In this pastoral letter which Paul, the cld minister, wro'e the family record at the light out. Paul practiacily says: "Timought out. Paul practiacily says: "Timought to be better than most folks, but your grandmother was good also, but your grandmother was good also, but your grandmother was good also, Two pucking generations of piety ought to give you a mighty push in the right direction." The fact was that Timothy reeded encouragement. He was in poor at all the latter of the was a specific, and Paul prescribed for him at third, "a little wine for thy stimach's sake"—not much wine, but a little wine, and only as a mediciae. And if the wine then had been adulterated with logwood and strychinne as our modern wines, he would not have been washed out by the storms of innumerable winters, there may be standing, as a result of the rundel-bed lessons, fiaming over the mother has gone and the lettering on both the tombstones have been washed out by the storms of innumerable winters, there may be standing, as a result of the rundel-bed lessons, fiaming over the mother has gone and the lettering on both the tombstones have been washed out by the storms of innumerable winters, there may be standing, as a result of the province of the province and the child has gone, and the lettering on both the tombstones have been washed out by the storms of innumerable w would not have prescribed any.

But Timothy, not strong physically, is encouraged spiritually by the recital of grandmotherly excellence, Paul hinting to him, as I hint this day to you that God sometimes gathers wp as in a reservoir, away back of the active generation.

What was Done at The Monthly Meet-ing of this Esetul Body.

The first regular meeting of the formation of the new council held Tuesday evening of last week in the Council chamber. Those present were Joun Reaf (in the chair), Mesdames Idington. Fraser and O'Connor, Miss R. M. McKenzie and A. Wells, and Messrs, W. J. Ferguson, Wm. Buckingham, J. J. Coughlin and Agent Durst.

The minutes of the previous meeting having been adopted, a communication was real by Mr. Kelso, relating to a child lately placed in the home by the society, stating that Mrs. Harvey had found the child contents and well desired in refer-ence to a child whose welfare is all pre-sent a constituration of the society, was discussed, but left over for fuller information, and further steps to be t by the Children's Aid Committee.

in the milidie of the day. When a cow in fair condition of health has passed the cow that has been milking for 8 months or more will be receiving not more than three pounds of meal per day in addition to the bulky founder part of the ration. Meal may be obtainsi from the grinding of peas, oats barley or wheat when that grain is suffilently cheap. When feed is to be bought from any outside source, it is usually profitable to feed two founds per head per day of oil cake or cottonseed meal, and two or three pounds per head per day of wheat bran. A model mixture of meal for milking cows would be in the proportion of one part cotton seed meal, one part oil-cake, two parts of bran and two parts of mixed meal from such grains as are avaliable on the farm. Carrots, mangels and sugar beets are nore suitable roots for the feeding of milking cows than turnips. Turnips are admirably adapted for the feeding of growing, fattening or dry stock. Jail Breaking on Record—Accomplished by a Feat Which Almost Bordered on is another thing to hold him. During a meeting of the chiefs of police of all the larger cities of the United States and Canada, which occurred at Milwaukee, there were reminiscences of remarkable captures and of escapes which bordered closely upon the miraculous.

"The most remarkable escape from prison that I can recall," said William A. Pinkerton, "was that of Frank Steadman from the San Quentin prison. But I'll not tell you about it, for here is John Glass, who caught Steadman and sent him back to San Quentin."

Chief Glass pinched the brown imperial on his under lip reflectively for a moment before he responded to the looks of inquiry bent upon him by those not familiar with the story.

"The escape to which you refer, Pinkerton, was made after I sent Steadman to San Quentin and not before. I was not the fortunate one to get him after that last wonderful break. And to tell the truth, I have never taken to myself much credit for taking him the time I did, for it was to a considerable degree a matter of good fortune. You see, we were just at that time keeping our eyes open for a bank robber by the name of Barnes, who had gone into one of the banks out there, covered the one man who happened to be alone in the place at the time, locked him up in the vault, and then coolly walked out of the bank and out of sight with all the funds he could get his hands on.

to finish his time, he was put to work to mish his time, he was put to work with other convicts in the engine room. It was here that an idea came into his brain that for absolute daring and fearlessness was typical of the man. He had noticed that every evening at the time the men working in the engine room were lined up to be marched away, the of the society's recognition of her sert vices. Messrs. Ferguson and Buckingham made suitable replies. After which the meetings adjourned.

Rations for Cows.

It does not seem profitable to give good milking cows of the average size and ordinary breeding more than from seven to nine pounds of grain or, mixed meal per day, each even when they are giving their maxium flow of milk for the season. Every farmer must compose the rations for his cows out of the materials which he has availtable, but as a sample ration the following may be useful for guidance. The bulky fooder part of the ration may be mixed in the following proportions. If the roots can be pulped and the hay and straw passed through a cutting box, so much the better:

50 pounds of hay.

5 pounds of hay.

5 pounds of hay.

5 pounds of straw.

As much of that as a cow will eatjup clean may be fee twice a day, and with it should be fed from three to nine pounds of meal or ground grain, according to the capacity of the cow, which a good feeder will soon be able to estimate. A
