CANADIAN CATTLE SHUT OUT.

The closing of British ports to Canadian cattle will be a serious blow to the trade of

Our esteemed contemporary the Vancou the Dominion with Great Britain. The trade in live stock has been a growing one ver Telegram, says with reference to the for some years, and it promised to go on controversy respecting the Nakusp road : increasing. It was in this trade that It is not our province to decide which o them (the controversialists) is to be blamed Canada enjoyed a very considerable adfor this or which has the best of the arguvantage over the United States. The vantage over the United States. The British authorities had, some time ago, decided that cattle could not be imported other to defend its action or want of action in regard to the Slocan country. The again, and he is not the man to throw away seem to have grown well enough, but the an advantage no matter how it may have weather was so wet that the late grain could not be properly harvested. We see that so late as the middle of October "an enormous acreage in Yorkshire " was still out in the fields, and that on some farms the crops had not been cut. In all parts of England and Wales grain was suffering from noisture. Tenants in some places were talking about asking for a reduction of rent and the small pay of the farm laborers was, in view of the poor returns, made smaller still.

On the whole, then, the outlook in Great Britain is not cheerful. A season of depression has apparently set in, but the distress s neither so general nor so great as the American Republican politicians are representing it to be. Great Britain has eathered other periods of depression and it will get over the coming one, no doubt, without sustaining any very great injury.

My desire in enumerating these facts is not to rake up things that had better be forgotten ; my point is that the practice of medicine is continually altering. The men who held these beliefs were, as you say, "specially educated in medicine and sur-gery," and during their currency for one medical man who doubted, there were a hundred who had the firmest faith in them Is it not then quite likely that the medical profession has been mistaken with regard to vaccination ?

Doctors do not make a special study of moment if any one could be found audacious enough to make it. And our contemporary should remember that our institutions are framed on the British model, and that the nearer we keep to the British practice in the second to the British practice in the second to the British model and that the second to the British practice in the second probably of no use after all, so they strive matters by strengthening the mul tiplying the marks. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It saved my life." —Geo. B. Hunter, Goose. River, N. S. "About a year ago I took the worst cold that ever a man had, followed by a terrible cough. The best medical aid was of no avail. A blast I began to spit blood, when it was supposed to be all over with me. Every remedy failed, till a neighbor recom-mended Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took half a teaspoonful of this medicine, three times a day, regularly, and very som began to improve. My cough left me, my sleep was undisturbed, my appetite re-turned, my emaciated limbs gained flesh and strength, and to-day, thanks to the Pectoral, I ama well man."-H. A.
