M. C. L. I. Debate

One of the largest Methodist College Literary Institute audiences for the season heard the following resolution debated at last evening's meeting of that body: "That disarmament would contribute more to world peace than all other agencies." Messrs. Geo. Peters, C. F. Garland, C. W. Puddister were the affirmative speakers and Messrs. Thos. Soper, D. R. Penny and T. Dwyer argued for the negative. The affirmative speakers first defined the terms of the resolution and contended that "Disarmament" means a universal limitation of armaments, consistent with national safety. Their chief arguments were to the effect that disarmament makes war impossible; that it gives a feeling of safety to all and allows the pursuance of peaceful pursuits; that it means happy homes with no dread of war which takes away the bread winners, in many cases never to return; that it makes for the production of those articles that are necessary to our well being rather than to the production of machines that work only for destruction; that no lasting peace is possible while the nations continue to arm; that it is an economic necessity and that there is no other agency so effective in maintaining peace amongst the nations.

Their opponents countered by pointing out that under existing conditions of society arms were necessary as a deterrent against war and for protective purposes. Nations must be prepared for eventualities arising out of the numerous influences for evil which exist throughout the world. The peace of the world can only be protected through the influence and use of armaments. They claimed and stated that disarmament would have a calamitous result on civilization. The influences of the church, of education, of the exchange of international thought and many others were mentioned as being more potent factors in the maintenance of peace than disarmament.

Many speakers availed themselves of the opportunity of speaking from the floor and added much interest to the discussion. The general opinion was that it proved a very successful debate, evidence of which lies in the fact that the vote resulted in a tie. Mr. Wm. White was the debate chairman. Next Thursday evening the Institute is to be favored with an address on "Common Science" by Mr. J. C. Hogg, Vice-Principal and science instructor of the Methodist College.

Harbor Lights

AT THE STAR MOVIE.

A passionate drama of love and the sea.

A moving melodrama of realistic fights, spine-tingling encounters on the brink of a lofty sea cliff, and thrilling rescues from a storm-lashed sea.

Lured to a man's home, she finds her lips sealed by her sister's danger as her sweetheart races to the rescue. This is one of the most exciting moments of this great melodrama, "Harbor Lights."

A girl defended by an enraged suitor, an innocent man accused of the crime, his sweetheart silent through a strange course of events and a miracle of the sea which solves the dilemma—that's "Harbor Lights."

A man he disliked told the hero of "Harbor Lights" his sweetheart was secretly at the home of another man. Then he found out that the report was true. What took her there and the thrilling plot of the highly dramatic screen version of this celebrated melodrama.

If you love heart-throbbing drama, if you revel in excitement, if you are keen for adventure which smacks of the sea, if you delight in dangerous exploits, if you like your screen fare seasoned with suspense and romance—don't fail to see "Harbor Lights."

VESSELS IN DIFFICULTIES ROUND BRITISH COASTS.

QUEENSTOWN, Feb. 26.

The steamer Montclair with her steering gear out of order is returning here. A tug has gone to assist her. The coast of Great Britain have been storm swept for the past twenty-four, and many vessels are reported in distress. The Belgian steamer Mercier, bound from New York for Antwerp, sent out a wireless depeche to-day from Lat. 49.16 North, 11.04 West that she was not under control.

Tourist Hotel Projected

We understand that some local people have a project to erect a tourist hotel at Brigue Junction well underway. A lease of a piece of land has been secured and the contract for building has been awarded. The promoters hope to have the hotel completed by the end of June. The site selected is near the railway station and passengers alighting may reach it within a few seconds. The Railway Management has been approached and will, we understand, co-operate by furnishing all information in connection with train movements, so that the hotel will be ready for passengers. Owing to the large amount of traffic passing this point, the venture should prove a big success.

At Prince of Wales' Rink.
The Benefit Day for the employees and ice men of the Prince's Rink, took place yesterday and, despite the inclemency of the weather, large crowds patronized the rink both afternoon and night. The afternoon was taken up with general skating on a fair sheet of ice. There was a goodly attendance of children and adults and an enjoyable few hours' skating was spent to the music of Bennett's Band.

At 6.30 a hockey game was played between Messrs. Bowling Bros. and James Reid, Ltd., of the Mercantile League. The match was followed with interest by their supporters, and

MR. M. EUSEBIA PUDDISTER.

"Death deals at random and frowns fall as well as oaks."

News was received on Monday of the death of Mr. M. Eusebia Puddister, which occurred at St. Francis' Hospital, Grinnell, Iowa, on the 21st inst. The young religious, who had not attained her nineteenth birthday, was the eldest daughter of the late Michael and Margaret Puddister, of Bay Bulls. Having finished her education in her native place, and at the Mercy Convent, St. John's, she entered the office of McGrath and McGrath, as stenographer, which position she faithfully filled for two years, being held in the highest esteem by her employers.

Realizing the insufficiency of earthly things to satisfy the desires of her heart, she resigned her position in July, 1923, and proceeded to Mount St. Claire, Clinton, Iowa, where she devoted her young life to the service of her Divine Master. After one short year in the Convent she was stricken with the dread disease Tuberculosis, and removed to St. Francis' Hospital, Grinnell, where, despite the best medical skill, and tender nursing of the devoted Sisters and Nurses, the disease could not be stayed. After eighteen months of patient suffering, borne with a perfect and peaceful resignation to the Will of God, she grew gradually worse. The earnest wish of her heart—her holy profession—being accomplished, she calmly awaited the final call of her Divine Spouse; and on the above date her young soul entered through the Portal of Death, into the realms, where Death for her shall be but the beginning of never ending happiness—the just reward of a well spent life. To her sorrowing mother, sister and brothers, we tender our deepest sympathy.

Bay Bulls, Feb. 26th, 1923. B. M. EUSEBIA, J. NURSE.

A well known and respected citizen in the person of Thomas J. Nurse passed away at his home, 188 Duckworth Street, yesterday, after an illness of short duration. Deceased had been in failing health for some time past, and only gave up about four weeks ago. The malady from which he suffered gained rapid inroads on his system, and despite the best of medical treatment and the unflinching care of a loving wife, he gradually grew worse and patiently awaited the end. Mr. Nurse was employed with the firm of Messrs. T. and

A New and Better Ironing Board

THE Rid-Jid Ironing Table is as steady as a bridge—it will not wobble, sway, bend nor creep when you iron. You can sit on the end and it will not even tilt. No more propping an old board up on two chair-backs and having to lift it each time you wish to iron a skirt or petticoat. The Rid-Jid stands firmly on its own foundation, and is so constructed that a full-length skirt may be slipped on over the end.

In spite of its marvelous rigidity, the Rid-Jid is lighter than any other folding board made. It closes as compactly as a pocket knife. We would be glad to have you stop in and see it.
