WOMAN'S EYES.

BY F. H. BURRINGTON.

I love the eye that looks an azure world,
For then I dream of skies, and all their blueness,
Or Violets in their own mute worth impearled,
Which show me beauty in their youth and newness
I love the eye that seems a thunder cloud,
The stormy black one, flinging out its fire;
There is a hidden home behind its shroud,
Where all the spirits of young Love retire.
I love the gray eye—though the least of all—
Whose look is like the evening's silent fall,
An indistinct, unsettled kind of light,
The mingled poetry of day night;
But blue, or black, or gray, or more uncommon,
I love them all, when they belong to Woman.

THE INSANITY OF GENIUS.

Mental alineation occurs even in animals, and is sufficiently evident to those who watch them with philosophic or scientific eyes; but, from the contracted measure of their intellect, it is but little noticed by ordinary observers. The smaller the intelligence of man, and the less it has profited by cultivation, or the nearer approach he makes to the brute creation, the less of interest does he present as being endowed with reason and sence; and the aberration of these faculties exhibit relatively little for observation, compared with the man of genius and education, who has had the misfortune to lose his self control, and have his noblest faculties estranged from their proper course. There is an intimate alliance between genius and insanity. The mediocre or impoverished intellect is comparatively safe. Insanity is a disease peculiarly incident to persons remarkable for talent or genius. Dryden correctly says—

Great wits are sure to madness near allied,
And thin partitions do their bounds divide.

The observation is as old as Aristotle; and innumerable examples, from this time to our own, might be referred to in support of its truth. In the writings of Fielding, Metastasio, Pope, Dryden, Rousseau, Madame Roland, Dr. Johnson, Byron, and many others, description of incipient madness evidently drawn from there own sensations Metastasio wept over his "Olympiad," and says, "When I apply with attention, the nerves of my sensorium are put in a violent tumult, and I grow as red as a drunkard." Pascal often sprung from his chair while composing his celebrated works, seeing a fiery gulf opening by his side. Luther maintained that he saw and conversed with Satan. Descartes was often followed by an invisible person calling on him to pursue the search of truth. Benvenuto Cellini saw a resplendent light hovering over his own shadow; and Raffaelle says—alluding to his celebrated picture, the Transfiguration—that engaged upon it, he might be looked upon as an enthusiastic madman; that he forget himself, and fancied he saw the whole action passing before his eyes.

In Cowper we have another instance. He was decidedly insane, even at the time he wrote his most celebrated poems. All this time, and for years, he doubted the identity of his intimate friend, the Revend Mr. Newton. Cruden, too, the author of the "Concordance of the Bible," was insane more than thirty years, during which time he prepared and published that learned and valuable book. Robert Hall might be mentioned as an instance of one in whom insanity did not injure the mental powers. That Tasso was insane has been doubted by some; but no one who has carefully read his letters and has much knowledge of insanity and of the insane, can doubt that he for so for many years. See a late interesting work of the Honorable Richard Henry Wilde, entitled, "Conjectures and Researches concerning the Love, Madness, and imprisonment of Torquato Tasso." Although we thus see genius in frequent connexion with insanity, we do not mean to mean to say that the stupid never become insane, though this is the opinion of some, and has been adapted and politely expressed by Penrose, in this "Flight of Fancy.

Hail, awful madness! hail!
Thy realm extends, thy powers prevail,
Far as the voyager spreads his vent'rous sail;
Nor best nor wisest, are exempt from thee—
Folly, folly's only free.

Insanity is not only nearly allied to genius, but it is not incompatible with the possession and exhibition of great mental powers, even when the disease is distinctly noticed. That a man is crazy, decidedly deranged on certain subjects is no absolute evidence that his mind is not vigorous on others, and that he is as well qualified to attend to some kind of business as when not insane.

Simon Brown, a Dissenting clergyman, who wrote a "Defence of the Religion of Nature and of the Christian Religion," in answer to "Tindal's Christianity as old as the Creation," a defence which was universally allowed to be the best that controversy had produced—was insane at the time and fully believed that, by the judgment of God, his rational soul had perished, and that he had only brute life. This he stated in his dedication of the work to the Queen.

Nearly all of the poetical works of Cowper were composed at periods subsequent to his first attack of insanity. From his peculiarly sensitive moral nature, with the world of manhood: seized with mental disorder, he had retreated from society; and with intellectual powers unimpaired, returned to the childhood of feeling and sentiment. He then commenced and finished those poems which while they have imparted, and will yet impart, entertainment and instruction to myriads of readers, have stamped his name with the indelible impress of immortality. Cowper's description of his own melancholy case applies to many cases we have seen. In several instances, the expressions used by patients in letters to their friends have been so strikingly similar to those found in Cowper's that we have been suprised to learn that they had never read his writing. Cowper, however, has given descriptions of insanity from other sources. Thus he beautifully describes the cause of Crazy Kate:—

There often wanders one whom better days
Saw better clad, in cloak of satin trimmed,
With lace and hat with splendid ribbon bound.
A serving maid was she, and fell in love
With one who left her, went to sea and died,
Her fancy followed him through foaming waves
To distant shores; and she would sit and weep
At what a sailor suffers. Fancy, too,
Delusive most where warmest wishes are,
Would oft anticipate his glad return,
And dream of transports she was not to know.
She heard the doleful tidings of his death,
And never smiled again. And now she roams
The dreary waste; there spends the livelong day—
And there, unless when charity forbids,
The livelong night. A tattered apron hides—
Worn as a cloak, and hardly hides—a gown
More tattered still; and both will ill conceal
A bosom heaved with never ceasing sighs.
She begs an idle pin of all she meets,
And hoards them in her sleeve; but needful food,
Though pinched with hunger oft—or comelier clothes,
Though chilled with cold, asks never. Kate is crazed.

Begging pin is somewhat a characteristic of the insane. Barely a day passes but one is not begged from us by those who make no use of it when obtained. Recently, when asked for a pin by a patient very much deranged, we said, "Have you ever heard of Crazy Kate?" The patient instantly added, "She begs an idle of all she meets," and quoted the whole sentence correctly. Byron frequently alludes to insanity. In "Childe Harold" he thus refers, no doubt, to his own case:—

I have thought
Too long and darkly, till my brain become,
In its own eddy, boiling and o'er wrought,
A whirling gulf of phantasy and flame;
And thus, untaught in youth my heart to tame,
My springs of life were poisoned.

Dr. Johnson, who was also constitutionally disposed to melancholy and insanity, has often alluded to the subject, and in a manner that shows he had studied the subject thoroughly. His account in "Rasselas" of the delusion of the astronomer, who, from forty years attention to astronomy, to the exclusion of all other topics, become convinced that he ruled the planetary system, is admirably related; and his reflections upon the causes of his delusion and his method of cure, are such as would meet the approbation of those very conversant with insanity.—Medical Circular.

After a christening at a church in Southwark, while the minister was making out the certificate, he happened to say, 'Let me see, this is the thirtieth?' 'Thirtieth!' exclaimed the indignant mother, 'indeed, it is only the eleventh!' The minister was alluding to the day of the month.

"Henry, my love, I wish you would drop that book and talk with me, I feel so dull.' A long silence and no reply. 'Oh, Henry, my foot is asleep.' 'Is it? well don't talk, dear, you might wake it.'

Some one calls snow the dust swept from the streets of heaven.

"Tom, you seem to gain flesh every day—the grocery business must agree with you; what did you weigh last?' 'Well, Simmon, I really forget now, but it strikes me it was a pound of butter.'"

The Subscriber having been appointed Agent to the above Company for New-Brunswick, begs to announce that he is prepared to receive Proposals for FIRE AND LIFE ASSURANCE. The large Capital of the Company, and the number and influence of its Proprietors, enable it to rank with the most eligible Offices, either in America or Europe, with respect to the advantages offered to the Public.

FIRE BRANCH.

Persons Assured by this Company are not subject to any covenants or calls to make good losses which may happen to themselves or other, nor do they depend on any uncertain fund or contribution, the Capitol Stock of this Company being an unquestionable security to the Assured in case of Loss or Damage by Fire.

LIFE BRANCH.

In addition to the more customary methods of Insurance, the Company likewise Assures Lives on any of the following contingencies:—

For the terms of One Year, Seven Years, or any other definite period.

For the whole continuance of Life.—The Premiums to cease, after a limited number of Annual Payments.

For Two Joint Lives.—The sum assured to be paid on the death of either.

On the longest of Two or Three Lives.—The sum assured to be payable at the death of the last survivor; or,

The Survivorships.—To secure the payment or the sum assured, if a life A die before another life B.

For a sum to be payable at age 60, or at death.

Premiums on Credit.—A portion of the Premiums on Credit. Assurances may be effected in various ways, not enumerated, to meet the convenience of parties.

The important advantages afforded by the Company in the Life Branch will include the following viz:—

The Guarantee of an ample Capital, and Exemption of the Assured from liability of Partnership.

Moderate Premiums.

Large Participation of Profits by the Assured amounting to Two-thirds of its net amount, which may be applied at the option of the party effecting the Assurance:—1st. By the immediate payment of the sum so apportioned.—2nd. By an equivalent increase of the sum assured.

Small Charge for Management.—The expenses of the Office being borne in due proportion by the two Branches.

Prompt Settlement of Claims.

Policies lapsed by non-payment of the Premium may be renewed within three months, by paying the premium, with a fine of 10s. per cent., on the production of evidence to the satisfaction of the Directors of the good health of the life assured.

The Company will always be prepared to Purchase the Policies of this Office at their equitable value or will grant a New Policy in lieu thereo without any further payment of Premium, for a sum to be agreed on.

Extra Premiums, suitable to special circumstances, will be accepted to enable a party possessing a Policy on the life of another to guard against the possibility of its being vitiated by the Life departing beyond limits, or by any other cause.

Thirty Days are allowed for the Payment of Premiums after the day on which they respectively

Additional Advatages offered to Lives Assured with this Company at St. John, N. B.

I.—RESIDENCE.—Persons assured for the whole term of life will have permission, without the payment of extra Premium, to reside in any part of Europe, or in any place in North America to the north of 38 degrees of North Latitude, but not to the westward of the Mississippi River.

II. VOYAGES.—They will also, if not sea faring by profession, be allowed, without any extr charge—

To cross and re-cross the Atlantic Ocean, in steamers or first class sailing-vessels;

To pass from any part of Europe to any other or from any part of North America to another within the limits above specified; also,

To pass to and from, but not to reside in any place which shall not be further south than 35 degrees of North Latitude, but not to the westward of the Mississippi River.

MAGEE, HATTER.

THE Subscriber would respectfully inform his friends and the public in general, that he has removed a part of his Establishment to 27, North Side of King Street, directly opposite Cross Street, and one door below Mr. J. Frost's Shoe Store where he will be found ready to serve the Public with HATS and CAPS of his own Manufacture, made under his inspection, which he feels warranted in saying are equal to any made or sold in this City, as has been proved at the Exhibitions held in this City and Fredericton, and also at Halifax, N. S., from which he received a Certificate of merit under the Seal of that Province.

The business will be conducted as formerly at his old Stand, under the management of his Nephew, D. MAGEE, a practical Hatter; where the Public will always find a good article, and at a reasonable price.

HATS and CAPS made to order.

MEDICAL REVOLUTION!
THE WORLD UNANIMOUS.
HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.
THE GREAT COUNTER IRRITANT!

The virus of disease often makes its way to the internal organs through the pores of the skin. This penetrating Ointment, melting under the hand as it is rubbed in, is absorbed through the same channels, and, reaching the seat of inflammation, promptly and invariably subdues it, whether located in the kidneys, the liver, the lungs, or any other important organ. It penetrates the surface to the interior, through the countless tubes that communicate with the skin as summer rain passes into the fevered earth diffusing its cool and regenerating influence.

SKIN DISEASES & GLANDULAR SWELLINGS.

Every species of exterior irritation is quickly reduced by the anti-inflamatory action of this Ointment, Angry ERUPTIONS, such as SALT RHEUM, ERYSIPELAS, TETTER, RINGWORM, SCALD HEAD, NETTLE RASH, SCABIES (or ITCH) &c., die out, to return no more under its application Hospital experience in all parts of the world proves its infallibility in diseases of the skin, the muscles, the joints and the glands.

ULCERS, SORES, AND TUMORS.

The effect of this unrivaled external remedy upon Scrofula, and other virulent ulcers and sores, is almost miraculous. It first discharges the poison which produces suppuration and proud flesh, and thus the cures which its healing properties afterward complete are safe as well as permanent.

WOUNDS, BRUISES, BURNS, AND SCALDS.

In cases of the fracture of the bones, injuries caused by steam explosions, BRUISES, BURNS, SCALDS, RHEUMATISM, STIFFNESS OF THE JOINTS, and contraction of the sinews, it is employed and warmly recommended by the faculty. This marvellous remedy has been introduced by its inventor in person into all the leading Hospitals of Europe, and no private household should be without it.

UNDENIABLE TESTIMONY.

The Medical Staff of the French and English Armies in the Crimea have officially signed their approval of Holloway's Ointment, as the most reliable dressing for sabre cuts, stabs, and gun-shot wounds. It is also used by the surgeons of the Allied Navies.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:

Bunions,	Rheumatism,	Sore Throats,
Burns,	Ringworm,	Sores of all kinds
Capped hands,	Salt Rheum,	Sprains,
Chilblains,	Scalds,	Stiff Joints
Fistula,	Skin Diseases	Tetter,
Gout,	Swelled	Ulcers,
Lumbago,	Glands,	Venereal Sores,
Mercurial	Sore Legs,	Wounds of all
Eurptions,	Sore Breasts,	kinds.
Piles,	Sore Heads,
