The restoration has taken place of an interesting building at Pound-stock, known as the Church House.
The building, which is the only one of its kind remaining in Cornwall, dates back to the fourteenth century, and was originally built for the purpose of storing the corn which the farmers brought in payment of their tithes. Some time later it was used as a residence for the clergy, and later still as a poorhouse, or almshouse.
Being in danger of falling into ruin, the premises were restored at a cost of £400, and in the restoration some of the fine old woodwork has been preserved, including portions of the old oak, mullioned window frames, and the heavy oaken door of the ancient reception-room.
