ALL QUIET IN LONDON.

LARGE NUMBER OF NEW POLICEMEN APPOINTED.

Public Confidence Restored—Big Meetings to be Held To-day—Prosecution of the Ringleaders in Monday's Riot.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Six hundred police recruits have been engaged by the government for service in London. The new men will go on duty at once, and while waiting for their uniforms will wear plain clothes, with a badge on the left arm.

Murray, the socialist red flag bearer, has been removed to a prison cell, where he is to remain until he succeeds in furnishing heavy securities for good behavior for three months.

The mass meeting of the unemployed of the southeastern part of London, called to assemble in Deptford to-night, has been postponed until Saturday.

The police fear that the socialistic meeting which is to be held at Birmingham next Monday will be attended with rioting, and they are adopting precautions. It is stated that Burns and Hyndman, the London socialists, will speak at the meeting. A number of unemployed workmen paraded at Birmingham to-day.

The crown lawyers have advised the government that a conviction can probably be obtained of the socialist leaders who took part in the mob proceedings of Monday. Such conviction would entail two years' penal servitude on each defendant.

LONDON'S UNEMPLOYED.

Efforts of the Lord Mayor to Relieve the Prevailing Distress.

LONDON, Feb. 11—Three hundred unemployed workingmen called upon the lord mayor to-day to urge upon him the necessity of doing something to relieve the distress among the unemployed of London. The lord mayor courteously received the deputation, and promised to personally assist the distressed people, so far as his means would permit. He added that the lord mayor's fund for the relief of the distressed poor of the city, which had been started on Tuesday, already amounted to £6000.

The government has caused circulars to be sent to officials throughout the country inquiring into the extent of the distress existing among the working people out of employment, and inviting suggestions as to the best measures for the relief of the sufferers.

The movement for the relief of unemployed working men stimulated by the success in London is spreading to the provincial towns.

Two thousand rations and a large quantity of clothing are distributed in Glasgow daily. That the existence of the distress is owing to the severity of the winter is undisputed.

Hugh C. Childers, the home secretary, assured a deputation of tradesmen who waited upon him to-day that efficient measures would be taken to secure order and restore public confidence.

MR. GLADSTONE'S LAND SCHEME.

A Bill that is to Precede All Other Irish Measures.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Mr. Gladstone is preparing a bill providing for the expropriation of land in Ireland by means of state funds. This bill will precede the other Irish measures which the government intends to present to parliament. The discussion of the home rule question has been postponed until next session.

The appointments of ladies of the bedchamber in the royal household have been filled. The Duchess of Roxburgh becomes lady in waiting and the Dowager Duchess of Athole and the other ladies of the bedchamber retain their posts.

MICHAEL DAVITT IN WALES.

Parnell's Intentions if Home Rule is Not Granted.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—Michael Davitt delivered a speech in Flint, Wales, this evening. He said that Parnell was ready to help the Welsh farmers against the landlords and that unless the government granted home rule to Ireland, Parnell would retaliate by presenting in parliament thirty bills dealing solely with England, Wales and Scotland.

A Popular Act of Justice.

PARIS, Feb. 11.—In the chamber of deputies to-day M. Basley, the new working-man deputy, defended the striking miners at Decazeville for breaking into the residence of Supt. Watrain and trampling him to death. M. Basley spoke with great violence. He delivered a socialistic harangue, dwelling on the hardships which the miners were compelled to endure, and declared that under all the circumstances of the case the killing of Watrain was "a popular act of justice." The president repeatedly called M. Basley to order.

No Surrender for the Earl of Fife.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The Earl of Fife, president of the Scotch Liberal association, hitherto a staunch friend and colleague of Mr. Gladstone, writes to the secretary of that association that he cannot hand over his political conscience to a cabinet whose policy, so far as it is definable at all, is only a policy of surrender. He says he is strongly opposed to tampering with the Union, and must resign the presidency of the Scotch Liberal association.

Fairtoile Londoners.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 12.—The chances that the London field battery will go to England to take part in the celebration of the Queen's jubilee are now said to be very good. Leading citizens have come forward with assurances that if $3000 or $4000 is necessary to take the battery there and back it will be subscribed.

THE BARTLETT-DYSON SCANDAL.

Evidence at the Inquest—Mrs. Bartlett Arrested.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The coroner's inquest in the case of the late Mr. Bartlett, a merchant of Pimlico, who it is alleged was killed by chloroform administered by his wife, who wished to marry a Mr. Dyson, a Wesleyan minister, was resumed to-day. Mr. Dyson in his testimony to-day declared that Mrs. Bartlett asked him to buy chloroform with which to quiet her husband, who was restless at night; that he bought pure chloroform in small quantities at three different shops, pretending that he wished to remove stains from clothing with it; that he had asked Mrs. Bartlett after her husband's death what she had done with the chloroform, and that she replied with an oath that she had never used it. Mr. Bartlett left his property to Mrs. Bartlett and appointed Mr. Dyson executor of his will. Mrs. Bartlett was arrested this evening. Mr. Dyson has been bound over to appear as a witness.

A STRANGE PHYSICIAN.

He Waits on a Lady in Confinement and Disappears With the Child.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Feb. 11.—Friday night Mrs. Chas. S. Hogan, wife of a Pennsylvania railroad conductor, called a little boy who was passing her house and asked him to get her a physician. In a few minutes the boy returned with a tall man who said he was Dr. Sayers. As Mrs. Hogan was in a critical condition she accepted his services. He immediately, she says, put her under the influence of ether. When she recovered from the effects of the drug she was alone in the room. The child of which she had been delivered had disappeared, and the only evidence of its existence left in the room was a small package which contained a little curl of golden hair. There is no physician in Jersey City of the name of Sayers. The police are searching for the alleged doctor and the boy who brought him to the house.

MORRISON'S TARIFF BILL.

Probable Changes in the Present List—A Fight Expected.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—It is probable that amendments will be added to Morrison's tariff bill fixing the rate on silks at a specific equivalent of the present ad valorum rates. There is pretty good reason to believe that Morrison will propose no reduction in the rates upon wool. It is, however, almost certain that the bill will reduce rates upon carpet wool which do not come into competition with wool grown in this country. A bitter contest is expected over the free list. It seems probable that lumber and salt and some of the metallic ores will be put in it. It is expected that a large vote will be cast for free lumber from the agricultural states and the western cattle growers and packers will be in earnest in favor of free salt. The calculations made by experts show that the reductions in the aggregate will not be great.

A Self-Confessed Murderer.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Feb. 11.—A stranger came to the Lehigh county prison this afternoon and confessed to having murdered John Sharpless, the old quaker farmer, near Chester, on November 22 last. He made the confession, because, as he said, he did not want to see the negro Johnson, now under arrest, hanged for a crime that he had committed himself.

LONG ISLAND CITY, L. I., Feb. 11.—Three hundred bodies of soldiers from the burying ground on Governor's island were to-day deposited in new graves in the National cemetery, Cypress Hill, Newtown. Making a Lord Chancellor.

Cable Correspondence New York Herald.

Doubtless the Herald readers will be interested to know how lord chancellors are made. The process is much like a spectacle on the mimic stage. Time—To-day. Scene—The almost deserted house of lords, sparsely lighted. Three ladies sit in the gallery, one the proud wife of the new official. There are more clerks and flunkeys present than peers. Enter Sir Farrer Herschell, Q.C., attired in the silk gown he wore at the bar—as yet he is but a simple knight. Preceding him is Sir Albert Woods, garter king of arms, who has invested five kings and one emperor with the garter. He wears a herald's coat, stiff and blazoned with gold, and carries a black velvet purse, supposed to contain the uncountable wealth of royalty.

Sir Albert looks grand. Sir Farrer is as nervous as an amateur debutant. They cross the house to the woolsack, R. C. The usher uncovers the throne. The Queen is now supposed to be present and to her kneels the debutant, and then he rises. All stand. Lord Granville announces the new dignitary as Baron Herschell. A second procession is formed as before, crossing, L. C., to the robing room. The new baron, nervously watching and copying the movements of Stage Manager Woods, re-enters, accompanied by two old lords, full robed. Baron Herschell ditto for the first time. Lady Herschell, prouder than ever, sits in the gallery thinking over her next new finery.

On reaching the throne the old "business" of genuflexion is gone through. The baron places his patent of nobility on the cushion of the throne, salutes the invisible Queen and returns to the woolsack. He hands the patent to a clerk for filing, and the latter gives the lord chancellor the privy purse. He is over-anxious about sitting on the woolsack, but the long, silken cords of the purse get entangled in his legs and robes. All smile. The herald assists to loosen them, as becomes the garter king. The fifty thousand dollar chancellor is then congratulated by his twenty-five thousand a year pensioned predecessors, Lords Selborne and Halsbury. A general business of congratulations by the thirteen remaining peers present is gone through as the new voter for home rule in the house of its enemies begins his labors.

Several Arrests Made—The Affair Being Greatly Exaggerated.

OTTAWA, Feb, 11.—In reply to inquiries made in the department to-day regarding the mutiny among the mounted police at Edmonton, Mr. Fred White, comptroller, said he thought the reports were greatly exaggerated. Some half dozen men, in the outside, had been guilty of acts of insubordination, the exact nature of which he did not know, and they had been arrested and were awaiting trial by court-martial. With regard to the rumored continuation of the mutiny and the locking up of the commanding officer, he had not received any information and believed it to be a fabrication.

IN AN UNCOMFORTABLE POSITION.

The Deputy Sheriff at Batoche Fearful of an Indian Rising.

MONTREAL, Feb. 11.—Mr. Adelard Forget, deputy sheriff at Batoche, writes to his brother in the recorder's court here a letter, in which he makes the following remarks regarding the much-talked-of Indian rising in the spring: "Speaking of Indians, you may tell the brave Canadian volunteers to keep their arms clean and their powder dry. The only way to prevent an outbreak in spring is by the immediate despatch of at least 2000 men to the south to prevent the hordes from crossing over into the northwest. I can tell you things are not at all reassuring here, and I feel very much afraid myself. The Indians don't like me very much since I took part at the execution of the Indian murderers last year. I take pretty good care, but at the same time I don't feel any too secure."

WAS HIS WIFE THE THIEF?

An Untrustworthy Broker's Charge Against His Better Half.

MONTREAL, Feb. 11.—A sensational story is published here to the effect that a city broker, who was recently handed $12,000 to keep for a friend, entered one of the city clubs on his way home, where he lost a small portion of the sum at a game of draw, and subsequently another sum at a card table in a hotel. When he reached home he left the remaining $11,000 in his pocket, and when he awoke next morning the money was gone, and the broker suspects his wife of taking it, although she stoutly denies all knowledge of it.

A Big Railway Suit.

Dr. McMichael, as the instance of Alexander Macdonald, railroad contractor, has entered suit against the Northwest Central Railway company for $139,000 and interest since November 1, 1883. The amount sued for is for work done on the old Souris and Rocky Mountain railway, which has since passed into new hands under the name of the Northwest Central Railway company, of which James Beaty, jr., M.P., is president, who says his company is not the responsible party. The case will shortly be heard at Osgoode hall.

Moose v. Horse.

Alex. Scott's moose, which has been wintering at the Humber, trotted a mile on the ice track against Charlie Telford's mare Nellie, Wednesday, beating the mare easily in 2.20, at least that is the time shown by an ancient chronometer that never was known to tell a lie. STUDENT, LAWYER, JUDGE

BRILLIANT PROFESSIONAL BANQUET AT OSGOODE HALL

Under the Auspices of the York Law Association and Osgoode Literary and Legal Society.

A dozen judges and upwards of 200 Q. C.'s, barristers and students sat down to dinner last night in Convocation hall, at Osgoode hall, as amicably as though all had been of the same rank. The banquet was the inaugural jubilee of the newly formed County of York Law association and was given under the auspices of that body in conjunction with the Osgoode Literary and Legal society, the student organization. An efficient committee had made arrangements that enabled everything to go off without a hitch. Harry Webb catered in his best style and from judge to first year student all did his tempting meal ample justice. The menu card was tastefully executed and bore a most amusing lot of quotations. A string band in the gallery furnished music. On the dais at the front of the hall was laid a table at which sat B. B. Osler, Q. C., president of the Law association and chairman of the dinner, Chief Justice Wilson, Chancellor Boyd, Justice Burton, Justice Ferguson, Justice Rose, Justice Proudfoot, Justice Patterson, Judge Sinclair (Hamilton), Judge McPherson (Owen Sound), Judge McKuscon (Lennox and Addington), Judge Clark (Northumberland and Durham), Christopher Robinson, Q.C., James Beaty, Q.C., M.P., Thomas Robertson, Q.C., M.P. (Hamilton), Æmilius Irving, Q.C., (Hamilton), Hon. Wm. McDougall, C.B., Q.C., (Ottawa), Wm. Lount, Q.C., E. H. Britton, Q.C., (Kingston), and J. J. McLaren, Q.C. Among the legal notabilities present were Charles Moss, Q.C., James Tilt, Q.C., S. J. Vankoughnet, Q.C., W. A. Reeve, C. H. Ritchie, Q.C., J. Hoskin, Q.C., W. R. Meredith, Q.C., John Bain, Q.C., F. Arnold, T. D. Delamere, Q. McMichael, J. A. Worrell, Huson Murray, E. Douglas Armour, J. A. Patterson, F. Lefroy, G. S. Shepley, G. A. McKenzie, A. B. Aylesworth, G. T. Blackstock, Walter Barwick, C. J. Holman, J. H. Macdonald, H. Ferguson, A. B. Cox, John Leys, J. Haverson, N. Murphy, N. G. Bigelow, P. H. Drayton, A. H. Marsh, J. H. Eston, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Teetzel and Mr. Grier, of Hamilton, and a host of others.

The proceedings were of the liveliest possible description, in fact, as Mr. Osler said in one of his speeches, he had never seen so much enthusiasm to the square yard before. The speeches leaned toward the humorous, and the speakers showed themselves possessed of an abundance of after dinner wit as well as of that sterling common sense which has won our Ontario jurists their exalted position.

The toast to the Queen was drunk first. That to the governor-general and lieutenant-governors was to have followed but was postponed to await the coming of Governor Robinson. His honor not putting in an appearance, the toast was proposed later in the evening by Mr. Nesbitt. Canada was proposed by A. D. Hardy and replied to by Chancellor Boyd. We have, said his lordship, a country as large as the whole of Europe, a confederacy of self-governing colonies. There is no country in the world except the United States where so august and dignified a responsibility has been reposed on the governing body. Canada had great possibilities, and it was safe to assume that in time she would rank among the foremost of nations. Lachine was rightly named. We would soon see the fructifying British commerce pass through our land on the way to the great countries in the east. Our supply of food and timber was inexhaustible. The Northwest had been reserved as the great granary of the world. The mountains were storehouses of wealth. We have the essential of freedom in our own grasp. We have the right to create and enforce laws.

Hon. Wm. McDougall proposed The Bench. The system under which our judges were chosen was the one to give the best results. It could not be improved on. It was deplorable that the salary attached to the position was altogether too small. Chief Justice Wilson responded. The toast had been received as enthusiastically as he had supposed it would have been. The harmony between our bench and bar was well known and this good feeling had been brought about in great part by his predecessors. He instanced the late Sir John Beverley Robinson, Sir J. Macaulay and Hon. Messrs. McLean, Draper, Richards, Harrison, Moss, Blake, Vankoughnet and others. The bench should always be stronger than the bar, and the only way to retain it so was to attach a large enough salary to induce our best men to aspire to judgeships.

Mr. John Lawson, in a speech glowing with love for his profession, proposed the Bar. J. J. McLaren in answering for the Senior Bar, said that the glory of the Ontario bar was due not so much to the men of the past as to the men of the present. Before he had come to Toronto he had heard and knew that the lawyers of Ontario lead the legal profession in Canada and on the other side of the water he had heard of the ability displayed by lawyers from Ontario who had pleaded before the privy council. One of the greatest calamities which could befall any bar and which had befallen the bar of Quebec was the system of decentralization. He trusted that the Ontario bar would always be one, and that there would never creep into its midst any such hurtful influence. Christopher Robinson, Q.C., in response to a vociferous call, said that he was sure he spoke for the benchers when he said that it was their aim to make Osgoode hall as much as possible like the home whose place nothing could supply. J. S. Fullerton answered for the Junior Bar. The young were determined to rise and would do so.

The chairman called on Mr. Winderness of the Philadelphia bar. He was deeply grateful for the hospitality extended to him. He was not able to represent what he considered an ideal American lawyer, "but he wished to remark, and his language was plain, that for ways that were dark and tricks that were vain, the American lawyer was peculiar." The American bar was a strange one. Law there was, but not always justice. The speaker did not know how it was here. ["Same here," from a student.] He claimed for American lawyers brotherhood with their Canadian fellows.

F. A. Anglin proposed the County of York Law association. As a student he was glad to see the success of an association in the advantages to be derived from which all students wished to participate. He congratulated the association on what they had already done, and was sure that the brilliant inauguration was but a prelude to what was to come. The chairman, as first president of the association, responded. The birth of the association was that of a healthy infant, and at this, its christening feast there had been abundance of enthusiasm. In the young men present the older gentlemen saw their "ancestors, the students, and the protoplasms of judges." The association was destined to be a democratic institution. He explained its objects. The law society was not calculated to afford social enjoyment. "Compare the treatment you have received at our hands from that which you have had at the hands of the law society in this room. You came here to-night happy and free. You have come in here before in fear and trembling to be emptied of all you knew."

Charles Moss, Q.C., proposed the Osgoode Literary and Legal society, viewing it in its social and educational lights. He hoped to see a college of law established in affiliation with the university of Toronto. Wallace Nesbitt, president of the society, responded.

Sister Associations was proposed by Wm. Lount, Q.C., and answered by Æmilius Irving, Q.C., of Hamilton, and Mr. Burnham of London. The latter gentleman did not agree with Mr. McLaren on decentralization. It was a system we were bound to have.

Mr. Grier of Hamilton spoke of the sentiment that seemed to be concurred in by all present as to the opulence of the bar and the bread and water pittance of the bench. He wanted to know if a single barrister had ever lifted a finger to alter all this. The social and political influence of the bar was such that, if they as one man made a request, the existing order of things would be immediately changed.

A. B. Cox, a young lawyer from London, proposed The Ladies, and A. M. Grier, curator of the Literary and Legal society, answered for them. During the evening songs were sung by Messrs. Hardy, Geddes, Grier, Kershaw and others.

"YOU CANNOT LEGALIZE WRONG."

The Mayor Expresses Himself on the Reduction of Liquor Licenses.

Chairman Defoe, Ald. Lamb, Carlyle, Irwin, Elliott, James, M. J. Woods, Pepler, Saunders and Steiner were present at a quiet meeting of the executive committee yesterday afternoon. The chairman read Ald. Boustead's bylaw to enact that the fee paid for tavern licenses during the next year be $260, and for shop licenses $200; that the number of tavern licenses shall not exceed 150, and shop licenses 50. The bylaw had been referred to the committee for consideration before it received its third reading. The mayor said that the council could not increase the present $150 fee by any more than $50 without submitting the question to the people. The city treasurer explained that the council would derive all the benefit from the increase. The mayor said that the desired reduction might be obtained by limiting the issue of licenses to legally appointed houses only. Ald. Pepler said that it would be wrong, without compensation, to turn seventy-six men out of what was recognized as a legal occupation. "You cannot legalize wrong, Mr. Pepler," said the mayor. The chairman suggested that as it would require a two-thirds vote of the council to overthrow any recommendation the committee might make, and as it was desirable that the question should be given a fair discussion, the bylaw should be sent to the council without recommendation. His suggestion was followed out.

The reports from the various committees were passed without alteration.

The County Attorneyship and East York.

It is generally reported that G. W. Badgerow, M.P.P. for East York, is to succeed the late Mr. Fenton as county attorney. If he does, the seat in the legislature will become vacant, and aspirants thereto are numerous as usual. Ald. Frankland (cattle dealer), G. B. Smith (merchant), Joseph Tait (baker), Joseph Gibson (Yorkville), and John Richardson (ex-warden of York), are possible reform candidates. Mr. Boultbee, it is said, is not willing to carry the conservative banner in a local election; other names mentioned are those of Ald. James, Ald. Saunders and B. Norton, of Norway.

June Musical Festival.

A rehearsal of choruses from Israel in Egypt and Mors et Vita, held at Philharmonic hall last night, was largely attended by members of the central division of the city and by new applicants for admission to the chorus. Properly qualified singers, who have not yet joined the chorus, can for a short time have their names enrolled, for any section of the city, at the secretary's office, 14 Adelaide street east, between 11 and 12 or 2 and 3 o'clock. No practice will take place at St. Andrew's hall next Monday; the members in that division will, instead, meet on the following Thursday (for next week only) at Philharmonic hall.

Activity of the Sneak Thief.

A sneak thief entered Noble's grocery store at Wilton avenue and Seaton street yesterday afternoon, and robbed the till of $7.

While Mrs. Kennedy, of 230 Ontario street, was out purchasing some groceries some one sneaked a gold watch and chain and several articles of silverware from the house.

Thos. Reed, grocer, at 702 Yonge street, is out $40 by a visit from one of the gentry. A neighboring tradesman was similarly honored, though to a smaller extent.

McBurney, builder, Lindsay, will shortly meet over at the falls to pass upon the value of the property proposed to be set apart as a park. The Niagara Falls Park commission will represent the province in the matter. After the arbitrators have made their award the commission will report the whole matter to the government. If the arbitrators get to work at once it may be possible to settle everything before the end of the present session of the legislature.

Repairs to the City Hall.

Ald. Galley, Irwin and Frankland were present at a meeting yesterday afternoon of the city hall sub-committee. The various departments in the building were inspected. It was decided to recommend the lowering of the floor in the waterworks department three feet and to recommend the insertion of five wickets to facilitate the receiving of water rate payments. It was also decided to recommend the council through the property committee to advertise for tenders for an electric bell system connecting the departments.

RIOTS AT LEICESTER.

STRIKERS SMASH WINDOWS AND ASSAULT THE POLICE.

Incendiary Placards at Birmingham—Meeting of the Unemployed at Norwich, Jarrow and Other Places.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—A despatch from Leicester says the hosiery operatives here are out on strike. They are parading the streets and smashing windows. The police in endeavouring to disperse them met with some personal violence.

A later despatch states that the police charged the strikers but were unable to disperse them. Four arrests have been made.

Placards have been posted in Birmingham calling a meeting of the unemployed workmen for Monday next. The placards are headed: "Come, you thousands. Why starve amidst plenty? Justice to the starving poor!"

A large meeting of unemployed workmen was held at Norwich last night for the purpose of urging the authorities to give to the unemployed laborers and mechanics work on the new barracks, schools and jails, instead of employing convicts. The meeting was orderly. Similar meetings were held at Jarrow and elsewhere.

THE MASSEY STRIKE OVER.

Barns' Teamsters Organizing.

Barns' coal teamsters had a procession yesterday morning and a meeting at Dufferin hall yesterday afternoon for the purpose of organizing. They say they are going to stand up for their rights and be slaves no longer, as Mr. Burns has been sitting on them too long. They number about forty. Mr. Burns says he expected to meet the men at 1 o'clock and talk the matter over, but they failed to appear. He seems perfectly indifferent whether they come back or not.

THE ADDIE DAVIS JURY.

They Comment on the Police Court Proceedings Against Them.

The summons for obtaining liquor during prohibited hours issued by Inspector Dexter at the instance of the informer Coby against the Addie Davis jury on Jan. 2, having been disposed of by the police magistrate, a meeting of the jurymen was held, at which a statement was drawn up for publication:

Coby the informer, we regret to say, was a fellow-juryman and was, if any crime was committed, the sole instigator, he having importuned our foreman to ask the coroner for the order to obtain the refreshment, and volunteered his services to obtain it for us. He was not content with the great ease he had established against us, but volunteered to get further refreshments at the Little York hotel, but we fortunately declined the informer's liberality. We would suggest to Inspector Dexter the desirability of assuring himself of the law being broken before he puts twenty-two respectable citizens to the indignity of police court proceedings without any foundation; and further, when the inspector finds that he has made a mistake, not to waste the time of men by asking for a remand from day to day, and then withdraw proceedings without one word of explanation. And we further suggest to whoever was responsible for this man being placed amongst us—as we have reason to believe he was placed amongst us for the express purpose of entrapping us into committing a crime—the indecency of such a proceeding and trust that no future body of men sworn to inquire and render a verdict into the cause of death of a fellow being will have the misfortune of having their time wasted by such vexatious and
