QUIT'S SERVICE AFTER 27 YEARS

Had Been Engaged in Blacksmith Work for More Than 55 Years.

After 27 years' faithful and efficient service on the Canadian National Railways, William McNulty retired on superannuation yesterday. During that span of more than quarter of a century, Mr. McNulty was employed with the old Intercolonial, the Canadian Government Railways and the C. N. R., being stationed in this city in charge of blacksmithing. He first joined the mechanical staff at the old Intercolonial roundhouse on Forest street, and since the transfer of the shop to the Island Yard he has been located there.

55 YEARS AT WORK

Prior to joining the old Intercolonial, Mr. McNulty was employed in Boston, Salem, Mass., and Noank, Conn. He has been constantly engaged in blacksmith work for 55 years, which is considered to be a record. Originally, he was a ship blacksmith and was in business in this line with the late John McKelvie of this city. Mr. McNulty now joins the number of C. N. R. veterans who have retired recently, among them Cyrus McFarland, Charles James and William McLaughlin.

TO TAKE A HOLIDAY

Mr. McNulty expects to spend a week during August at the shore at St. Anne de Beaupre, being accompanied there by his brother, Hugh McNulty of Boston, who arrived in the city a few days ago. The brothers also expect to visit New York.

GIRLS RETURN FROM CAMP AT CHIPMAN

C. G. I. T. Outing This Year Was Great Success—Treasure Buried.

The members of the C. G. I. T. camp, "Wegesegum," arrived home from Chipman last evening, after 12 days packed full of activity. They were all tired but very happy. They reported that Laura Baxter, business manager, with her assistant, Miss Harriet Roberts, remained behind to settle up the camp. True to its Indian name, the camp was conducted along the lines of the Indian government by tribes. Marjorie Trotter, B. A., was Great Chief, assisted by Little Chief Grace Marshall and the chiefs of the nine tribes into which the camp was divided.

BURIED TREASURE

The final ceremony of camp is very impressive, when the girls march, according to their tribal ranks, to a certain spot and bury their treasure, usually by moonlight, just after twilight. This treasure is dug up on the second evening at camp by those who return next year. The treasure consists of souvenirs of the camp such as the camp paper, which was called "The Spider" this season, camp code for the season and other little items which distinguish each camp.

GOOD WORK DONE

The little chiefs have full control of their respective tribes, and on very short notice prepare to give a performance when requested by the dramatic leader, who was Miss Marjorie Johnson of Saint John this year. The physical leader, Miss Hazel McCready, accomplished wonderful things with her direction of the tribes in her department.

Mrs. R. G. Fulton, camp mother, was impartial in her praise, and extremely pleased with the splendid leadership of every department. She said that it was the success of this camp and made everything go smoothly.

Miss Trotter left last evening for Wallace, N. S., where she is taking charge of a camp for leaders of the C. G. I. T. for 12 days.

Another Big Fish is Hooked on Douglas Lake

For the third time in the last two weeks a big trout was taken last evening from the waters of Douglas Lake. Albert Crawford being the lucky angler. He hooked a fine specimen weighing four pounds and measuring 23 inches in length. Mr. Crawford recently landed a trout weighing four and one-half pounds from the same lake, and a few days later his wife caught another nice one which tipped the scales at three and one-half pounds. The fish taken last evening will be placed on exhibition this afternoon at a garden party at Loch Lomond, being held in aid of the Protestant Orphans' Home.

Charles Flemming, 23, Dies at Home Here

Three Months Jail Sentence Meted Out

Albert Herring, charged with stealing a fountain pen and chain at the Admiral Beatty Hotel from Robert Leary, employee at the hotel, was sentenced to three months in jail by Magistrate Henderson in the Police Court this morning.

In his sentence, Mr. Leary said he was on the night shift on July 26 when he missed the articles from a locker. Later, he found them in the hotel. The initials "A. W. H." were scratched on the back since he lost the watch.

H. C. Wilson, employee at the Admiral Beatty, said he saw the articles in a drawer in accused's room at the hotel.

As Hiram Sees It

"Well, sir," said Mr. Hiram Hornbeam to The Times reporter, "I ain't a-gonna talk politics or coal strikes or evulsion or pettish bugs. I aint a-gonna go gallivantin' round the country burnin' gwine—no nothin' like that. I'm goin' down to Charlie Tilley's picnic for the orphans. It only comes once a year—an' it makes a real feel good to see the kids happy. I callate we don't think about 'em half enough—or the kids that aint orphans—nuther. They're the comin' generation—an' we orp be tryin' all we kin to keep 'em healthy an' strong an' 'nustat an' well-trained. Now we aint I see a poor little feller in clo's three sizes too big dodg'in' around the alleys—an' I know some. I'm goin' down to see Charlie an' his committee makin' them kids happy on the Barrack Square this afternoon—Yes, sir."

REVISORS HAVE PROBLEM TO SOLVE

6,000 Names to Check and No Money to Secure Additional Help.

The activities of the workers for both political parties in seeking to have the names of eligible voters added to the official list, has created a rather unique situation in the city.

The election law provides that the names of all persons desiring to be added to the list shall be in the hands of the Board of Revision and posted 16 days before the date of election. Usually there has been about 100 or 150 names to be added, but this year there was over 6,000 names handed in on the last day allowed by the law.

To help in preparing these lists for the printers, each party gave the services of two stenographers and this materially aided the revisors.

Before the names can be officially added to the list the revisors have to check up each individual name and go through the whole 16 wards to see that the name is not already on the list in one of them.

The revisors board numbers three, and they have no money with which to secure clerks to help in the work, no appropriation being made by either the city or province to cover an expense of this kind.

The result, under the present circumstances, must be either that the lists will not be completely checked before the election, or the revisors must work night and day or in some way secure additional help in order to have the lists in order before the day of polling.

400 EXPECTED AT ORPHANS' PICNIC

All is Ready For Annual Treat For Children at Barrack Square.

More than 400 children from the orphan institutions of the city and surrounding districts are expected to assemble on the Barrack Green this afternoon for their annual treat and picnic, given by Charles F. Tilley, of West Saint John.

Mr. Tilley was about early this morning, after working until a late hour on the Green last evening, marking out the courses for the races and fixing up the place generally. He said that he had been four months making the arrangements and hoped to make this picnic the best yet. He will have a large staff of workers and the business men have loaned trucks and cars to transport the children to the grounds, where everything was completed and ready today. The workers were there from 9 this morning.

Races will begin at 2 o'clock and supper will be served when these are concluded. The affair will last until 6 o'clock, Mr. Tilley said.

Dining Room Suites

should be considered from two standpoints—beauty and strength of construction. Some dealers, in their desire to cut prices show suites which are superficially attractive, but cannot possibly give many years of service. This is one of the reasons why you should come to a reliable concern which has proved, during more than thirty years of its business career, that no goods of an inferior character are sent out to its customers under any condition.
