

Sitting Bull, their chief, still walketh,
And that with them still he talketh.
Though his outward form be hidden,
He will come and go unbidden,
Working for the elevation
Of his poor, down-trodden nation.
This is Sitting Bull's desire,
'Tis his Heaven! he seeks none higher.

