Make Ready for Eggs

It is only a few weeks now before Spring will be here again. Every poultry breeder knows what a busy time that means. It is well, therefore, to do everything possible to get things in shape for the busy season. Cockerels or surplus pullets should be advertised now, so that they can be got out of the way before the egg-shipping season commences. The extra room is required for the breeding pens and preparations for shipping and hatching will take up most of the breeders' attention later on. February is one of the best months for advertising breeding stock. Read the experiences of other poultry breeders:

The ad. I inserted during the four weeks of February brought great results, being sold out of Pekin drakes and having to return orders for about twenty-five.—G. R. Bateman, Wolseley, Sask., Feb. 25, 1916. In reference to my advertisement re White Wyandotte cockerels in your paper, I am well pleased with the results. I assure you that when I advertise my pure bred eggs in the spring your paper will be the first I shall advertise in.—A. F. Tavernor, Wawanesa, Man., November 16, 1916.

I am well pleased with the results of my ad. in your valuable paper, re Barred Rock Cockerels. I have sold out and had to return several orders.—J. Horner, Box 22, Macleod, Alta., January 15, 1917. In reply to your letter I might say I can hardly complain of The Guide as an advertising medium. In the past two months I have sold $200.00 worth of pure bred Wyandottes. Two-thirds of my orders I secured thru The Guide, and I think I only advertised four times.—Willow Poultry Farm, Willows, Sask.—January 20, 1917.

These letters are just examples of many similar ones which come to The Guide. Every mail brings letters from advertisers thanking us for the splendid returns they have received. In most cases the results obtained are out of all proportion to the trifling cost. Guide classified advertisements are very economical.

Let The Guide sell for you, as it is doing for hundreds of others, at the least possible expenditure of time and money on your part. Advertise your surplus stock NOW.
