaving Paris, Monsieur Duvent received a letter from Mr. Whitney Warren, the prominent American architect, who praised the artist's work. His letter to Mr. Duvent was as follows:

"My Dear Monsieur Duvent, I am glad that you are accompanying your collection of sketches and pictures to Toronto. I only regret that I cannot have the privilege of seeing them. What I like especially is the sincerity and truth with which you rendered your subjects. They are not merely existing conditions without the slightest exaggeration, and for this reason will be doubly interesting to the American and Canadian public."

"I cannot insist too much on the faithfulness you have exercised in reproducing exactly what you saw, and have visited almost all the places you have depicted, and the result you have obtained is living and admirable. These destructions, as I have said before, are barbaric, made simply in the spirit of destruction, without any military reason whatsoever and against all stipulation of international law, simply to spread more misery and terror among the civil population. It is all useless and pitiable, and it is, indeed, wise that you should take them to America as the people there may be able to form an idea of what the German conception of war between civilized people is. They have not changed their methods since prehistoric times, and alas, the present experience goes to prove they will never change. Their methods may be up to date, but they will remain eternally."

"Wishing you a successful and pleasurable journey to a country where every Frenchman is sure of a warm welcome, believe me, faithfully, yours, Whitney Warren."

GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY REMANDED FOR SENTENCE

Michael B. Shorthall Plotted With Others to Defraud Bank of Montreal.

M. B. Shorthall was found guilty in the county judges' criminal court of having conspired with Michael Flannigan and Patrick Walsh to obtain possession of $1925 in bank notes stolen from the New Westminster branch of the Bank of Montreal and placed in a safety deposit vault in Toronto. He was remanded until this morning, when he will appear before Judge Winchester for sentence.

The Westminster branch was robbed about six years ago, and over $250,000 was secured in bills. Since then some of the stolen bills have been discovered in circulation with the numbers altered. Patrick Walsh, a Chicago railroad man, was found guilty some two years ago of bringing some of the stolen money into Canada. He was released on bail, pending a stated case and when the conviction was sustained he failed to appear for sentence.
