I have assessed this town every year up to this date since 1877, and there has not been an appeal sustained against my assess-ment. I have been into every house in the town once or twice a year, and some of them oftener, and I would like to know if I am not likely to be a better judge of the working of the Scott act in the town of Oakville than an unknown slanderer of pri-

Oakville than an unknown standerer of private character, who dare not sign his name to his production, and hides himself behind the name of Temperance.

With regard to the other gentlemen who are in the same boat with myself they are able, and I believe willing, to defend themselves if they had a chance against all such lying defamers of private character who dare not sign their name to their writings, and I am certain will not be thanked by the friends of the Scott act here for they are stirring up men here who took no interest in the matter but will after this perhaps not remain neutral as they have hitherto done.

W. F. Maclean, Esq., World, Toronto: Sir: I am instructed by Mr. Chas. A. Bradbury of this town to demand from you the name of your correspondent who, over the signature "Temperance" in your issue of to-day, has made statements in regard to Mr. Bradbury which are libelous in the extreme.

Should you refuse to disclose your correspondent's name, Mr. Bradbury will of course have no alternative but to hold you responsible for the publication. Yours truly,

Oakville, May 28, 1884.

OAKVILLE, May 28, 1884. Sir: In this morning's issue you have made several statements that are incorrect, and the best thing to do is to make an both you and me. D. Chisholm keeps it around in adjoining buildings and some of the a use it. I did not say he sold it or treated boys. Charles Bradbury was found with liquor in his house and threatened to be fined if caught again. Please keep my name quiet, as the barber has offered a reward of $5 for the man who wrote the article signed Temperance if he will stand before him ten minutes. Smooth things up the best you can. I never got into a scrape before, and did not expect to get into one when I answered the questions asked me. You have changed my answers in many respects, and now a favor will be conferred if you set matters right.

As far as my opinion goes you have already got it, and I here reiterate it with the addition that it is a fraud and a delusion causing, as you said, lying, slandering and many other sins and thoroughly demoralizing our community. Duncan
