This will be a gala week at the Grand opera house. It is safe to say that there is not on the road to-day a more sparkling, brilliant and clever company than Bride Frear's Bunch of Keys company. Crammed full of humor their entertainment is at once refined and well calculated to attract all classes of an intelligent community. It is, in fact, one of those entertainments that people can go and see and thoroughly enjoy, feeling on going away that not only has a pleasant evening been spent but that the system has been vastly recuperath by a series of good series of good, hearty wholesome laughs. The company has made a number of innovations, a new hotel scene having been especially prepared for Toronto, which cannot fail to eatch on. There is also much new music.
