LIBRARY FURNISHINGS.

A Five Piece Set That You Can Make at Home. An interesting use of cretonne, brocade or any of the many materials which one encounters in the search for library fixings is shown in a set of five articles, all for the library, and which, when separated, will not give that fixed look of having everything to match.

Next there is a runner for the library or living room table. This is very plain, with ends braided or showing set on pieces of the plain or figured material, as the case may be.

A cover for the telephone book is another member of the set. It is lined with the contrasting material and well made with either buckram or light pasteboard foundation to give a real support to the paper covered book.

With the telephone goes a screen of cardboard covered with the selected material and lined with the contrasting one. The screen is threefold, and the middle portion is higher than the side wings.

A portfolio for the desk uses more of the material. It, too, can be made from a lightweight cardboard and is lined with contrasting material.

Uses For Glycerin. Tea stains on linen should be rubbed with glycerin before the article is laundered to prevent the yellow discoloration.

Glycerin should be added to hot lemonade in place of sugar for a cold. It makes the remedy more efficacious.

When black kid gloves become shabby rub them with equal parts of glycerin and black ink. This is a good dressing for black leather of any sort.

some of the dampness and to help them keep their shape.

Use a few drops of glycerin and a small lump of borax to a quart of water when wiping off paint or oilcloth if you wish to have the polish of new articles.

A New Brim Line.

There is a strong tendency toward the front flare in the new transparent and felt hats. While this brim line is not becoming to many faces it can be so arranged that the flare comes at one side or tip tilted. A bit of soft fringed braid or a twist of silk help also to relieve the severity.

MORE MEN THAN WOMEN HAVE APPENDICITIS

Surgeons state men are slightly more subject to appendicitis than women. Watford people should know that a few doses of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika, often relieve or prevent appendicitis.

AN OVERSEAS MINISTER

NEW OFFICE HAS BEEN CREATED IN DOMINION CABINET.

Sir George Perley Will Undertake the Task of Looking After Canada's Interest in Great Britain and Will Look Also After Efficiency and Welfare of the Expeditionary Forces.

SIR GEORGE PERLEY has been appointed Minister of the Canadian Overseas Forces in Great Britain, and will preside over a sub-militia council which it is intended to establish there.

"During his recent visit to Great Britain the Minister of Militia gave very careful consideration to more effective arrangements in connection with the overseas forces, and reached the conclusion that a committee or sub-militia council ought to be established.

"The forces already despatched by Canada for overseas service in Europe number about 258,000. The expenditure involved in the organization, maintenance, equipment, and direction overseas of these forces is very great, and every available effort must be made to assure not only the highest degree of efficiency, but the most thorough and prompt co-operation of the overseas forces with those of the Mother Country and of the other dominions, as well as the most economical and careful administration of the means which are appropriated for that purpose.

"The necessary orders-in-Council for the purpose have been passed, and Sir George Perley, who for two years has been resident in London, discharging the duties of High Commissioner, has been selected by the Prime Minister to undertake the duties and responsibilities of Minister of the Overseas Forces. He will bring to the important responsibilities which he has undertaken qualities and experience which will enable him to give splendid service to the country in the discharge of his duties."

Good Results Already Seen.

The first results from the working of the Ontario Temperance Act will be found in the cities, and already these results are becoming known. Lieut.-Colonel Grassett, Chief Constable of Toronto, in a statement covering the six weeks following the sixteenth of September, comments on the marked change in conditions. For the period from September 15 to October 15, 1915, there were in Toronto 1,059 arrests for drunkenness, and for the same period this year, which is concurrent with the operation of the new law, there were only 214.

"Evidence of satisfaction with this era of prohibition is being given constantly by men who were never known to be temperance advocates," says Colonel Grassett, and he cites several cases where individuals have been benefited by the Act, and one hotelkeeper who acknowledges that the bar was an abomination and he was glad to see it go.

The economic advantage, which is principally what was in the minds of the Government when the law was proposed, is equally significant. There is a marked absence of loitering around hotels now, and many former habitués are now seen in the company of their families and the necessities of life are taking the place of the whiskey glass. It would seem that the Ontario Temperance Act, given the same reasonable enforcement in the future that it has received so far, is going to prove popular, and will at the same time meet every reasonable demand that exists for restricting the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Canada's First Farmer.

The first farmer settler in Canada who lived on the produce of the soil was Louis Hebert, an apothecary from Paris, who landed in Quebec in 1617 with his wife and children, and at once started to clear and cultivate the soil on what is now the site of the Cathedral of Quebec, the Seminary, and part of the Upper Town. With a spade as his only tool he worked and re-worked the soil until it was ready to receive seed. He threw in seed from France, planted apple and rose trees, and at last saw waving in the breeze the golden grain, the flowers, and fruits from his motherland.

A Wonderful Record.

It is stated that the British have not lost a gun in the whole Somme offensive; and it is probable that this is the only offensive in the war that can boast of such a wonderful record.

Spraying For Codling Moth.

In answer to a correspondent who asks when it is necessary to spray for the codling moth and whether spraying for the San Jose scale will hurt trees already in bloom, Zoologist H. A. Surface of the Pennsylvania department of agriculture says:

"It is always considered necessary to spray all apple, pear and quince trees for this pest when they are bearing fruit. If there is no fruit on your trees there is no need to spray for codling moth. As you doubtless know, this is the insect that makes wormy apples, pears and quinces. Every good fruit grower sprays for this pest, if for no other. The first spraying is made shortly after the petals or flowers fall, and the second spraying is made about a month from that date.

The material that should be used is one gallon and one quart of strong lime sulphur solution, either homemade or commercial, in forty-nine gallons of water, and to this is added either one pound of dry arsenate of lead or two pounds of arsenate of lead paste. For the second spray use the same material as for the first.

"Where you have much San Jose scale present it is a good plan to wash all the bark of trunks or twigs that can be reached with a paint brush dipped in very strong lime sulphur solution or very strong thick soap solution, or spray the infested trees when the young are crawling on the bark with tobacco decoction, kerosene emulsion or soap solution. After the leaves drop this fall spray again with the strong lime sulphur solution."

"THREE C'S" OF MILK CARE.

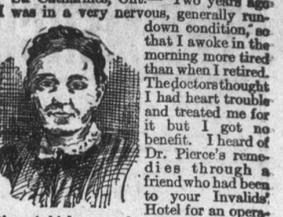

Dairy specialists have evolved a simple little formula for the care of milk in the home, and the same formula will apply to keeping milk anywhere. It is the rule of the "Three C's," the "C's" standing for "Clean" and "Cold" and "Covered." Excellent rules for the dairyman everywhere, even though they were written with the consumer of the milk in mind. That first rule should be one of the cowkeeper's articles of faith, the second one means a well filled icehouse for the farm, and the third and last means care and forethought—Farm Progress.

PERSONAL.

St. Catharines, Ont.—"Two years ago I was in a very nervous, generally run-down condition, so that I awoke in the morning more tired than when I retired. The doctors thought I had heart trouble and treated me for it but I got no benefit. I heard of Dr. Pierce's remedies through a friend who had been to your Invalids' Hotel for an operation (which proved entirely successful) and I at once got the 'Favorite Prescription.' I took three bottles altogether and at the end of three weeks I felt entirely cured and have been well and strong since, without a single bad spell. I stopped taking it about three months ago and am glad to tell any one how splendidly your medicine has healed me."—Mrs. JOHN LEWIN, 53 Niagara St., St. Catharines, Ont.

The mighty restorative power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription speedily causes all womanly troubles to disappear and brings back health and strength to nervous, irritable and exhausted women.

It is a wonderful prescription prepared only from nature's roots and herbs with no alcohol to falsely stimulate and no narcotic to wreck the nerves. It banishes pain, headache, backache, low spirits, hot flashes, worry and sleeplessness surely and without loss of time.

Double Stars.

A double star is one which consists of two stars lying close together and revolving in an orbit. For some time Professor Comstock, astronomer of the University of Wisconsin, has made a particular study of this feature in the heavens.

A new phenomenon is a double star which he noticed was that two bright stars "wobbled" and did not have the usual steady appearance. At length the conclusion was reached that this condition was caused by a dark star in close proximity to the two bright stars. Such a situation was considered impossible at first, but analysis revealed that the two bright stars could thus exist with a dark star without breaking down. Although the dark star has never been seen, there is sufficient proof to justify the belief that it is the cause of this double star's peculiar behavior. It revolves about the double star about once in a little less than twelve years.

Diplomacy.

Billy was sending out invitations to his birthday party.

"I don't think I would mention the birthday," advised his mother. "It looks so much like asking for a present."

To this Billy demurred violently, but was finally persuaded to yield the point. For a long time he thought deeply. Then, solving the problem, he asked:

"Well, mother, we won't say anything about the birthday, but don't you think that we might put the picture of a cake with candles at the top of the paper?"

Never Had to Replace a Bridge.

"I suppose you have to go to a great deal of expense to get thrills?" "Not always," said the movie producer, "not if you study your audiences."

"For instance?" "Well, if the heroine gets grease on a pair of white gloves the women spectators will become just as excited as they would over the blowing up of a bridge."

A Mean Insinuation.

"Why," writes one of these propounders of unanswerable questions, "does a girl always shut her eyes when a man kisses her?" Send us your photograph and perhaps we can tell you the reason.—Toldo Blade.

A Solemn Ceremony.
