ENGLISH MUSICIANS IN A FINE REGITAL

A rare privilege was accorded St. John's audience in Main street Baptist church yesterday afternoon and last evening when the renowned English musicians, Gatty Sellers, organist, composer and violinist, L. R. A. M., State Trumpeter gave a recital before large audiences. The programme for the recital consisted of the Coronation music, including the same fanfares and historical trumpet calls rendered at the Coronation ceremonies at Westminster.

Of the merits of the recital last evening comment is needless; the distinguished artists who have entertained royalty gave one of the most, if not the most remarkable and pleasing performances that has ever been the privilege of St. John's music lovers to hear, and the large numbers who attended the recitals were enthusiastic in their expressions of appreciation.

At the afternoon recital Gatty Sellers played six numbers, including

MILL TOWN WIPED OUT BY FLOOD AND FIRE

Continued from page one. were swept away by the water. Women rocking their babies at home and preachers preparing their Sunday sermons were hurried and sternly at one and the same time before their startled senses could realize the meaning of it all.

The greatest loss of life by fire occurred at a sharp turn of the valley just below Main street where the debris was caught and compressed with terrific power by the circling sweep of the flood. The wreckage of the busiest portion of the town was carried to that point and from upset stoves and lamps caught fire.

It is believed that scores of persons are buried under from ten to twenty feet of wreckage there and the task of recovering them will necessarily be a difficult one.

SEARCHING FOR LOVED ONES AMONG THE DEAD. In a drizzling rain which later changed to a beating storm, hundreds of volunteers carried on the work of rescue today while a general search from the fate that had overcome friends and relatives, viewed the muddy corpses, anxious and fearful to know if any among them were loved ones. Fires were still burning briskly in some portions of the wreckage this afternoon, although they have been under control for several hours. The Buffalo and Susquehanna Railroad found its way into Austin over the railway today by connecting with the Keating Summit spur, a branch track which follows the hill. By the route they landed several fire companies from nearby towns.

Not a manufacturing industry is left standing and not a business place is intact. A few cheaply constructed wooden houses occupied by foreigners and located on the hillside is all that remains of the residence portion. A fortunate exception to the general destruction is the fact that the little hospital remained practically undamaged on the hillside. The school building was also saved.

Chief of Police Baker of Austin, one of the survivors, with the assistance of Ernest Hamilton and a number of men from nearby towns, maintained as good order as could be expected throughout the night and until the arrival of the company of the Constabulary at eleven o'clock this morning. There were men in the street corner on account of the wreckage in the park and searchers were allowed to pass them.

ELECTION IN PROGRESS WHEN THE FLOOD BROKE. A primary election was in progress in the town hall at the time the flood broke a hatless man dashing by yielded to the crowd about the booth something about "the dam bursting" and the election speculators and voters fished out and took to the hills. Some escaped, but many were too late and were whirled into the debris which formed a dam of itself just below Main street. The jam of debris at this point is at least 75 feet high and three or four blocks long. In the mass a majority of victims are believed to be mangled and burned. The halves of houses, twisted telephone poles, huge quantities of brick walls and lumber are interwoven and locked together with such force that the rescuers have to fight their way into the debris to reach the survivors.

The dam of debris which formed in Austin saved the western part of Costello. It checked the advance of the current temporarily during which the alarm spread down the valley and the residents of Costello had time to flee to the hills. The eastern side of the village, however, was entirely destroyed, rendering about 400 people homeless. It is believed that only three lives were lost out of these only one body that of an unidentified woman, has been recovered at a late hour this afternoon.

THE MYSTERIOUS "W.P." LA PRESSE SAYS IN LIME LIGHT AGAIN

Mr. Pugsley's Frank Used to Save Postage on Material Sent Out by Ottawa Sporting Organization. The Ottawa Journal gives an interesting account of a recent transaction in which the name of Mr. Pugsley figures in a characteristic fashion. It says: "Defending His Majesty's mails while extending to his members an invitation to attend Divine Service, is the little inconsistency in connection with a notice sent out by a local sporting organization inviting its members to attend church service on Sunday text."

"The inconsistency in the sender's religious scruples, and the little scheme to defraud is evident by the fact that the messages which are being mailed in long envelopes are "franked," the initials used for the purpose of defrauding being "W. P. M. P."

"W. P. are the initials of two members of the late parliament, but one of them the Hon. Wm. Patterson, was defeated on the 21st. The other is Hon. Wm. Pugsley. Mr. Pugsley did not frank these letters himself, but his frank was used on official public business.

"The invitation to members of a club to attend Divine Service is not regarded by the Post Office department as the official business of the country."

RALLY DAY WAS WELL OBSERVED The Robert Raikes Sunday School Programme Carried Out by Several of the City Churches Yesterday. The rally day services in connection with the Exmouth street Methodist church were largely attended. A printed programme for use on the general board of Sunday schools and Young People's societies by the denomination everywhere, and this was followed closely.

The service was a commemorative one in honor of Robert Raikes, the founder of the modern Sunday school. During the afternoon William Short, L. R. A. M., principal trumpeter to the King, played a march in honor of the school which was enthusiastically received. A very interesting address on Robert Raikes was given by the pastor, Rev. W. W. Brewer.

Robert Raikes was born in the city of Gloucester, England, where his father published the Gloucester Journal. His pity was aroused by the condition of the poorer class of children in his native city, and to ameliorate their condition as far as possible he started Sunday schools where they could obtain the rudiments of secular and religious education.

The new departure aroused a good deal of ridicule, but gradually the accounts of success that were appearing in the work published in the columns of the Journal attracted wide attention, and Raikes himself lived to see the Sunday schools in many of the English cities. It has been estimated that today there are about 28,000,000 Sunday school scholars in the world. Of these 1,000,000 are in the Methodist church. The Sunday school work of the denomination is officers and teachers of 37,500. The Book Room last year issued nearly 400,000 Sunday school papers and lesson books.

BROCKTON PASTOR IN ZION CHURCH PULPIT

Rev. Allan Hudson, M. A., was the Preacher at Both Services Yesterday - His Discourses were Eloquent. The opening services in connection with the anniversary of Zion church were held in the church yesterday and the occasion was marked by special services.

In the morning the regular service was held at 11 o'clock conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. William Lawson. The music especially prominent by the choir for the occasion, was of unusual merit, and the musical programme at both services was given an excellent rendition.

The pulpit at both services was occupied by Rev. Allan Hudson, M. A., of Brockton. Rev. Hudson is known throughout the United States and Canada as an orator of rare eloquence. In his sermons yesterday he created a lasting impression on his hearers. Eloquent and forceful, possessing a pleasing voice, he has the happy faculty of arousing and sustaining the attention of his hearers.

At the morning service Mr. Hudson delivered an eloquent sermon on the subject of immortality taking as the text of his discourse the words "If a man die, shall he live again?"
