AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY

So Thinks at Least One Traveling Man

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a traveling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway, I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I'm an easy mark for patent medicine fakirs, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing"

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week, and after standing this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars. I feel like shaking hands with myself for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines and that they have maintained their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in a patent medicine as much as in selling barb-45-c-eod

Abbe Gayraud (Catholic Republican) in his speech, asked the chamber to recommit to the committee the report that Premier Combes submitted in support of his proposition, on the ground that the report did not propose zell & Hartzell, and John C. Lerolle gave an elaborate history of the role the religious orders examination of witnesses, and Chief of had played in French history, to the glory of which, contended M. Lerolle, Murphy, prompting him to asking glory of which, contended M. Leroile, they had greatly contributed. The republic was trying to deprive the monks of the means of living and force them to starvation or expatriation. The Republicans, continued the speaker, were today following the example of the first republic. They had no other ambition than that of satisfying party vengeance.

WOULD ENDANGER LIBERTY.

If the majority refused to admit discussion on the question, and decided the series of questions which concerned separate congregations, by a single to the series of questions to all contents of the day. The most interesting witness of the day was Mrs, Hull. She is a little woman, with a nervous but resolute face, blue eyes and gray hair. She was gowned entirely in black, and wore a long mourning veil, fastened well back from her forehead. Notwithstanding her 64 years, Mrs, Hull stood up under two hours of severe examination by District Attorney Coatsworth with remarkable coolness. Her answers were given in a calm, quiet tone, excepting now and then, when her voice took on a peculiarly resolute ring. She used smelling salts occasionally, but never became confused. FACTS FOR BUSINESS MEN.

Most men make a success of business because they make a success of advertising, but the chances are that they fail to put much value into the publicity promoted. There is no doubt about the worth of good advertising in building a business. There is also no doubt that many have tried advertising and found it didn't pay. It was not the fault of advertising in abstract, but of the advertising they did. This question ought to have the serious consideration of every man in manufacture of the new bullet invented business. It ought to be studied all the time by the man who wants to succeed. It can be mastered to a degree, and can be made to yield satisfactory returns to the one who gives it; some neighbor, perhaps, is doing it. The one who wants success most will get it in greatest abundance by coupthat the success really is worth striving for, with judicious publicity first, last and all the time.
