

- lets, 1, 341; Finding of the Pharaohs, 1, 343; Identification of Rameses II, as the Pharaoh of the oppression, 1, 343; Treasure cities of Goshen, 1, 347; Discoveries of Maspero, Mariette Bey, Flinders, Petrie and others, 1, 344; The Empire of the Hittites, 1, 348; Lost cities of Petra, Bozrah and Tadmor, 1, 351; Recent Discoveries in Palestine, 1, 352; The Palestine Exploration Fund, 1, 354; Robinson's and Wilson's arches, 1, 357; Aqueduct of Hezekiah, 1, 358; Important Biblical manuscripts, 1, 359; The Codex Sinaiticus and the romance of its discovery, 1, 359; The Didache, or "Teaching of the Twelve," 1, 361; The Syriac Gospels, 1, 362; The "Grafito" of the crucifixion, 1, 364.
- Architecture. The one obvious lesson architecture has taught, xxii, 365; The aims of modern architecture, xxii, 365; The most hopeful outlook now in America, xxii, 366; Nineteenth century architecture in France divides into five periods, xxii, 366; Two imitative schools in England followed by true Gothic revival, xxii, 368; Civil engineering architecture, xxii, 369; The Ferro-Vitreous development, xxii, 370; Architecture, once the first, now follows the other arts, a juster equipoise, the ideal of art, xxii, 370.
- Armstrong, John. (Secretary of War in the United States), Laughs at threatened invasion of Washington by the British, xx, 156; Forced to retire in favor of Monroe, v, 73.
- Arnold, Matthew. Born in 1822 and educated at Rugby and Balliol College, 11, 119; Becomes Inspector of Schools, 11, 119; Professor of Poetry at Oxford, 11, 119; Dies at Liverpool in 1888, 11, 119; As a poet, 11, 119; As a critic, 11, 247; At his best in his criticism of literature, 11, 248; His criticism of religion, 11, 249.
- Arthur, Chester A., President of the United States: His birth and education, xxi, 305-306; Becomes interested in politics, xxi, 307; Appointed brigadier-general and later quartermaster-general, xxi, 308; Engineer-in-chief and inspector-general, xxi, 308; Appointed collector of customs at the port of New York, xxi, 309; Removed from this service, xxi, 310; Nominated for the vice-presidency of the United States, xxi, 311; His election, xxi, 313; Elevated to the presidency on the assassination of Garfield, v, 366; xxi, 313, 314; His inaugural address, xxi, 315, 316; His cabinet, xxi, 317; His administration, v, 366-372; Increases navy, v, 369; xxi, 321; Improves Mississippi navigation, xxi, 322; Postage reforms, xxi, 322; Fails of renomination, v, 372; His death, xxi, 325.
- Artois, Comte d', Dreads parliamentary government, vi, 413; Head of "The Congregation" in 1828-9, vi, 414.
- Astronomy. An ancient science, xxv, 179; The succession of systems, xxv, 180; The Gravitation Law, xxv, 181; Applications of the Gravitation formula, xxv, 182; Discovery of the Minor Planets, xxv, 183; Discovery of Neptune, xxv, 184; Comets, xxv, 186; The study of the stars, xxv, 188; William Herschel, xxv, 188; Measuring the distance of a star, xxv, 191; Lule of stars, xxv, 195; Nebulae, xxv, 195; "Fixed stars," xxv, 198; Extension of Observational Astronomy, xxv, 199; The Milky Way, xxv, 199; Intensifying of Observation, xxv, 202; The Moon, xxv, 202; Beginnings of Physical Astronomy, xxv, 203; The sun's heat, xxv, 206; Maintenance of Solar Energy, xxv, 207; Collisions and impacts, xxv, 208; Spectrum analysis, xxv, 211; Bunsen and Kirchhoff, xxv, 214; Kirchhoff's Law, xxv, 215; The Evolution Idea in Astronomy, xxv, 220; Meteoritic hypothesis, xxv, 222; Tidal friction, xxv, 223.
- "Ateliers Nationaux," Established at Paris, 1848, vi, 496; Their failure (65,000 individuals working in them), vi, 497.
- Auerstadt, Battle of, Fought in 1806, vi, 247; xvii, 66, 69; Troops of Frederick William dressed in black in memory of the Duke, mortally wounded, xvii, 245.
- Austerlitz, Napoleon's preparations for the battle and brilliant victory, December 2, 1805, vi, 207; Forced on by the impatience of the Allies, vi, 207; The full extent of the victory not understood in England, vi, 209; Quickly appreciated on the continent, vi, 209; The total losses suffered, vi, 211; Other references, xvii, 55, 60, 65, 75, 114, 177, 233.
- Australia. Discovery and arrangements for founding a colony, xi, 1; Foundation of New South Wales, xi, 11; New South Wales as a penal colony, xi, 18; Industrial crisis of 1843 and discovery of gold, xi, 33; The Robertson land acts and the Chinese trouble, xi, 48; Bushranging epoch, xi, 64; New South Wales from 1869 to 1888, xi, 83; Labor troubles, xi, 102; Voyages of Discovery to Victoria, xi, 118; The Hentys at Portland Bay, xi, 126; Batman and Fawkner, xi, 133; Separ-