ECONOMIC SANCTIONS

The imposition of economic sanctions against foreign states continues to be an extremely active area of international law.

Most commonly, the determination of whether such sanctions will be imposed against individual states is made at first instance by the United Nations Security Council. Under Chapter VII of the UN Charter, the Security Council is authorized, following debate among member countries, to adopt United Nations Security Council Resolutions requiring member states to impose sanctions.

Once adopted by the Security Council, such Resolutions become international law treaty obligations of Canada as a signatory of the UN Charter, and are implemented under Canadian domestic law via Regulations authorized pursuant to United Nations Act, R.S.C., c.U-3.

The following are the United Nations Security Council Resolutions which have been adopted under Chapter VII of the UN Charter imposing trade, commercial and financial sanctions, and which have been given effect in Canada pursuant to the United Nations Act, currently in force.
