A Series of Talks On Music

By Prof. C.C. Laughler, Mus. Bac. Sarnia, Ont.

NO. VI.—MUSICAL PECULIARITIES
A musician on being introduced to a stranger said, "I hear you are a music writer." "I am sir," replied the stranger. The first musician then added—"I am glad to make your acquaintance as I am afflicted in the same way."

One of America's most noted song writers was Stephen Foster whose chief title to fame it "The Old Folks at Home" and "My Old Kentucky Home." Stephen Foster would often ride up and down Broadway on a 5c bus seeking inspiration for a song.

Theodore Thomas, the pioneer conductor who did more to educate the American public than any other musician, was wise in his day. He was always on the lookout for dainty titbits of music, and would take infinite pains to make them effective. He arranged Schumann's Träumerei to end with muted strings to de-accento in the extreme and instructed the strings to continue drawing the bow across the strings without making a sound. The audience imagined it still heard the sounds floating off to an immeasurable distance, till Thomas broke the spell by quietly laying down his baton.

Regarding singing classes, I read a most interesting account of one of the first singing classes and how it was conducted. Mr. Cheny says, I was one of the class in 1700 in New Hampshire, the session being held at the home of one of the members and sometimes in the school house, boards being placed across the kitchen chairs to answer for seats, in form of a circle with the singing master in the centre. The master commenced by saying, now follow me up and down, he would then sound a note and we would sound the note after him. At the close of the session the singing master agreed to give instruction for one shilling and six pence per night and take his pay in Indian corn. The men members paid for the tuition while the girls supplied the candles for lighting purposes.

It has been said that musical inspiration does not attack all musicians in the same way. Here is one that I think is the strangest origin of any composition that I can recall. It is that of Scarlatti in his "Cats Fugue." The composer often had his favorite cat on his shoulder as he sat at the spinet. One day the cat became scared at something and springing from his shoulder ran across the key-board and away, but in her flight she struck several notes on the key-board which Scarlatti afterwards made into a fugue in her honor. Brahms, the great music master, hated lionizing but he certainly possessed a high sense of humor. Once when being entertained by some of his friends in a Vienna restaurant the landlord brought on his best wine with this remark, "Here is a wine that surpasses all others, just as the music of Brahms does all other composers." "Well," said Brahms, "take it away and bring me a bottle of Bach."

In a recent article in the Musical Quarterly, the writer tells of some strange methods for inspirations such as—Haydn took refuge in prayer and rosary; Beethoven in the open air and nature; Mozart in paper and ink; Wagner depended on costly robes of silk and velvet saturated in rich colors; Dumas declared that a fine quality of paper was a real source of inspiration to him; Tschat-kowsky needed air and trees; Halevy the noise of the tea kettle; Strauss wine and cigars, or a game of tarok; Suppe a good dose of snuffing tobacco; Donizetti was at his best when fixing his eyes at a distant point; Thomas when lying in bed; Balzac when clothed in a monks cassock; and Gluck when at his piano placed in the midst of an open field in the sunshine.

Bathurst People Honor Mr. McLean

Bathurst citizens, on Monday evening, gave a dinner in honor of Angus McLean, chief executive of the Bathurst Lumber Company, Limited, T. M. Burns, the mayor, presided. Following the toast to the King, J. L. Ryan proposed the health of the guest of honor, voicing the highest esteem in which Mr. McLean is held. On behalf of the citizens of the town of Bathurst, Mr. McLean was presented with a walking stick, emblematic of the support of his fellow townsmen, in all his undertakings, after which Mr. McLean fittingly replied to the toast. The speakers included Hon. J. P. Byrne, O. Turgeon, M. P., and others prominent in the business and social life of the community. An excellent musical programme was furnished.
