

DURABILITY

STRENGTH

SIMPLICITY

A cream separator that is worth buying must give long service. To do that, it must be built strong and the construction must be simple. To have simple construction in a separator you must have a Sharples Tubular. There is no other cream separator made that will perform its work so well for so long a time as the Tubular because there is no other separator so strongly built, or so simple in construction.

Sharples Tubular Cream Separators

get all the cream, have low supply can, are easy to run, easy to clean, because there is only one little piece in the bowl to cleanse after each running, and the machine oils itself. It combines Utility, Simplicity and Durability. A glance at the pie-plate construction of most separators will give you a fair idea of what we mean by "simple construction" and "strength." For full information about the Sharples Tubular write for booklet E. 193

Mr. R. Carpenter, Davenport, Wash., says "Having used a Sharples Cream Separator over sixteen years can say it is just fine."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Miscellaneous

CEMENT CISTERN.

1. Kindly inform me how best to build a cistern at the end of a bank barn. Should there be a stone wall built, and plastered inside with cement? If so, is mortar made by mixing cement and sand any better than lime and sand for building the stone wall? Would a concrete wall, plastered inside, be any better? I have plenty of stones, but would have to draw gravel about six miles.

2. Where is the Clipper fanning mill made? W. E. E.

Ans.—1. In your case, we think nothing better could be done than to build a stone wall inside, using ordinary lime mortar, and plaster heavily with cement mortar. Small, egg-shaped cisterns are often successfully plastered with cement directly on the clay.

2. We do not know. The manufacturers should advertise it. T.

ALFALFA OR LUCERNE.

On page 376, in your issue of 28th February, last, Reader in his question 3 refers to lucerne. Answering his query, the term alfalfa is used twice. On consulting Chambers' directory, printed in Edinburgh, I cannot find such a word as alfalfa, but lucerne presents itself without trouble. Why, then, may I ask, use a term or word not in our vocabulary? I love to call a spade a spade.

P. S.—Professor Hutt uses the name lucerne; I fancy he is correct.

D. MESSENGER.

Ans.—Alfalfa and lucerne are two names for the same thing. The former is probably Arabic in origin, while "lucerne" is supposed to have been given the plant from the canton lucerne in Switzerland. Previous to the introduction of the plant from Chili into California, about the middle of the last century, it was known among us as lucerne, but the name alfalfa has followed the crop into Spain and South America, thence into United States and Canada, and now it seems likely to supplant the French name entirely. The majority of agriculturists to-day have adopted the name alfalfa, and for this reason we prefer that out correspondents use this term henceforth.

DEVISE OF A FARM.

A willed his farm to his son B, B to pay an annuity to his mother, and certain shares to A's other children. One provision of will is B is not to sell farm or any part thereof during the life of his mother.

1. Can B be stopped cutting timber and selling it? The removal of said timber would lower value of farm, and in case land fell in value by the time the shares were to be paid (on death of mother), the other heirs would not get the full amount of their claims; that is, if B wished to act dishonestly.

2. Whose place would it be to act to prevent B selling timber, the heirs or executors?

3. If executors do not try to prevent B selling timber, will they be responsible for any deficiency if farm does not bring enough to pay shares in full?

4. B is working farm. To whom should he pay annuity, to mother or executors?

5. Should not B pay all moneys to the executors that the will calls for while mother is living, and then they pay all claims as they become due? Ontario.

A READER.

Ans.—1. Timber being legally regarded as part of the land, it would, in strictness, be contrary to the provision in the will against sale of any part of the farm during the mother's lifetime for B to sell any of the timber. But it is the real intention of the testator that is to govern, and such intention is to be gathered from a careful reading and consideration of the whole will. It is quite possible that upon such a perusal of the document it would appear that A had no intention to prohibit B from cutting and selling timber, but had in mind only the acreage of the farm, and the idea that during the mother's life there should be no sale of same, or of any parcel of it.

2. It would be for those beneficially interested; that is to say, the mother and the other children, to take the necessary legal steps.

3. No.

4. and 5. B should pay the annuity to his mother direct.

MOTHER'S GRATITUDE TO ZAM-BUK.

IT CURED HER BOY OF PAINFUL SORES.

Nothing is more unpleasant to the eye and more painful to the sufferer than boils and ulcers. At this period of the year many adults suffer acutely from these painful outbreaks. When boils, ulcers, etc., occur on children, it is pitiful to see the little ones suffer.

Mrs. E. Holmes, of 30 Guise St., Hamilton, is grateful for what Zam-Buk did for her little boy when in this pitiful plight. She says: "He suffered from spring eruptions, and then boils broke out on his neck. I tried blood-purifying remedies, but nothing seemed to do him the desired good. The boils got worse, and I could not send him to school. We tried a sample of Zam-Buk and it did him a little good, so I bought a 50-cent box. The result was really amazing. Inside a week's time, the boils had begun to dry up, and in a very short time indeed every one of them was healed."

Zam-Buk is a sure cure also for eczema, scalp sores, ringworm, poisoned wounds, chronic ulcers, chapped hands, cuts, cold sores, cracks, festering sores, eruptions and pustules due to blood poison, etc. It stops bleeding and cures piles, fistula, etc. Is antiseptic, an excellent "first aid." Every home and farmstead should have its box of Zam-Buk. All druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. 6 boxes for $2.50. Send 1c. stamp for trial box.
