have resulted from the national policy. The consequence has been such that the United States trade has been affected. Branch factories of American firms have been built in Canada and much capital from there expended here. This agreement is intended to stop this kind of proceeding. The agreement is not calculated to benefit Canada—the very contrary (It being 6 o'clock the House adjourned to 10 o'clock Wednesday.)

House met Wednesday forenoon at 10.55. After routine the Leader of the Government presented the report of the committee charged with forwarding a congratulatory address to His Majesty the King. The report was adopted. After consideration of the contingent accounts with closed doors, orders of the day were proceeded with.

Mr. Wyatt resumed the reciprocity debate. In view of the limited time at his disposal in consequence of prospective prorogation, he made his remarks as brief as possible. He showed how the national policy buoyed up Canada against the commercial encroachments of the United States. He produced evidence to demonstrate the disastrous effects the ratification of the reciprocity agreement would have on certain established Canadian industries. He pointed out that the main object of President Taft was to preserve the resources of his own country and exploit those of Canada. He quoted from speeches of James J. Hill to show that the agreement before Parliament was above all things, a relief measure for the United States. He referred to the fact that the New England States, always availing themselves of the free market of 90,000,000, have thousands of abandoned farms and deserted homesteads. The United States have always been opposed to us in these matters. Edward Blake, in 1891, was obliged to retire from public life in Canada because of a policy akin to the present, and considered it would lead to our integration. He looked forward to the time when we should have preferential trade within the Empire.

The Leader of the Government began to speak on the resolution at 12 o'clock. He concluded his speech at 1 o'clock when the division was taken. The amendment was lost and the main motion carried on a strict party vote 13 to 14.

At 1.35 the Hon. the Lieutenant Governor entered the assembly chamber, took his seat on the Speaker's chair and, after formally assenting to the bills passed, closed the session with the usual formalities.

In our obituary column, on the 19th April, appeared the brief notice of the death of James T. McNally, who died at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, on the 16th of the same month. Deceased was a son of the late Angus McNally who had been Postmaster at Head St. Peter's Bay, for upwards of thirty-five years, and was 28 years of age at the time of his death. He had been in Boston for eight years and all this time had, along with his elder and only brother John, been in the employ of Mr. Nathaniel Thayer, where he filled a position of trust and responsibility. His death, in integrity and strict attention to the duties of his position, while his entire confidence of his employer, while his genial disposition and uniform kindly nature elicited the respect and esteem of all with whom he came in contact. He was indeed a model young man, who bore unswerving the white flower of a blameless life. His death, after a brief illness, in the vigor of his young manhood is deeply mourned by his relatives and numerous friends. As already stated, the remains accompanied by his brother John and his cousin Augustine McNally, arrived here on April 19th, and were forwarded the same day to the home of his mother at Head St. Peter's Bay, where the interment took place in the cemetery of his native parish, on the 20th. The Requiem services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. R. J. Gillis. His sorrowing mother, one brother and one sister, Mrs. B. Finlay, are left to mourn. May his soul rest in peace.

Obituary.

Our Liberal friends have, for some days past, been much exercised over intelligence received regarding official appointments at Ottawa. News reached here Friday night that Mr. H. J. Palmer had been appointed Judge of the Supreme Court, and Mr. E. C. Prowse, Senator. The wires between here and Ottawa became very hot. The excitement continued from that time forward, and on Monday morning Premier Hazenard and a brace of sturdy supporters started for Ottawa. Since then nothing has leaked out.

Apparently both parties at Ottawa have settled down to a determined fight on the Reciprocity Agreement. Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced Friday that unless the Tariff Bill passes he won't attend the Conference or Coronation. Mr. Borden suggested three courses: first Mr. Laurier remain to lead Parliament; second, leave the Reciprocity Agreement until next session; third adjourn until after the Coronation. Sir Wilfrid Laurier promptly declined the Opposition's offer to vote an interim supply, if the third suggestion were adopted. Struggle will go on.

Advices of the last from Bangor, Maine say: Property valued at upwards of $6,000,000, was destroyed, and some of the people were made homeless, and almost the entire business section of the city was devastated during a fire of six hours, which is still raging though the firemen are making some headway. Two lives are known to have been lost. Mayor Quins has placed the city under Martial Law. Portland, Lewiston, Augusta, Old Town, Brewer and several other cities and towns within reach were asked for help. At least a third of the city has been laid waste, including the best residential section.

A fatal accident occurred off the shore at Murray Harbor North on Wednesday last, by which John Terrell, about twenty years of age lost his life. Terrell, along with Benjamin Richards, went out in their boat to set lobster traps. A stiff breeze was blowing at the time, but getting to leeward of an iceberg the boat became becalmed. On getting out of the shelter afforded by the iceberg the wind suddenly striking the sails overturned the boat, which, being in ballast immediately sank in about seven fathoms of water taking Terrell down with her. Richards clung to some float on lobster trap line and hung on until a boat came to his assistance about a half hour later. Richards was all but completely exhausted.
