THE LESSON IT TEACHES.

THE NORTHWEST REVIEW is the organ of the Catholic minority and it has ever been true, according to its best judgment, to the highest interests of that minority. If, therefore, it supported with all its power, the government of Sir Charles Tupper, it was not because of the party he led, but because of the stand he took in favor of the restoration of the constitusional rights of the minority in this province. If the school policy of the Dominion Government received our most hearty approval it was because in our judgment, that policy was just and equitable to the minority. We believed then, and do yet believe, that Sir Charles Tupper was honestly desirous of restoring to us our constitutional rights and privileges, and we sincerely regretted the defeat of his government on the 23rd of June. The broad and statesman-like words of the premier the day after his defeat, when he said that he was prepared to assist Mr. Laurier in settling the school question in a constitutional manner, after Catholic Quebec had declared for his opponent, are the greeting to Iolanthe in the opening scene, best proof of the sincerity of his promises for Instance, is thus paraphrased by and of his loyal adhesion to the Constitution. These words place Sir Charles Tupper in a noble light before the Canadian people.

Now that the smoke of battle has cleared away and the result can be dispassionately reviewed, many lessons can be drawn from it by no means displeasing to the minority in this province. Just on the eve of that battle, the Toronto Globe said that the success of the Conservative party in Manitoba, and espectally in Winnipeg, would be proof positive that the people were in favor of remedial legislation. Well, the result is before us, and there cannot be any further doubt that the electors of Manitoba are anxious that the school question be settled. While the Toronto Globe was making this appeal to the people of Manitoba, Mr. Laurier's chief organ in Quebec, l'Electeur, made the following announcement:

"Let this fact be well remembered All the Liberal candidates have pledged themselves in writing to vote in favor of a remedial bill such as is demanded by our bishops. No Conservative candidate has yet taken this solemn engage

And what has been the result? The Liberal party, every candidate of which was pledged in writing to vote in favor or a remedial bill, has been sustained with the overwhelming majority of 48 to 15. Can there remain, then, a doubt of what are the wishes of the electorate of Canada on this question? In the Protestant provinces of the Dominion. as a whole, where the Liberals appealed to the prejudices of the electorate to defeat Sir Charles Tupper because he had pledged himself to support the claims of the minority of Manitoba, he was sustained, while in the Catholic province of Quebec where "all the Liberal candidates had pledged themselves in writing to vote in favor of a remedial bill such as is demanded by the bishops," Mr. Laurier is sustained by the largest majority that that province has ever given to any party on any question since or before Confederation.

What lessons are to be drawn from these facts, if not that both Protestants and Catholics are a unit in declaring that the grievances of the minority must be at once settled on the broad lines of the constitution, and in accordance with the judgment of the Privy

Protestant Canada has told Manitoba that they wish it to settle this question forthwith and to restore to the Catholics of Manitoba the rights and privileges which the school act of 1890 abrogated, while the Province of Quebec tells us in equally unequivocal language, that if we fail to do so, the parliament of Canada will pass a remedial bill, and Sir Charles Tupper says that he is prepared to help them to do so. Under these circumstances, and in view of the verdict in our own province on the 23rd of June, what should the Manitoba government do but obey? If we wish to preserve country and ignore the mandate of the people; if we do not court interference with the authority of the province, we will take the earliest opportunity of removing the grievances of the minority and constitutionally settling for ever this vexed and troublesome question. It will be in the interests of this province and those of the Liberal party generally to do so. If the government of Manitoba wishes to approach this question in an honest and statesmanlike manner, they may safely rely upon the help and sympathy of the minority in their labors.

The boys, from the six-year-old page of the Chancellor to that venerable dignitary himself, who has reached the mature age of fifteen years, entered into the spirit of the opera with almost as much zest as they display in mastering the difficulties of arithmetic, history, etc., in their ordinary studies. The opera was thoroughly staged and mounted, and the costumes had all been made especially for this production. Professor Ernest Nyer's orchestra did justice to the music, conducted by the Rev. J. B. OLD CALIFORNIA MISSIONS.

A Club Formed With the Object of Preserving these Relics.

Californians have at last come to appreciate the commercial as well as the historic, intellectual and artistic value of their old missions. The auspicious awakening has taken shape in the organization of the "Landmarks Club," which was incorporated at Los Angeles in January last. The Club's express purpose, says a writer in Donahoe's, is "to conserve the old missions and other California landmarks." Charles F. Lummis, the well-known litterateur, was the prime mover in the formation of the club, and is its first president. His thorough knowledge of Spanish-American history, and his many years travel among the descendants of the early settlers and the Indians themselves, render him familiar with every detail of the highest court in the realm; if we do sacred relics at heart, for art's sake, if not wish to defy the constitution of the nothing more. Among the names on the board of directors is that of Rev. J. Adam, Vicar General of the diocese of Monterey and Los Angeles, the only Catholic name among the club's officers. But this is a patriotic work in which all citizens are united for the preservation of the noblest ruins in their country; ruins that symbolize the faith, energy, humanity, and art of the men who first kindled the light of civilization and Christianity on the Pacific coast.

The widespread recognition which has already rewarded the club's efforts has been a surprise even to itself. Subscriptions have been sent in from far and near. A handsome sum is now on hand, and work has already been begun on the mission San Juan Capistrano. This and the mission San Luis Rey will, as they are considered the most important links in the chain, have the club's first attention. All work will be designed by and executed under the direction of the club's official architect. A long lease of the grounds and buildings at Capistrano has been secured, with a right to purchase in case the property should ever be offered for sale. Thus it can be seen that the good work of preservation is well under way, and will not be relaxed until the missions in Southern California are safe. When this shall have been accomplished there will be still higher things to do.

Archbishop Elder's Good Advice.

To a dear friend who had spoken of having a fashionable evening wedding, Archbishop Elder, of Cincinnati, said:

"I hope you will follow the good old Catholic custom so particularly favored by the Church, of being married at Mass. I think if you were to see it once, and understand the particular prayer and blessings used on that occasion, you would be willing to break through fashion, convenience and every obstacle, in order to profit by these graces. It is the only sacrament, except that of Holy Orders, for which there are any particular prayers introduced into the Mass itself. If it be contrary to fashion, you will have no little merit in showing that much independence, and still more in doing your share towards introducing a holier fashion that will multiply blessings upon yourself and the one you have chosen to be your life companion."
