Why She Did the Right Thing

By RUTH CAMERON.

In my neighborhood a mother recently saved her four year old son from burning to death. She had left him alone for only a moment but he had managed to climb up, get hold of the forbidden matches and set his cotton blouse afire. The tragedy which might have been too well known to require description. There was but one thing to do. And unlike most mothers, who either stand, spell-bound with fright, or pick up the child and rush blindly from the house, this mother did it.

It would not have been so notable, had she been one of those women who are so well poised, so self possessed, that they always do the right thing. She was a highly organized, extremely nervous little mother who, as she well knew, was quite apt to do the wrong thing at a crisis.

She Had Planned Just What She Would Do.

"I've always known that Junior would get those matches some day," she told her husband later. "And I wouldn't do the right thing. And over and over I have said to myself 'You must stop and pick up the rug and then wrap him in it.' I have pictured myself doing that, over and over."

This has, I will admit, a morbid tinge to it. To picture possible catastrophes is not pleasant. And yet, when the crisis came, when her conscious mind froze, the subconscious reactions served to carry her through.

There is a Mean Between These Two.

To be continually meeting imaginary dangers is an unhealthy state of mind. But never to consider possible dangers is even healthier.

A great many housewives recognize the need of a first aid cabinet and a book of instructions. But how many of them even open the instructions until a crisis arises?

You know there is something called a tourniquet? Could you achieve one, or would you be forced to read directions first,--and be too late?

One Mother Did This.

Are you in deadly fear that your children may get hold of the bottle marked "Poison" so carefully hidden away? If you are a mother, you are. But do you know that with only a funnel, and a piece of rubber tubing to thrust down his throat, and some soapy water you may save the child when the doctor's stomach pump would not have arrived in time?

Every doctor can tell you of one or two instances in his career, where a life was saved by somebody who did exactly the right thing. To simply keep unpleasant possibilities from mind, is to be overwhelmed if they do occur. To plan for such possibilities is to arm yourself to meet them in a way that will leave no bitter regrets.

Household Notes

In cakes and puddings one does not have to use so much sugar if raisins are used.

Crackers may be used instead of bread in bread pudding, and make a quite delicious dessert.

Always look into your gas stove before lighting, to see if anything by chance has been left there.

An excellent present for the bride is a cotton bread bag to keep the bread in good condition.

Save all scraps of soap, pound them and boil with twice as much water until they become a toilet jelly.

The use of bread-and-butter plates is economical, because every bit of unused butter can be saved this way.

Use sewing scraps or newspaper in the kitchen for wiping up greasy dishes, thereby saving soap and hot water.

Hang your towels on a flat white enamel curtain rod. This prevents rusting and the sliding of towels to the floor.

To save the corners of a new broom from breaking when sweeping under the furniture, pull an old stocking leg over it.

THE BATTLE CRY.

Oh! though to death we go, On through the fields of pain, Laughing at leaden rain, Dealing them blow for blow, Falling—but not in vain! Dying—but living still— This be our battle cry: "Freedom they cannot kill, Right was not born to die."

What matters death or pain? What matters you or I? All men are born to die. They who depart, remain Under earth's friendly sky, Giving young blood a thrill, Holding old standards high; Our dreams they cannot kill, Our flag shall always fly!

Back from war's dreadful bourne, Out of the smoke and grime, Out of the death and slime, Our spirits shall return, Brave to the end of time. Here youth shall greet us still, Here shall our banner fly; Freedom they cannot kill, Never her soldiers die. Thou art gone but not forgotten.

A Bell Invention.

The inventor of the Bell telephone, Alexander Graham Bell, has another invention to his credit that very few know of; yet it is in constant use in France. It is called the "telephone probe," and absolutely locates the exact position of a bullet in the human body.

A Black Goliath.

A negro who arrived in camp with a contingent from Mississippi is six feet eight inches tall, and weighs 365 pounds. The shoes made for him are seventeen inches long, and there is just three times the quantity of cloth in his uniform that the average uniform requires.

VEGETABLES AS BEAUTIFIERS.

If your skin is in need of whitening and softening, the best remedy is the homely cucumber in your kitchen garden as they have been known as appendix beautifiers for a long time. There are several ways of using this friendly vegetable, the simplest of which is to pare it, cut it in thick slices and rub it upon the face without further preparation. The juice is left on, overnight and washed off with warm, not hot, water in the morning.

The best way to prepare a cucumber beauty lotion is to mash a cucumber into pulp, place the pulp in half a pint of milk and set the whole upon the stove to come to a slow boil. When it has come to a three minute boil, the lotion is removed and strained through a cloth or very fine strainer. The result is a cucumber cream, which is delightful to use if perfume with rose water, essence of violet or lavender. This, too, is applied before retiring and washed off in the morning. It is an excellent whitener and is recommended for removing "collar lines."

Then there is the accommodating tomato. When our fingers are stained from cooking or the paring of vegetables, a piece of tomato rubbed upon them will whiten them nicely. The tomato juice is allowed to stay on the hands for some time, and is then washed off with soap and water. To whiten the chin use the common white potato. Pare the potato and rub it upon the chin or blind slices of it about the chin for a couple of hours daily. The potato is then removed and the skin washed with a mild soap and warm water, after which a good facial cream is rubbed in.

There is really no excuse for a woman being unbecomingly even if she has not the money with which to purchase expensive cosmetics, for there remains her own garden, a sunbath, and source of supply.

THE WAR MACHINE.

The mighty German war machine is busted in the road; the greatest engine ever seen broke down beneath its load. The wise mechanics flock around and try to make repairs; old Hindenburg, he paws the ground, and Chuffer Wilhelm swears. Says Lundendorff, "This blasted old boat will never run again; it's got its everlasting goat, and we are hoodooed men." The kronprinz, smeared with mud and grease, crawls from beneath the car, and says, "Perhaps a plea for peace, just now, would travel far. While this old ark could hit the plain at fifty miles an hour, all talk of peace gave me a pain—I gloried in its power. But while we pushed it we forgot, methinks, to knock on wood; our Jonah's got us now, I wot, and peace looks pretty good." And then exclaims his haughty sire, "The blame must go your way; you would put on that worn-out tire, that blew out every day. If Me and Gott had run this boat, with none to interfere, I would not mourn my royal goat, which you made disappear." Says Hindenburg, "The motor's works kick up an awful din; we'll have to telephone the Turks to come and haul us in." The war machine is in the ditch, a sad and ghastly wreck, and Wilhelm mourns, in doleful pitch, the windshield round his neck.
